Senior citizens food program marks first year

Tuesday marked the first anniversary of the nutrition program at Sikeston's Heritage House at 305 Cresap. The program provides hot, nutritious meals at low cost for senior citizens and at slightly higher cost for anyone who cares to eat in the Heritage House program. Crowds have proved the food popular during its first year. The total number of meals served for the year was 39,032. (Daily Standard photo)

Garrison's extradition approved

JACKSON, Miss.---After a nearly three-month battle, Dr. Norman A. Garrison Jr., of Corinth, a former Kennett, Mo., physician, has apparently lost his fight against the extradition request of Dunklin County, Mo., authorities for his return to Missouri to face a first-degree murder charge in connection with the Sept. 8 death of his ex-wife, Lee Ann Garrison.

Mississippi Gov. Bill Waller announced his decision to sign the extradition request at a news conference this morning in the state capitol building. The governor previously had stipulated that certain conditions would have to be met before he would sign the request.

The conditions apparently were met last week when his office received guarantees from Dunklin County authorities that bond would be available to the doctor throughout any and all court preceedings and a prior contempt of court charge against him would be held up until after disposition of the murder charge.

John B. Farese Sr., chief defense counsel for the Corinth physician, said today that he would file a request for a habeas corpus hearing. Informed sources said the request will be filed in Marshall County Circuit Court at Holly Springs.

Jimmy Williams, Waller's legal aide, said he was uncertain whether the official extradition papers would be mailed, or if Missouri authorities would pick them up in person.

Dunklin County Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker had said earlier that bond had been set at $25,000. His correspondence with the Mississippi governor said he would oppose any increase in bail and would fight any effort to increase it.

Waller had announced on Oct. 23 that he would grant extradition if Missouri Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond would guarantee an "irrevocable" bond and meet certain other conditions before he would grant extradition.

Waller cited concern for Dr. Garrison's patients and the fact that "conflicting evidence" was presented during a seven-hour hearing Oct. 10 as grounds for such requests.

Bond replied to Waller that he did not have the authority to enter such an agreement.

The Dunklin County authorities then forwarded papers in which they apparently agreed to comply with Waller's requests.

Informed sources say Dr. Garrison's attorneys have some "explosive evidence" ready to present at the habeas corpus hearing, which is expected to be conducted next week.

The new development in the case may concern a pistol that private investigators believe may be the murder weapon. The gun was confiscated from a former Dunklin County criminal arrested in Tennessee after an armed robbery and kidnaping near Somerville, Tenn., in early November.

Bill to loosen tight housing market approved by Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri Senate gave final approval today, wvly three dissenting votes, to a bill aimed at loosening the state's tight housing market.

The measure now goes to the House for action next week.

An emergency clause was adopted by the same vote—24-3—to put the bill bill into effect when the governor signs it. Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, said St. Louis and Kansas City have redevelopment projects ready to go as soon as the bill, which lifts the 8 per cent cent interest rate ceiling for most large loans, goes into effect.

It also increases the yield on redevelopment bonds from 6 to 10 per cent.

The measure was amended Tuesday to limit points to two and remove the 8 per cent ceiling for real estate loans, corporation loans and bu siness loans of $5,000 or more.

The Senate also gave finally approved and sent to the House four bills lowering the majority age in the state from 21 to 18. They would allow men to marry at 18 without parental consent and permit 18-year-olds to purchase real estate, sign contracts and become notary publics.

The Senate also planned to act a final time on four bills lowering the majority age from 21 to 18. They would allow men to marry at 18 without their parents' consent and allow 18-year-olds to buy real estate, sign a sales contract and get a notary public license.

The state Supreme Court declared unconstitutional a majority rights bill because it did not amend each of the 134 sections of law dealing with majority rights, but merely made a blanket statement saying that whenever the age of 21 was cited, it shall be changed to 18 by the reviser of statutes. The void majority rights law did not affect the right of 18-year-olds to vote or the denial of possession or drinking of alcoholic beverages until the age of 21.

Passed by the Senate and returned to the House was a $10.2 million appropriation bill. Most of the money goes for payments to the blind, disabled and aged, and $444,400 of it will pay for the special legislative session.

The Senate added $75,000 of the taxpayers' money to pay for maintenance, security and snow removal at a parking garage near the Capitol. The Office of Administration, which maintained the garage with funds from parking fees paid by non-legislative state employes, has turned the garage over to the legislature.

Last year, because of a reduction of parking on the Capitol grounds and in the Capitol basement, the legislature took over 100 places in the 287-spot garage.

The Senate Accounts Committee this year asked for more parking spots and the State Board of Public Buildings, made up of the governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general, decided to give legislators the entire garage.

About $220,000 of the appropriations package will go to the secretary of state to help his office gear up for the new campaign reporting law, which takes effect Jan. 1.

Dissenting in the 22-6 adoption of the usury rate bill were Sens. Donald Gralike, D-St. Louis; Emory Melton, R-Cassville; Norman Merrell, D-Monticello; James Noland, R-Osage Beach; Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, and Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann.

Port board to select chairman

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- The first meeting of the Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority will be held at 4 p.m. Monday in the Cape Girardeau Chamber of Commerce office, 601 N. Kingshighway.

The eight-member board is responsible for establishing a port on the Mississippi River to serve Cape Girardeau and Scott counties.

Formation of the board was made possible Nov. 12 when the Missouri Department of Transportation granted the counties the authority to establish a port authority. The two counties had been seeking such a move since mid-summer.

The board consists of four members from each county. The Cape Girardeau County Court named C.W. Rushing, Maurice Dunklin, Robert Earley and A.J. Seier, all of Cape Girardeau, to serve on the commission.

The Scott County Court named Raymond Roth of Illmo, Mike Pfefferkorn of Chaffee, Jackson Hunter of rural Sikeston and C.B. Taylor of Morley to the commission.

At its first meeting, the board is to select a chairman and appoint a ninth member to serve the term of the member elected chairman.

Loy Baugher

Loy M. Baugher, 56, of 318 Edmondson Drive died at 7 a.m. today of injuries received in a Nov. 19 automobile accident on North Main Street.

Baugher became the second traffic fatality in Sikeston this year. The accident occurred when his car struck the back of a farm implement truck that had stopped to make a left turn into the parking lot at El Capri Motel.

The city's other 1974 traffic fatality was Melvin Wilburn, 302 S. Stoddard St., who died Feb. 8 of injuries receiveed when a tractor-trailer truck ran over him at the Agrico Chemical Co. fertilizer plant on West Malone Avenue.

Baugher was a professional photographer for 26 years before retiring in August 1972.

He began his photographic career when he joined the Dysart Studio in 1946. The business soon became known as the Dysart-Baugher Studio and, when he purchased the business 17 years ago, it beeame Baugher Studio. He was a member of First United Methodist Church, Professional Photographers of America, Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion and was named to Who's Who in Missouri. He also was active in Boy Sdout leadership.

Baugher was born May 7, 1918 in Chickasha, Okla., to Charles F. Baugher of Sikeston and the late Mrs. Baugher.

On April 13, 1946, he married Mary Vinson, who survives.

In addition to his father and widow, survivors include two sons, Loy Mac Baugher of Memphis, Tenn., and Fred Baugher of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Myra Gilliland of Sikeston and Dawn Baugher of the home; five brothers, Jerry Baugher of Minneta, Minn., Fred Baugher of Simi Valley, Calif., Bernie Baugher of Baldwin, Calif.; Larry Baugher of Ojai, Calif., and Irwin Baugher of Camarillo, Calif; five sisters, Mrs Glenn Jones of Sikeston,Mrs. June James of Jackson, Mrs. Loriene Cook of Pierce City, Mrs. Enid Patterson of Palmsdale, Calif.; and Mrs. Betty Jones of Phoenix, Ariz.; and three grandchildren.

The body is at Welsh Funeral Home where arrangements are incomplete.

County shielded against depression

With inflation continuing unabated in Scott County, as it is elsewhere throughout the country, local residents are wondering whether a recession, or what is worse-- a depression-- is on the way.

The term "depression" is meaningless to most local people since they never experienced one personally. There hasn't been one in the United States since the 1930's. Two- thirds of those now living in Scott County were not alive then or were too young to remember it.

To the other one- third it brings back some bitter recollections. It was a time when industry ground almost to a standstill and when millions of workers lost their jobs.

Might it happen again? The consensus among the experts is that it is most improbable because of economic safeguards created since then.

What was it like, generally, during the 1930's? According to U.S. News and World Report, unemployment reached 25 per cent, which is over four times the rate in Scott County at present.

It was a time when the national output of goods and services fell by almost one-third in a period of four years.

By way of comparison, although there was no growth in that respect in the past year, neither was there a major slippage. The drop in the national output was about two per cent, not counting inflation.

The 1930's also saw people's investments and savings go down the drain. The stock market industrial average fell nearly 90 per cent in a period of three years.

As for personal income, it dropped 28 per cent in four years. This is in marked contrast to what has been happening in Scott County. During the last four years, family income after taxes went up 16 per cent locally, the figures show.

Despite the fact that the cost of living has gone skyhigh, pretty much offsetting these wage gains, families are protected from financial collapse by safeguards that did not exist during the 1930 depression.

There is now unemployment insurance and minimum wage laws to protect the worker. These are backed up by Social Security and, in many cases, by privatepensions. Bank accounts are Government- insured and home loans, running for longer periods, are easier to handle.

Largest rise in six months

Sikeston food prices up again

By JACKIE SCHOENEMAN

Led by a huge increase in the price of sugar, the cost of the average food basket in Sikeston rose by $2.26 above the calculated cost of the October average food basket for the largest monthly increase since The Daily Standard began its monthly survey six months ago. The overall increase since the survey was started now amounts to $1.43 per basket.

The food basket cost for 42 selected items averaged $32.90 for Sikeston consumers at the end of November, compared to $30.64 for the same items in October.

Food basket costs were averaged after a survey of six grocery stores--Sikeston IGA, Safeway, Liberty, S&S Discount, Marks Food Mart and Barkett's Big Star--the same stores used in all previous surveys.

Five pounds of sugar led price increases for individual products. Sugar rose with an average gain of $1.07 in November. Since last July, the average local price for five pounds of sugar has risen $1.67.

Ice cream, possibly reflecting high sugar prices, has been rising steadily, including a nine-cent gain in November.

Other items with the biggest increases this month included Crisco shortening, up 16 cents for three pounds; Wesson oil, up 14 cents for 24 ounces; and Lipton instant tea, which climbed 19 cents for three ounces.

Among fruits and vegetables, a pound of tomatoes rose 15 cents from last month. Celery was down eight cents.

Meat prices continued to drop during November, with the exception of chicken fryers which increased six cents a pound from last month. Ground beef dropped six cents a pound.

For the third straight month, the average price for half a gallon of milk did not change. Other items which did not change in price were dried beans and Quaker Quick Oats.

Turn to page 5 for a complete table of prices for the 42 items surveyed.

Morehouse man injured

A Morehouse man was injured in one area traffic accident Tuesday, the highway patrol announced today.

Clement Jackson McFarling, 69, of Morehouse received minor injuries in a two-vehicle accident at 3:10 p.m. Tuesday on Route Y two miles west of Sikeston.

The accident occurred when a southbound pickup truck, driven by Joseph Michael Schuchart, 26, of Sikeston, failed to stop at a stop sign and struck the front of McFarling's southbound car.

Coal vote ends today

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Members of the United Mine Workers were concluding their voting today on a new contract as unofficial tabulations indicated a slim majority in favor of the pact.

UMW officials said no official voting figures would be released until Thursday when President Arnold Miller has scheduled a news conference to announce the decision of the 120,000 union members, who have been on strike for three weeks.

An unofficial Associated Press tabulation of scattered returns showed today that with 26,200 votes counted, 13,165 — or 50.2 per cent — were voting for the contract and 13,035 against.

However, sources in Washington said today that as of Tuesday night the union had counted 47,963 ballots with 27,117 votes for ratification — 56.5 per cent — and 20,846 votes against.

Miller has predicted the contract will be approved by a 60 per cent majority but the partial unofficial returns indicated it would be closer. The contract, which Miller calls one of the finest in the history of organized labor, would provide a 64 per cent increase in wages and benefits.

Voting results are to be telegraphed to the union's Washington headquarters by each local when the voting period ends tonight.

Until the votes are counted in Washington, the UMW has attempted to clamp down on local release of figures. Miller said he asked locals not to release preliminary totals "so as not to prejudice those still voting."

Balloting originally was to be completed Tuesday, but Miller extended the voting deadline through tonight after weekend snowstorms which crippled travel in the coal fields of Appalachia.

The UMW has said that if the proposed contract is ratified, mines which were struck by the UMW on Nov. 12 could begin reopening Monday.

The strike has forced more than 25,000 layoffs in coal-related industries such as steel and coal-hauling railroads, but most firms affected by the coal strike were holding off further layoffs pending completion of the UMW vote.

Unofficial figures compiled by The AP showed that the contract was flatly rejected by District 22 voters in Utah, Wyoming and Arizona. Miners there voted 1,020 to 709 against the pact.

Alabama miners, however, supported it, with 68 per cent of the 3,125 miners in favor.

THE MAGIC OF GIVING

There are two great seas in Palestine. One of them, the Dead Sea, is far saltier than the ocean and uninhabited by fish. The other, the Sea of Galilee, has teemed with life since before Christ walked its shores nearly 2,000 years ago.

The difference between the two is this: the River Jordan enters the Sea of Galilee from the northwest and flows out at the southwest. From there the Jordan flows into and stops at the Dead Sea. Galilee both receives and gives. The Dead Sea only receives.

Giving thanks and sharing our blessings are a firm part of America's character. Like the Sea of Galilee, our country has been blessed both by what it has received and what it has given.

Our heritage of giving can be dated from 1621 when the Pilgrims who survived their first devastating year in the New World invited neighboring Indians to help celebrate a life-sustaining harvest. Although 44 of their Pilgrim band of 101 had died before spring, still they celebrated their blessings with a feast of Thanksgiving.

Generosity likewise has characterized subsequent generations of Americans. Following two great world wars, relief programs organized and largely financed by the United States literally saved millions of men, women and children from starvation in Europe and Asia. UN aid programs in reality usually have been US aid programs. And during the past 10 years the United States has supplied 85 per cent of the food sent to nations with a shortage.

America has been greatly blessed in turn, both spiritually and materially. After nearly two centuries of independence, we retail the basic freedoms our government was organized to guarantee. While sharing our wealth with other nations, we also have succeeded more than any society in history in distributing it evenly among our own people.

Although hunger hasn't been eliminated totally, 95 per cent of our citizens receive an adequate minimum daily intake of nutrients. A higher percentage of students from minority populations in the U.S. attend college than from majority populations in every other country in the world. We have more churches and libraries than the rest of the world put together.

America long ago learned this magic of giving: the gift inevitably is returned manyfold in blessings. This week, as we contemplate those blessings, we indeed have much cause for Thanksgiving.

TURNING THE BATTLE'S TIDE

As the saying has it, "You've come a long way, baby." Just how far women have come, and where they are going is suggested by the findings of the Third Virginia Slims American Women's Opinion Poll.

In this year's poll, conducted by the Roper organization, 3,000 women (and also 1,000 men) aged 18 on up were asked their views on marriage, divorce, child rearing, male and female roles and the changing values and morals of society. Some of the findings:

. Women are leaning toward bonafide partnerships in marriage where husband and wife share the responsibilities of household and family. Over 50 per cent favor combining marriage, children AND careers.

. But marriage in either the old or new style remains the preferred way of life for more than nine out of ten women and men. Given a choice, only a handful of women (2 per cent) would pursue a career rather than marriage and having children.

. Divorce as a solution to a bad marriage is favored by three out of five women. Furthermore, a majority oppose alimony when the woman can earn a reasonable income.

. Nearly half of women today think having two children is ideal, compared to only one in four who thought so in 1952 and 1941. Most cite the high cost of living and overpopulation as the reasons.

. Women are still trying to come to grips with the so-called new sexual freedom prevalent among unmarrieds in society today. About two out of five see it as a change for the worse and nearly an equal number express mixed feelings.

. For the first time, a clear majority of American women — 57 per cent — say they are in favor of efforts to strengthen women's position in society. Yet men continue to show greater enthusiasm for this goal than women themselves; 63 per cent of the men interviewed were for improving women's status.

FORDS FOLLIES

How about this new President of ours? Mr. Ford says to quit spending and do without things then he takes off in his big plane to fly all over the country making political speeches in nearly empty buildings. He was the featured speaker at one Republican fund raising affair where only 59 supporters showed up. The fuel burned up on these jaunts could take care of the energy problem in northeast Missouri for several years.

President Ford simply lost it with the public when he made those momentous decisions to pardon Nixon, give amnesty to draft dodgers, and increase the taxes on the already hard-hit middle income bracket family. This country just isn't going to operate smoothly until a leader is chosen by the people who has the common sense to abide by the wishes of the majority. Then and only then will the people of this democracy have faith and confidence in government.

KILLER OF SMALL BUSINESS

Small business exemption from Phase II wage-price controls is recognized as a practical necessity by government economic managers. In another area, however, small business may receive no such consideration. Nineteen-hundred and seventy-one has seen the revival of a drive to lump small business together with larger businesses under the mantle of inflexible government control. Specifically, the drive is aimed at removing the exemption of smaller retail establishments from federal minimum wage coverage and subjecting them to the constantly escalating minimum wage requirement.

When the minimum wage bill of 1960 was passed, retailing and the service trades were included for the first time. But the Senator (later President) John F. Kennedy realized that stores doing under $250,000 of business a year should be exempt, and they properly were.

Congressional representatives in 1960 apparently were keenly alive to the operating problems of smaller concerns. They recognized that small retail outlets do not generate the traffic nor the sales per employee hour to support the minimum wage standard of a huge, busy downtown store. Competent authorities believe the exemption of smaller retailers from the minimum wage law is as valid today as it was in 1960. Imposing this type of regulatory fiat as has been proposed".will lliterally drive the retail business to larger stores in cities and in big shopping centers."

Applying the minimum wage laws across the board to big and little business alike may sound fine in theory just as does total wage and price control to a lot of people. In reality, it would be a killer of jobs and small business.

MILLIONS OF LIVES AT STAKE

A late issue of Business Week magazine features an article entitled "A new antibiotic finally gets born." It recounts the ten years of research and development together with the investment of some $10 million by one pharmaceutical company that lies behind the introduction of a new drug which is destined to become a major weapon in combating some venereal diseases and staph infections. The new drug is also expected to be effective against bacteria that cause cholera, typhus, certain kinds of dysentery and Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Of the $10 million that this single drug company has put into the development of this lifesaving medicinal compound, $3 million has been spent for a new manufacturing plant which was made necessary by the complex process involved in producing the drug. Business Week comments, "In part, these expenditures reflect cost costs that all U.S. ethical drug companies face today in meeting the government's testing standards for new drugs. In 1970, the industry put only 16 new drugs on the market, down from 45 a decade earlier."

Pictures have been shown of stacks of government forms, higher than a man's head that must be filled out for such things as federally -aided highway projects. The forms and reports now required of the pharmaceutical industry have grown to what many believe to be a point of diminishing returns so far as the public's health is concerned. The fact that a leading drug firm has produced a new "miracle" drug over the past 10 years is encouraging. It also served to illustrate the rising difficulties and declining rate of new drug discoveries--matters that are of deep public concern. The heavy hand of regulation has brought stagnation and crisis to other industries--notable the railroads. It should not be be permitted to do so in the case of the drug industry--where millions of lives may perhaps hang in the balance over the next generation or so.

A REVEALING ADVERTISEMENT

Advertisements of a home appliance manufacturing company--a leading company in it its field--have stressed a number of products designed"..to improve the quality of life at home." One double page ad describes a water purifying unit that sets on the kitchen counter; a longer lasting light bulb; a security device that detects intruders or fire, flashes a warning and rings a loud alarm. Also shown is a unit to provide cleaner air to breathe, a new type washer that uses less detergent and even a new can opener that keeps dirt from getting into the food. People will be quick to appreciate these new devices for improving the environment and the quality of life at home. And the company producing them is doing so in what it believes to be a legitimate endeavor to meet the demands of the public for an improved and more wholesome existence.

The interesting thing about this appliance company's advertisement is that all of the products shown utilize energy for their electric energy. So here once again is demonstrated the truth of those statements from the power industry and elsewhere pointing out that solutions to environmental problems rest first and foremost on a base of adequate energy supplies. Just as energy is required to light a modern home and drive the many appliances and machines that make living more comfortable so is energy required to recycle or dispose of the mountains of waste that flow from every home.

It is little wonder that energy consumption is growing by leaps and bounds--now that the investor-owned electric light and power companies are utilizing every available argument for a speedup rather that a slowdown in the construction of generating facilities, including those cleanest of all sources of energy, nuclear plants.

The advertisement of the home appliance company illustrates the irresistable urge of everyone to achieve improvement and progress. Both of which are turned into reality by that silent servant of man--electric power.

BACKBONE OF CONSERVATION

The 17 million American hunters who follow the seasons in search of their favorite game are also the chief protectors of that game. As an editorial in "The American Rifleman" comments, "Except for licensed hunters, most North American game might have vanished decades ago because of market slaughtering and economic encroachment on wildlife habitats."

The president of the Wildlife Management Institute reports that U.S. hunters have contributed $2.2 billion to conservation and game development. From state hunting licenses, going back as far as 1923 in some states, $1.6 billion has been collected. Federal duck stamps have brought in $117 million since 1934 and, since 1937, an additional $438 million has been collected in the form of federal excise taxed on guns and ammunition. It is ironical that the very group of citizens that antigun extremists and many misinformed conservationists have been seeking to brand as virtual outlaws, in reality, have done more than all other groups combined for the cause of conservation and preservation of wildlife.

The backbone of high contemporary hunting ethics and standards of sportsmasship is the National Rifle Association. Its Hunter Safety programs alone, conducted in cooperation with state game departments, have reached some 5 million hunters. A number o of states have made the NRA sponsored Hunter Safety Training Course mandatory for new hunting license holders. The record of America's hunting sportsmen demonstrates the high level of responsibility which the majority of law-abiding citizens accept as an integral part of gun ownership.

THEY SHOULD WONDER

As more 18-year-olds exercise their right to vote, they may begin to wonder about those social security "contributions" that are taken from them by law each month so that government can provide for their well-being nearly 50 years from now. They might well wonder abuut the thousands upon thousands of dollars of their earnings that they are told by politicians are to be put into some vague trust fund to help care for them in their old age. A lot can happen in 50 years. The rules can change. inflation can wipe out the dollar. The "establishment", which helps to pay the taxes that keep the welfare state going, might succumb to the attacks of its adversaries and so on.

Whatever happens, the 18-year-olds who are starting to vote now are destined to bear a substantial portion of the cost. As this fact begins to sink home, politicians could well find promises of a sweet life at the other fellow's expense-namely the younger generation- a mightly poor vote getter.

AS NECESSARY AS water but SWINDLING

The warning that automobile antifreeze will be in short supply this season and double the price is used to be is an unpleasant reminder that the energy crisis is still very mnuch with us.

The waiting lines may be gone at the neighborhood gas station but there is a "hidden" part of the energy crisis we are not too conscious of until we discover a product we once took for granted is no longer available or has soared in cost.

This is the protion of the energy spectrum that concerns the small amount of the nation's oil and natural gas that is not used for fuel but as raw material for making the petrochemicals that have become so essential to modern life. How essential?

"From the time we get up in the morning and brush out teeth with a plastic toothbrush and wash our faces with manmade detergent, until we go to bed at night and pull our permanent press sheets and synthetic blankets, we are surrounded by pretochemicals."

The quote is by Richard C. Perry who is in charge of Feedstock and Energy for Union Carbide Corp.

Although the percentage of oil and natural gas that goes to make petrochemicals is extremely small compared to the amount that goes to fuel about five per cent of the oil and 10 per cent of gas- our dependence upon them is much greater than we realize, says Perry.

Consider the family car. If we were to remove everything based on petrochemicals from today's automobile, gone would not only be such essentials as antifreeze but radiator hoses themselves, also tires, brake fluid, steering wheel, dashboard, upholstery and carpeting. Gone, too, would be the windshield because the resins that hold safety glass together are derived from petrochemicals. And also gone, the grille and even the paint.

In and around the home we come in contact with petrochemicals in paints and finishes for walls, furniture and appliances, vinyl wall coverings and floor tile, kitchen countertops, refrigerant for air conditioners, refrigerators and freezers.

Even the family medicine chest depends upon petrochemicals. Common aspirin is a petrochemical derivative. In the garden shed: Garbage and leaf bags, fertilizers, bug sprays, weed killers'all petrochemicals.

Okay. But do we really need all these manmade materials? Why not go back to the naturally occurring materials we used before synthetics came along?

The answer is simple, says Perry: Natural products are in extremely short supply and getting shorter. There are too many people in the world today to be supported by natural products. There aren't enough trees and we couldn't raise enough sheep.

Even if natural materials were available, in many cases they cannot do the job as well or as inexpensively as synthetics with their unique properties of light weight combined with sgrength, wrinkle resistance, long wear, etc.

Then, too, any massive shift back to natural materials would cause severe dislocations. It might seem a simple matter, for instance, to go back to cotton for all things we now make from synthetic fibers. But how do wecome bythe 16 to 20 million additional acres of cropland?

To add 16 million acres of cotton would mean reducing the nation's soybean crop by 30 per cent. A reduction that size i in soybean production would send the cost of animal feed skyrocketing worse than it is already.

In sum,like it or not, we are dependent upon petrochemicals. From not other single natural resource do we get four of the fundamental needs of life: Food, through fertilizers and pesticides; shelter, through structural materials , coatings and adhesives; clothing, through fibers and health care, through drugs.

The things that is really hard to understand is why we continue to send most of this precious natural resource up in flames.

AN UNPARDONABLE PRESIDENTIAL PARDON

By his undoubtedly humane but fully premature granting of a "full, free and absolute" pardon to former President Richard M. Nixon for any offenses he may have committed against the United States during his presidency, President Gerald R. Ford has seriously strained and may have irreparably damaged the credibility he brought with him into the White House, and which he must maintain if the nation is ever to recover from Watergate.

Rather than helping to heal the wound of Watergate Mr. Ford's action has served to reopen it. He has done the very thing he implied he would not do when he testified before a Senate committee as vice-president-designate.

Almost every reason the President cited in his pardon message could be used as an argument for not doing what he did.

"I believe passions would again be aroused," he said, "by a long, drawn-out period of litigation against Richard Nixon. Our people would again be polarized in their opinions, and the credibility of our free institutions of government would again be challenged at home and abroad."

Precisely this has been the result of his placing Richard Nixon forever beyond punishment, and even beyond indictment and trial, for whatever crimes he may have committed.

The President says he had been advised that many months and perhaps years would have to pass "before Richard Nixon could hope to obtain a fair trial by jury in any jurisdiction of the United States." It would be helpful to know who provided that advice.

This use of the presidential pardon power is, of course, a shortcutting of our system of justice which is one of the things the President is sworn to preserve, protect and defend. It may in fact be questioned whether the President acted constitutionally. The chief executive's power to pardon for offenses committed against the United States is not in doubt. But can he pardon in advance someone who has not even been formally charged with any offense-immunize him from the law entirely?

What happens now, or should happen, to those close associates of Richard Nixon who still face trial for their roles in Watergate, not to mention those underlings who have already been convicted and sent to prison?

Most Americans do not want to see a former president in jail or to continue to "kick him when he's down," as the current phrase goes. But at the very least the President should have required from Richard Nixon a full and complete confession-call it a form of "earned amnesty"- and something more than a self-serving apology for the hell he put the country through.

Mr. Nixon has admitted to mistakes but not to any real guilt. Now we'll never know just what his guilt or innocence was. We will be given only his version of Watergate in his memoirs, for which he may receive $2 million to console him in his suffering period.

The most distressing thing of all about this unfortunate and unnecessary development is that Gerald Ford has substitutted his own judgment of what is best for the country for that of the people, as expressed in the ordinary and orderly processes of the nation's system of criminal justice.

A paratrooper is always climbing down trees he never climbed up.

DISCREDITING THE DOOM-SAYERS

Some time has passed since the controversial nuclear device was detonated far out in the Aleutian Islands. The blast was a test of a vital U.S. military weapon. Authorities felt it was necessary for the security of the nation. They also said the test could be carried out with no danger from radiation or other hazards. The test went off on schedule notwithstanding protests and predictions of disaster from peace groups and environmentalists. There were no earthquakes nor tidal waves.

The net result of the test so far, aside from providing important information to military authorities, has seemed to have been a further discrediting of the environmental doomsayers who apparently fear our country's peaceful efforts to defend itself more than they fear a possible nuclear missile invasion from abroad.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Pampered Poohbahs Of Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON--When Congress travels abroad, it is supposed to focus on sober facts and figures. But lately, to escape the cruel realities, the junketeers have focused on figures belonging to Viennese waltzers, opera singers and pretty girls at gay amusement parks.

Congressment with less roving eyes have settled for hydrofoil trips to Capri, Rhine castles and lush cocktail parties. One enterprising ligislator, Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., even used the good offices of the State Department and Israeli government to get his son a "bar mitzvah" at the Western Wall in Jerusalem.

The never-ending chronicle of congressional visits to faraway places are stored in the internal files of the State Departmet, which has the delicate job of shepherding the wandering flock.

When, for example, Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., decided to lead fellow Banking Committee members to Europe, it was not the dour counting houses of Zurich that occupied them, but the vivacious music of Austria and the ferris wheels of Copenhagen's Tivoli Gardens.

Congressional Delegation requests four tickets to Watlz Concert Imperial Palace for fifteenth and for Barber of Seville on sixteenth.," reads an urgent State Department request to U.S. diplomats in Vienna. To Copenhagen, went an equally preemptory order:

"Congressional Delegation interested in seeing things..such as Tivoli Garden, Hamlet's castles."The U.S. embassy in Bonn was instructed to plan a "Rhine rivertrip to see castles."

In Naples, a romantic hydrofoil voyage to Capri was arranged just after dusk fell on the beautiful Gulf of Naples. But the State Department began to worry that this migh cut into the junketeers' cocktail time.

Forthwith, a cable was fired off by the U.S. mission in Naples: "Request immediate confirmation from Department" on whether the Capri trip should be at 7:10 p.m. or 8 p.m. "Former means a rushed drink, the latter a more congenial one. Please advise."

And with summer heat beating down on the vacation spots, cables flashed to Cologne, Copenhagen and Rome, saying "Congressional Delegation inquiring if air-conditioned is available..Advise Priority."

Sometimes the State Department, which employs 25 fulltime staffers to indulge the Capitol Hill travelers, is assisted by other governments and even private companies.

When Rep. Gilman made a private visit to the Mideast last August, the Israeli government set up a "bar mitzvah" (confirmation ceremony) for his son. The State Department handled the communication work.

"GOI(government of Israel) arranging schedule based on (Gilman's expressed interests and son's Bar Mitzvah at Western Wall," our embassy in Tel Aviv advised Washington. "Please cable ((Gilman's preference for time and date of Bar Mitzvah."

More insidiously, the giant oil combine, Aramco, babied a House Public Works delegation in Saudi Arabia. Rep. James Howard, D-N.J., and two staffers were supposedly getting an impartial look at how Aramco and other companies based in Saudi Arabia use Arabian ports.

"Aramco handling all details (of the congressmen's) visit, including transportation, housing and area tour," said one classified State Department cable. "It now appears (the U.S.) consulate general is relieved of all logistical support. will provide rooms within its compound."

The State Department politely made sure the congressmen's requests for "pictorial coverage" was passed on the proper oil company. authorities.

One of Rep. Howard's staffers insisted to us that this hand-in-glove relationship with Aramco "didn't hamstring us" in getting an objective view of Saudi ports.

The internal files at State bulge with such cables . Here is a sampling of their infinite variety:

Rep. Dan Kuykendall, R-Tenn,., made a private trip to Martinique but called on the State Department to provide him with the amenities. "The Congressman and his wife were met by a representative of the Consulate and presented with briefing packets," reported U.S. diplomats in Martinique to Washington. "Thereafter, they enjoyed a privately chauffered tour.which had been arranged by the Consulate."

When Rep. Marjorie Holt, R-Md., lost her luggage in Europe, frantic cable traffic reflected State Departments effort efforts to find it. Finally, our envoys to Munich crowed, "holding one piece of luggage belonging to Majorie Holt." It was sent speedily to Paris for shipment home.

Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., is best know as a watchdog over the broadcast and atomic energy industries. But during a trip by Pastore on behalf of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee. Pastore was identified in cable traffic by a title more important to the State Department: "Chairman, State Department Appropriations subcommittee."

Confidence A Factor

As the economic shadows deepen, the Gallup Poll finds through its surveys that 72 percent of the people in the United States believes that the recession will get worse. Many indicators suggest this reasoning. Massive unemployment has struck the automobile industry. The coal industry shutdown is bringing despair. The real estate market is crumbling.

All is not gloom on the economic horizon, however. The nation's economy is diversified and there are some pluses in the picture. Sales in many consumer lines continue at a brisk pace. Unemployment rates are not even close to those of the Great Depression years. Federal law restricts marginal buying of stocks. There is enough fuel oil to keep people warm this winter and public and private transportation continues to move.

What this nation needs is now is a resurgence of confidence in our system of government and the profit-motive system. The marketplace, if it is well stocked through ample production, will put a halt to inflated prices.

We had much to be thankful for as Thanksgiving was observed. The future offers hope. We simply need to muster hope in our hearts.

Mills faces replacement effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, fatigued and stripped of some of his wide congressional powers, rested in a hospital today facing an effort by some Democrats to replace him as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Arkansas Democrat, whose recent behavior has baffled his colleagues, was on the House floor Tuesday afternoon when he refused to handle a routine legislative matter and told a close friend: "I just can't do it."

Shortly afterwards, he entered Bethesda Naval Medical Center without notifying his office.

Mills, 65, was examined by a hospital staff doctor Tuesday afternoon but no report on his condition was released, a Navy spokesman said.

The nature of his illness was not disclosed. Sources close to the hospital said they understood it had not been diagnosed, but that Mills appeared to be very tired.

Meanwhile, the woman who entered Mills' public life last October said she wanted to visit her hospitalized friend.

"If the doctor says it is okay, then I will go see him," said Annabel Battistella, the stripper who jumped into the Tidal Basin from Mills' auto when police stopped it.

Mills' power as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee was whittled down Monday when the House Democratic Caucus decided to expand the panel, which initiates tax and Social Security legislation, and authorized it to establish subcommittees.

Congressional Democrats talked Tuesday about replacing Mills with Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the No. 2 Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. Richard H. Fulton, D-Tenn., a member of the Democratic Steering Committee and the Ways and Means Committee, said he would propose that the Steering Committee nominate Ullman. He said he expected the recommendation to be followed.

The Steering Committee is unlikely to act much before the end of the current congressional session later this month and could delay action until the 94th Congress meets in January.

But one member of the Ways and Means Committee, Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., predicted that Mills would not return to Congress before the 94th Congress convenes.

"I don't think you'll see the chairman back for the rest of this year," the No. 3 Democrat on the panel said.

The movement to replace Mills gained momentum after the 36-year House veteran appeared on a Boston stage over the weekend with Mrs. Battistella. The stripper bills herself as Fanne Foxe and the Tidal Basin Bombshell.

Dr. Guy F. Sciacca, a Boston physician who examined Mills Friday and gave him a vitamin shot and multiple vitamin tablets, said the congressman appeared at the time to be suffering from exhaustion.

Mrs. Battistella, who moved her show to New York this week, announced after learning of Mills' hospitalization that she was calling off her performances. She said she was "mentally upset."

11 treated

Eleven accident patients were treated and released Tuesday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Myers fined

CHARLESTON — Larry Myers, 29, of Charleston was fined $10 in City Court this morning on a speeding charge.

To help Pennsylvania farmers dispose of an egg surplus in 1938, slot machines dispensing hard-boiled eggs for a nickel each were installed in cafes and taverns throughout the state.

Fire destroys 2 homes

CHARLESTON — A house and mobile home, located two miles north of Charleston and owned by Fred Coleman, were destroyed by fire about 11:08 p.m. Tuesday.

Ther fire of undetermined origin is believed to have started in the house and spread to the nearby mobile home.

Firemen fought the blaze two and a half hours but were unable to save the structures. Most of the contents of the homes were also destroyed.

Felty draws 6 months

BENTON — After pleading guilty to a Sept. 28 charge of driving while his license was suspended, Steve W. Felty was sentenced in Circuit Court on Nov. 26 to six months in the county jail.

Judge Marshall Craig also ordered, however, that after Felty has served 10 days of his sentence, he be released and placed on one-year probation.

Gary Paul Storey pleaded guilty to an Oct. 3 charge of stealing over $50 in personal property form Richard Decker of Sikeston.

Punishment was taken under advisement, and Storey was referred to the probation and parole officer for a presentencing investigation.

Equipment is stolen

BLOOMFIELD — Equipment valued at $4,000 was taken from an airplane at Dexter Memorial Airport sometime between 8 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. Tuesday, according to Stoddard County Sheriff Ralph Mouser.

Two radios, distance-measuring equipment and a transponder were taken from a plane owned by Monarch Feed Mills of Dexter.

The bombardment of Fort McHenry, which inspired the writing of "The Star-Spangled Banner." began at 7 a.m., Sept. 13, 1814, and lasted, with intermissions, for 25 hours. British ships fired some 1,500 shells, each weighing as much as 220 pounds, The World Almanac says. Because the Americans had sunk 22 vessels in the channel, the British were unable to approach too closely which kept U.S. casualties low — four were killed and 24 wounded.

She 'just listens'

Little bit of Japan comes to town

By JACKIE SCHOENEMAN

Takeo Kato is the Japanese version of a 5-foot, 90-pound woman with a generous smile and a pleasing personality.

The Americanized version of the former Miss Kato is Mrs. Jerry McCormick who arrived in Sikeston Nov. 23. Mrs. McCormick is presently staying with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Oather McCormick, 111 S. Stoddard St., until her husband returns from an Air Force base in Thailand.

Living in the United States is nothing new for Mrs. McCormick because she has followed her husband, a U.S. Air Force master sergeant from base to base.

To date, she has lived at Travis Air Force Base at Fairfield, Calif., and spent last year in Dayton, Ohio. The McCormicks had furnished a house in Dayton when McCormick received orders to report to Thailand. When he returns to the United States, he will have served 18 years.

Mrs. McCormick said she had no desire to fly back to Japan after her husband went to Thailand since she was settled in her new home land and was not really missing anything.

She said Japan is much like the United States in that consumers there also have a variety of goods from which to choose. Other than this, America always winds up on the plus side in Mrs. McCormick's mind. Japan's inflation is much wilder and higher, she says, and America is uncroweded compared to Japan and has wide open spaces.

Of Sikeston, she said, "It is very nice, quiet and clean."

Mrs. McCormick plans to make Sikeston her home, at least for the coming year, if she can find a job as a keypunch operator.

The people "are much happier, friendly and tall," she remarked, and quickly added, "American women are very pretty. It's true."

While in Japan, she attended a typing school for six months of training as a keypunch operator. Shen then landed a job in the supply department for the U.S. Air Force Base in Tokyo. Her salary at that time was about $60 a week.

McCormick was her supervisor and soon they were dating. Taeko spoke little English and McCormick was something short of being fluent in Japanese. But, as Mrs. McCormick said, her eyes twinkling, "It (the message) gets through."

Marrying an American serviceman even in 1963 was "no problem if there is nothing bad in your background."

Another obstacle, parental approval, never existed because Mrs. McCormick comes from a family that is "free." A free family is one where parents allow daughters to find jobs and marry when they please. Mrs. McCormick estimates half of Japan's families are free.

In fact, Mrs. McCormick has a sister who is also married to a U.S.Air Force man. Her other sister is also married and works in a department store.

Taeko's mother died when she was very young, and her father, now deceased, worked in a paper factory in Krafto, a small country near northern Japan taken over by the Russians.

The McCormicks' marriage ceremony also was not in the Japanese tradition, as she preferred a civil ceremony followed by American church services.

The elder Mrs. McCormick, 71, said she was neither surprised nor angry when she learned through the mail that her future daughter-in-law was to be Japanese.

"I always thought that children should lead their own lives." And who they want to marry, that's their business. He (her son) wrote home and said he had found the right wife."

The first three to four years of their marriage, Mrs. McCormick spent learning American customs and ways to be a good American wife.

She says she had difficulty adjusting to eating American food and learning "how to drink liquor." She seldom cooks rice but occasionally will whip up a good dish of sukiyaki.

As for American holidays, she remembers that her first Christmas was bewildering with all the bright lights.

Although she has heard of women's liberation, Mrs. McCormick, who is 43, says she prefers to "just listen" to her husband, who is 36.

While living in the United States, she says she has had no difficulty making friends with American wives.

However, because she speaks only broken English, she said this makes her shy. But occasionally she will burst out with a sentence or two of perfect English.

If she cannot speak it, she certainly can write the language. "My son writes like an old hen, but she (Taeko) writes beautifully," her mother-in-law says.

Because Mrs. McCormick still has much to learn about the United States, she said many Americans treat her like a child in their overzealousness to be helpful.

She admits that even her husband is guilty of this but only because he is trying to help her adapt.

With this help plus studying on her own, Mrs. McCormick said she is determined and looking forward to becoming a U.S. citizen. Her attitude is that if other Japanese wives can pass the citizenship test, she can, too.

While in Sikeston, Mrs. McCormick said she is looking forward to finding a job, a place to live and making a few friends.

One of her old friends is Fazoo, a cat that has flown three times to the United States, with the McCormicks. Fazoo is supposedly a French name picked by her husband who brought the cat home to her in Tokyo.

Mrs. McCormick's response was typical of many American wives. "At first I didn't want to keep the cat because I thought it would be too much trouble. But after awhile I loved it."

And Fazoo seems to be enjoying America so much that he does not want to come in at night. "The other night we put on our coats and were chasing him down around midnight," the elder Mrs. McCormick said.

And, for Fazoo and Taeko McCormick, that is adventure the great old American way.

Instruction Program Set By Orchestra

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Philharmonic, which plays a key role in London's musical life, is starting a new and lucrative venture with an American-run institute in Switzerland.

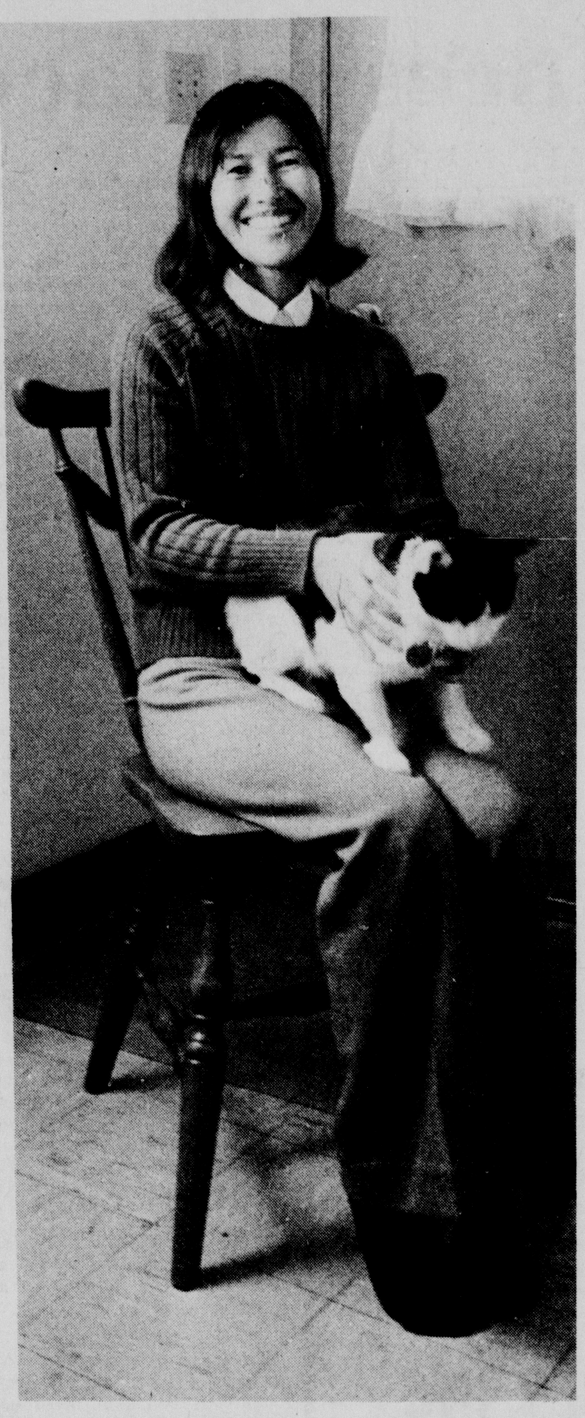
The orchestra signed a contract to spend two weeks each summer for the next five years with the Institute for Advanced Musical Studies at Montreux.

Members of the orchestra will give instruction to the 120 students at the institute. The orchestra plans to record the complete series of Dmitri Shostakovich's 15 symphonies at Montreux. The students will sit in at rehearsals and recordings and learn what it's like being a professional musician.

"This is a new form of musical education," said the institute's director of development Daniell Revenaught, American pianist and conductor who comes from Louisville, Ky., and was previously associated with the University of California.

"For a student who is making music his career, it is not enough to learn music itself. What is it like being a professional? What are the working hours? How arduous are the rehearsals?

"Our students will watch the Royal Philharmonic at work and find out for themselves."



Fazoo travels, too

Mrs. Taeko McCormick, formerly of Tokyo, holds her traveling cat, Fazoo. She is presently staying with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Oather McCormick, 111 St. Stoddard St., until her husband returns next year from a United States Air Force base in Thailand.

Ann Landers

Reader praises wise teetotalers

Dear Ann Landers: Our young teenagers read your column and I am so pleased they do. You tell them the same things their parents do, but somehow it sounds "different" from Ann Landers. They listen to you.

As a token of thanks I send a little bit of wisdom I ran across recently in a small local publication. It was written by a friend. I hope you will print it. Here it is:

Positively Negative

We drank for happiness and became unhappy.

We drank for joy and became miserable.

We drank for sociability and became argumentative.

We drank for sophistication and became obnoxious.

We drank for friendship and made enemies.

We drank for sleep and awakened without rest.

We drank for strength and felt weak.

We drank "medicinally" and acquired health problems.

We drank for relaxation and got the shakes.

We drank for bravery and became afraid.

We drank for confidence and became doubtful.

We drank to make conversation easier and slurred our speech.

We drank to feel heavenly and ended up feeling like hell.

We drank to forget and were forever haunted.

We drank for freedom and became slaves.

We drank to erase problems and saw them multiply.

We drank to cope with life and invited death.

--Daily Reader

Dear Reader: Your friend sounds like a man who knows what he's talking about. It was good of you to share his wisdom. Thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to comment on your advice to the young bride who took her teenage sister in to live with her when their parents were killed. It seems the teenager was uncontrollable, gave her older sister ulcers and was ruining her marriage.

Your suggestion that "perhaps a foster home would be the best place for Dee" was, in my opinion, not very good. Before resorting to foster placement, why didn't you recommend seeking out other blood relatives--cousins, aunts, grandparents, even Dee's stepfather, despite her sister's allegation that "he doesn't want her."

In our family-destructive culture, it seems to me that your powerful influence ought to be used to strengthen blood-related family ties. --Dr. R.S.M., Department of Preventive Medicine, University of Illinois.

Dear Dr. M.: Those "blood relatives" you refer to were certainly aware of the death of the teenager's parents. If they were interested in making a home for the girl they would have made their wishes known. "Blood-related family ties" are often more bloody than related.

I've received many letters from children reared in foster homes, expressing tremendous affection and deep appreciation for their foster parents. I believe my advice was correct, but I thank you for taking the time to express another point of view.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Homemade projects make Christmas your very own

Homemade is the word this year for a naturally fun holiday. Do-it-yourself Christmas tree decorations and greeting cards are great projects for the whole family to enjoy.

For tree decorations, all you need are a cook, seamstress, and artist (your children). The cook makes cookie shapes with a string baked in them to tie onto the tree.

The seamstress threads popcorn onto a very long piece of thread, to wrap around the tree, and the artist cuts out paper dolls and chains to hang on the branches.

Everybody gathers all their small colorful toys and trinkets to put up.

For a fun Christmas card idea, cut a potato in half and draw a holiday design on one flat side. With a knife, cut around the design until it is raised on the potato. Press the design on an ink pad and stamp on a postcard or construction paper. After the design dries, the children write in their season's greetings.

Cutouts of Yuletide illustrations are another favorite activity among the children.

Peruse with the kids through the newspaper ads and cut out different Christmas illustrations, such as Santa Claus, raindeer, Christmas trees, stockings, ornaments, snowflakes, etc. You'd be surprised at all you can find, many times in color too!

Here are just some of the things that can be done with cutouts of such illustrations:

Make rectangular cardboard fold-down tabs, bend them and paste one side tothe artwork so that the cutouts can stand up on their own. Make a little display with figures, for instance.

Or paste the artwork to the little one's shopping bag, or even your own. Glue them onto Christmas packages for added decoration.

Use them to decorate the Christmas tree. Simply poke a little hole on the top of the cutout andhang it by a bit of thread from the tree's branches.

The beauty, landscape, history, and character of Russia so fascinated American photographer Kenneth Murray, of Kingsport, Tennessee, during his visit there that the coal district denizen found time for little else. The morning mist lifting as fishermen make their way upstream to a favorite site in the Caucasus Mountains (top left) charmed Murray, as did a peasant woman carting water into town from a mountain brooklet (top center). Sheep wind their way through the grassy meadows of the mountains (top right) in a scene familiar throughout Europe. In a small collective farm at the foot of the mountains, an old woman transports grain in the oldest method known to man (lower left). Despite the Soviet government's repression of religion, many older peasants continue to worship, as evidenced by a simple funeral at an Orthodox church in the village of Pratching (lower center). Further evidence of Russia's religious history is personified in the colorful "onion" domes of the Orthodox cathedrals (lower right) dotted throughout the metropolis of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine.

Bill would outlaw well-to-pump gas operations

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Well-to-pump gasoline operations would be outlawed in Missouri under a bill that has been prefiled for the upcoming regular session of the legislature.

Rep. Corley Thompson, R-Webster Groves, introduced the measure Tuesday that would prohibit any producer, refiner or wholesale distributor of petroleum products from operating a retail service station with its own personnel if that station were in competition with an independently-owned station.

The measure, if it gains approval, would in effect halt what are known as integrated operations in which large corporations refine, distribute and then sell petroleum products to the consumer, a situation some consumer advocates have claimed has contributed to high fuel prices.

The Missouri Public Service Commission would police compliance with the measure and violators would be subject to a maximum fine of $5,000 for each day they fail to comply.

Also introduced have been bills making it a misdemeanor to duplicate a key to any public building without written permission and a perennial proposal to outlaw pay toilets in "places of public accomodation."

A measure establishing no fault auto insurance was introduced in the Senate again after failing to receive approval this year and a proposal for increasing state aid to junior colleges, vetoed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond on the grounds that the state could not afford it, was also offered. A Bond aide has said the governor will recommend approval of the hike in state aid in 1975.

Scouts win in float competition

DEXTER — First place in float competition at Monday night's annual Christmas parade was captured by Dexter Scout Troop 70 for an entry with a Santa's Helpers theme.

The Junior Civic Club took second place for a float with a Mother Goose theme.

A religious design entered by the Assembly of God Church won third place.

The parade was sponsored by the Dexter Retail Merchants Association and officially opened the city's Christmas shopping season.

World News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has voted to set up the first national standards for drinking water after the government said some water supplies may contain cancer-causing chemicals. The bill now goes to the White House where it faces a possible veto.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Democratic Caucus is continuing to whittle away the power of once lordly committee chairmen as the 75 newly elected Democrats flex their muscles. The new members have shown they hold the balance of power in voting some of the major reforms the caucus is decreeing for the new House that will assemble in January. The caucus voted Tuesday night that the selection of chairmen of appropriations subcommittees be subject to caucus ratification. These subcommittees generally make the effective decisions on money bills.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prosecutor in the Watergate cover-up trial says H.R. Haldeman confessed to a crime while testifying about the attempt to get CIA officials to curtail the FBI investigation of the Watergate break-in. During a private courtroom conference Tuesday with Judge John J. Sirica and defense lawyers, assistant prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste said Haldeman "confesses to a crime, which I believe he has just done, to defrauding the United States through the misuse of the CIA for improper reasons ..."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, fatigued and stripped of some of his congressional powers, rested in a hospital today facing an effort by some Democrats to replace him as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. The Arkansas Democrat, whose recent behavior has baffled his colleagues, was on the House floor Tues
ay when he refused to handle a routine legislative matter and told a close friend: "I just can't do it." Shortly afterwards, he entered Bethesda Naval Medical Center without notifying his office.

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Members of the United Mine Workers wind up voting today on a new contract that, if ratified, would bring an end to the three-week strike by the nation's soft coal miners. Although UMW officials said no voting figures would be released until Thursday, an unoffical Associated Press tabulation of scattered returns showed that with 20,922 votes counted — about 17.4 per cent of the 120,000 miners covered by the contract — approval of the new pact is in doubt. Of the 20,922 votes, 10,615, or 50.7 per cent, were for the contract.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — With Pioneer 11's conquest of Jupiter over, scientists today planned for its next destination: a two billion mile giant leap for a peek at Saturn. "If the power holds up, I have no doubt that Pioneer 11 will be alive and working well at Saturn in 1979," said Dr. John Wolfe, National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Pioneer project scientist.

NEW YORK (AP) — Friday the 13th this month will be a good day for sky watchers: a partial solar eclipse for most of North America in the morning and a meteor shower that night. For the United States, the eclipse will be most extensive in the Northeast, 60 to 70 per cent. The effect will diminish to the south and west, to 19 per cent at LXOS Angeles at sunrise. After sunset that night, the sky should be lit up with "shooting" or "falling stars" — particles of matter burning up as they enter the earth's atmosphere.

MENOMONIE, Wis. (AP) — The girls in Brownie Troop 259 rarely miss their Tuesday afternoon meetings these days. They all want to see what the men have planned for them. University of Wisconsin-Stout students John Lamirande, 18, and Jim Nichols, 19, are the leaders of the 14-member troop. "It just started out as a dare from my girl friend," said Nichols. "She was going to be a leader but couldn't because of her class schedule, so she dared me to take her place." Nichols talked Lamirande into coleading the troop with him.

TOKYO (AP) — Takeo Miki, 67, Japan's next prime minister, today promised a vigorous program based on social justice and reform of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party. Miki said he will make an early public statement about his personal wealth, the issue that brought about Kakuei Tanaka's resignation as prime minister.

Economic program to get priority

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Democratic party leaders moved today to make approval of a broad economic program the first order of business at their miniconvention opening in Kansas City later this week.

In a unanimous vote, the 52-member committee considering rules and amendments for the formal sessions opening Friday voted to provide for debate and action on the economic proposals Friday night.

Action was scheduled after a series of speeches by Democratic congressional leaders and before the 2,000-delegate conference gets down to work Saturday for its main purpose, approval of a national charter to govern party affairs.

In laying the revised plan before the convention rules committee, party chairman Robert S. Strauss said the resolution would incorporate "a rather carefully drawn legislative thrust" in the speeches of Speaker Carl Albert House majority leader Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., and assistant Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd.

Asked to explain the timing, Strauss said:

"We could get more momentum and more thrust and be more meaningful to the people of this country if we do this."

The rules panel then plunged into consideration of about 100 amendments to the charter drafted by a party commission over the past 18 months.

They will be screened and debated today and Thursday.

Strauss opened the committee meeting, which was delayed for a time by lack of a quorum, that his two years as party chairman haven't been easy but have been "most constructive."

Strauss recounted what the party has accomplished since he became a chairman two years ago.

He said the Democratic national organization, besides working on the proposed charter, had provided a help to party candidates in the 1974 elections not offered by any political party in history.

He also reported two nationwide telethons seeking a public support had netted for the party more than $5 million.

While skirmishing over party reforms this week is a virtual certainty, party leaders are hoping it can be resolved in a compromise ending six years of intraparty warfare.

A host of aspirants for the party's 1976 presidential nomination are here, bucking a tradition that White House hopefuls do not appear at political conventions.

And despite earlier predictions that memory of the tumult and discord of the past two conventions would keep Democratic office holders away, some 220 congressional Democrats were expected as well as many of the party's governors, mayors and other public officials.

The first formal session on the convention floor comes Friday night after the 2,000-plus delegates have spent a day discussing national and international issues in a series of panels.

Party Chairman Robert Strauss has hinted that the outlines of a Democratic legislative program for next year may be revealed in a keynote speech Friday night by House Spaker Carl Albert.

Strauss also is predicting that the mini-convention will adopt a charter, the first ever for a major American political party, which will repesent a compromise on the party reform issue that most Democrats can live with.

The charter, drawn up by a special commission, will be debated and adopted in a day-long session Saturday with a possible spillover to Sunday. It is expected to write into a party constitution the basic reforms sought by the reform wing but without the quota system which caused the defection of many old guard Democrats in 1972.

Strauss said Tuesday, "I don't think we'll have any walkouts and I don't think we'll come out of there with any bitterness."

Intertwined with the debate over the charter will be a heavy lacing of presidential politics with more than a dozen active or potential candidates wooing support from the delegations for 1976.

Jolliff named examiner

Perry Jolliff of Jolliff Flight Instructing School has been appointed pilot examiner for the Sikeston area. Pilots may now take their commercial or private check rides, and student or private pilots working for their advance rating may be checked by Joliff, who can issue these ratings. Jolliff was appointed by the Federal Aviation Administration district office in St. Louis and is the first flight examiner in Sikeston since 1940.

Telephone directory

deliveries begin

Delivery of the new Sikeston telephone directories began Monday, according to Mike Smith, local office manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Delivery will be completed in about two weeks.

"This year's directory contains 58 pages of alphabetical listings. That's a total of about 8,800 listings," Smith said.

"In addition, this year's Yellow Pages supplement has 145 pages of business listing," he added.

The Sikeston directory also contains telephone exchange numbers for Morehouse.

The cover of the directory is the same used by all other Missouri communities served by Southwestern Bell. It features the rugged beauty of Johnson's Shut-Ins State Park in Reynolds County, in tribute to the Missouri park system's 50th anniversary.

Smith said distribution of this year's directory will be limited.

"As we've said before, only one new directory will be delivered to each residence customer this year to help conserve paper," he said. "There shouldbe a card inside the phone book for customers to request additional books, if necessary. Business customers will continue to receive one new directory for each phone."

The new directory also carries considerable information for those who want to stretch their telephone dollars, he added. Included are rate periods for long distance calls and complete instruction for dialing 1-plus and 0-plus long distance calls. Area codes for the entire country and several items of general interest round out the directory's call-guide section in the front of the book, he said.

Smith said the number of people using the phone book seems to be increasing.

Depression forced financial collapse

By CROCKETT SCOTT

"Let us all be happy, and live within our means, even if we have to borrow the money to do it." ...Artemus Ward

As more and more Americans become aware of the economic slowdown, questions of rising consumer and corporate debt levels tend to be compared to those of the depression years.

And there is another question: Will the catastrophe of the 1930s be repeated?

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York reminds that "history -- so far, at least, -- has not borne this out.

"Indeed, as many students of monetary history are quick to point out, it was the depression (of the 1930s) that forced a financial collapse, rather than the other way around."

The populace just curtailed buying with either cash or credit to such a slow pace that large sectors of the productive wheels of the nation stopped.

Morgan Guaranty notes that business bankruptcies "are edging up" currently, but mentions that "overall, credit quality on new debt seems to have improved in recent months under the constraint of very tight credit markets that have existed throughout much of 1974."

Not only have lenders become "more choosy," as the bank states, but high interest rates have dissuaded borrowers, too.

And higher costs of big ticket items, such as autos , furniture and TVs have been the headline makers of recent weeks -- along with food. But food everyone has to have, so it is purchased.

For the "optimist" investor, however, the economic slowdown traditionally has been a time for committing capital to equity.

Pfizer and Squibb are favorites of a Kansas City SEC-registered stock market analyst.

Pfizer, rated A-plus by Standard & Poor's, is a major producer of drugs, cosmetics and perfumes, and has been paying dividends since 1901.

Currently trading in the low 30s, the stock peaked out in the low 50s last year.

The high rating for Pfizer originates from its improved profit showing in chemicals, particularly agricultural. Demand has been high and increased costs are being passed along. Pfizer has done well with its Trojan Seed, and the recent acquisition of Mt. Clemens Seed Farms also should help , according to the Kansas City stockbroker.

Squibb, also rated A-plus by Standard & Poor's, manufactures ethical drugs and cosmetics and is engageed in the food and candy business as well. The firm has been paying a dividend since 19092.

The Kansas City analyst likes Squibb because of recent government clearance for the oral use of its cephalosporin antibiotic, Velosef.

Pharmaceuticals demand looks promising, says the Kansas City broker, and Squibb's confectionery business is benefiting from prices it has passed along to offset the higher and higher cost of sugar.

This analyst also believes the Lanvin Charles of the Riz division will reap good return from its Arpege fragrances.

Over in Indanapolis an SEC-registered analyst likes Cincinnati Milacron, identified by Standard & Poor's as "largest machine tool maker." The stock is selling around 16, down from a high last year of abut 44.

"If you haven't any confidence in Cincinnati Milacron," he states, "you haven't any confidence in America.

"The stock is quality," he emphasizes, "and has been paying some kind of dividend since 1923."

Giddings & Lewis, another machine toolmaker, is also believed worthy of consideration by the Indianapolis stockbroker.

This stock currently trades around three to four after a high last year of about 12.

J C Penney announces gift of music to schools

George R. Bowen, manager of the Sikeston J. C. Penney store, has announced a gift of music entitled "A Bicentennial Musical Celebration" which will be presented to area high schools and colleges in late spring 1975.

The "Celebratioin" program, part of the J. C. Penney Company's contribution to the nation's Bicentennial, was awarded a certificate of official recognition from the Amerivan Revolution Bicentennial Administration during ceremonies held Monday in Washington, D. C. The "Celebration;" is the first program by a business corporation to be made an official part of the nation's Bicentennial festivities.

The "Bicentennial Musical Celebration" includes 70 minutes of historic American music spanning our 200 years, and 30 minutes of newly commissioned contemporary works by American composers.

In announcing the gift, Bowen said,

"Our purpose is to make this music as widely available and as useful to as many people as possible. It will be supplied to any other bands, choral groups and orchestras that may ask for it. Use will be entirely unrestricted and free of any performance charges."

Each school in the United States will receive a box of specially arranged sheet music -- enough for school music groups -- to equip a complete band, chorus and orchestra. Works for rock and stagebands are included, as well.

The "Celebration" has been created in an effort to enrich the nation's Bicentennial observance with a reflection of American history through the music of its most representative composers.

The band music is being programmed by Dr. Richard Franko Goldman, President of Peabody Institute, Baltimore, Maryland; the orchestra music by Thor Johnson, conductor of the Nashville Symphony; and the choral music by Leonard DePaur of the Lincoln Center, New York City.

The package is now being produced and it will be presented to the music groups at each of the nation's 30,000 schools in the spring of 1975, enabling bands, choral goups and orchestras to perform the "Celebration" -- in whole or in part -- throughout the Bicentennial year and beyond.

Warehouse outlet store to open

Charles Buchanan, owner of Buchanan Sales, distributors of automotive supplies, will open a warehouse outlet store in the same building where his grandfather, C. C. Buchanan, opened a store 50 years ago.

The new store, located at 522 S. Kingshiway, will be called Buchanan's and will feature the Fleetwood Tire made by Mohawk Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio.

Fleetwood is a nationwide cooperative buying group which buys directly from the manufacturer on contract. Buchanan's will also offer automotive parts and accessories geared to the do-it-your-selfer.

Guy Harden

Harden slated for jamboree

BERNIE — Guy Harden, country music performer, will appear Saturday at the Bootheel Jamboree. The Jamboree begins at 8 p.m.

Harden currently has a new Shannon Records release called, "Warm in My Arms."

Born in Milledgeville, Ga., Jan. 5, 1956, he started playing guitar at the age of six. When he was 12, he sang at a local talent contest and won. At the age of 14 he was playing clubs and doing mostly rock music. During this period he worked at a local radio station without pay and learned to love country music.

This year he came to Nashville, Tenn. and stopped by Jim Reeves Enterprises and was signed to a recording contract with Shannon Records. He has appeared many times in Ernest Tubb's Midnight Jamboree on WSM, filled in for Jim Mundy at Roger Miller's King of the Road and has recently appeared on Grand Ole Gospel at the new opry house.

Lung cancer approaches calamity stage

CHICAGO (AP) — "Cancer of the lung is rapidly approaching the dimensions of a national calamity in this country," a medical scientist warns.

He cited an American Cancer Society estimate that 91,000 persons will be stricken with lung cancer in 1975 and that 81,000 will die of the disease during the year.

And he said cigarette smoking is almost entirely responsible for lung cancer.

"A man who smokes two packs a day has about as much chance of surviving as a bull in Spain," said Dr. Bernard Roswit of New York. He added that death from lung cancer is rising among women.

Roswit made the comments Tuesday in a report at the annual meeting of the Radiological Society of North America on a study begun in 1958 at Veterans Administration hospitals.

Roswit, a radiologist at the Bronx VA hospital, is chairman of the group of physicians evaluating the use of radiation in the treatment of lung cancer.

He told reporters that he has been giving papers at the society's meetings for 25 years and that "this is the first time I've felt so deeply depressed."

He said that the majority of lung cancer cases will be too far advanced to benefit from surgery by the time they are diagnosed.

And drugs and radiation offer little hope for either curing the cancer or extending the patient's life by very much, he added.

Since 1958, the VA doctors have studied 8,000 patients with lung cancer, using 13 different treatments or combinations of treatment — including radiation, drugs and placebos, or sugar pills.

Roswit reported on 1,279 of the 8,000 patients for whom there was some hope of tratment success.

Pioneer 11 heads for Saturn

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — With Pioneer 11's conquest of Jupiter over, scientists today planned for its next destination: a two-billion-mile giant leap for a peek at Saturn.

"If the power holds up, I have no doubt that Pioneer 11 will be alive and working well at Saturn in 1979," said Dr. John Wolfe, National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Pioneer project scientist.

Scientists huddled here at NASA's Ames Research Center which controls the Pioneer spacecraft to discuss possible approach courses. They want one that would allow the nuclear powered, unmanned vehicle to collect the most information while at the same time avoiding flying meteoroids in Saturn's strange rings, phenonema which have baffled man.

While they met, Pioneer 11 sent Earth-bound scientists more information about Jupiter. Its telescope painted the planet as a receding, orange and white striped basketball as the spacecraft departed from the north pole.

At midday, the 570-pound vehicle, cruising at 30,000 miles per hour, had pulled 1.5 million miles away from the planet. The craft was sailing on a course that hopefully will take it to Jupiter's relatively mild-mannered planetary cousin, Saturn, in September 1979.

Jupiter, a fiery ball of gas and liquid hydrogen, scoured Pioneer 11 with electrons and protons and pelted it with tiny meteorites when the spacecraft plunged to within 26,600 miles of the planet.

Flying at 1,800 miles per minute, Pioneer 11 survived the ordeal, though the searing radiation caused some malfunctioning in three of its delicate instruments.

Among other things, Pioneer 11 told man that Jupiter's magnetic field was four times stronger than Earth's and that the radiation of high flying protons at 26,600 miles from its surface was 75 times more intense than Pioneer 10 felt at 81,000 miles a year ago.

NEW YORK (AP) — A new television series on health is already working wonders for its producers. They've gone from merely being alive and well to actually feeling good. However, they didn't plan it that way.

The Children's Television Workshop, producers of a show for adults that debuts Nov. 20, started with the working title of "Alive & Well." But when a legal problem developed over that title, they switched to "Feeling Good." And that's the name that will head the 26 hour-long shows.

2 more grocers join price freeze

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Two more supermarket groups have joined the move to freeze retail food prices.

Alterman Foods Inc., operator of 101 supermarkets in Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama, and the Giant food store chain announced Monday that they are holding the line on retail prices until Jan. 1.

"We have instituted a total and complete retail price freeze on all the more than 10,000 items stocked in our stores," said Sam Alterman, executive vice president of Alterman Foods.

"This includes meats, produce, dairy products, frozen food, groceries and nonfoods. The only prices changed in our stores will be those that are lowered," he said.

Giant said it will freeze the price, beginning today, on all non-perishable private-label grocery products.

Hearnes present at meeting on cancer program

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has re-entered the political scene, but apparently only as an interested party in proposed legislation.

Hearnes, currently a St. Louis lawyer, was on hand Tuesday as State Rep. James Russell, D-Florissant, outlined a program to curb breast cancer in women.

The program would involve state operation of mobile vans to administer radiological examinations to women at an initial state cost of $1.2 million.

Also at the news conference was Dr. John Spratt, the coordinator of community cancer control and director of cancer resarch at the Ellis-Fischel State Cancer Hospital in Columbia.

In the absence of a program for breast cancer detection, Spratt said, the mortality rate from the disease has remained nearly constant the past 35 years.

GOP governors can't agree on situation

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A few hours after they had been warned to shed the GOP's "country club" and "big business" images, Republican governors pulled up outside the suburban headquarters of the McDonnell Douglas Corp.

Besides a demonstration of the giant aerospace firm's latest scientific advances, the governors and their aides and reporters were treated to drinks, dinner and a 45-minute speech by the firm's founder, James S. McDonnell, stressing his company's need for exemption from antitrust laws.

The 14 or so GOP governors and governors-elect at the three-day conference that ended Tuesday--like their Democratic counterparts two weeks ago in South Carolina, talked a lot about their role in influencing their party and national policy.

Unlike the Democrats, who took a significant step towards internal party unity for this week's Kansas City miniconvention, the Republicans did little else but display their own impotence and divisions that mirror those of their party as a whole.

They couldn't agree on whether things were bad or not.

Michigan GOP chairman William McLaughlin tried to get across the message that the Republican party is a minority party which needs to change its image, and that the road to majority status will be long and hard.

But GOP National Chairman Mary Louise Smith declared, "We are alive and well."

When it came to prescriptions for restoration of GOP health, the differences were equally apparent.

Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr., of New Hampshire called for rejection of "me-too politics," a return to conservative principles. He said President Ford couldn't possibly win his state's 1976 GOP primary with Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond, the 35-year-old Missourian named new conference chairman, warned against "binding ourselves to some narrow ideology." He said "the battle lies in the broad center of the political spectrum," where the voters are.

But he decried the notion of trying to solve GOP problems with "some cosmetic approach whose focal point is an expensive advertising campaign designed to sell people on how truly great we are," a target that sounded suspiciously like the program party chairman Smith has just undertaken.

The party's biggest names were absent — the President, who rejected private appeals from Bond to come; Vice President-designate Rockefeller, awaiting confirmation in Washington; and California Gov. Ronald Reagan, whose conservative views have little support among governors other than Thomson.

The McDonnell Douglas sponsorship of the Monday night dinner underscored the fact that such conferences are expensive undertakings for which host governors must seek corporate contributions.

This is true both for the annual, bipartisan National Governors Conference, as well as partisan sessions such as this one and the Democratic meeting two weeks ago at Hilton Head Island, S.C.

The setting for the Democratic meeting was plusher than the downtown St. Louis hotel where the GOP meeting took place. But the social events were relatively modest, and the Democratic governors received only two gifts — a painting and a book — compared with some 15 local products here ranging from Missouri quilts to a charm bracelet.

There was sort of a nostalgic quality to the meeting here of an organization whose membership has dwindled from 32 after the 1969 elections to just 13 after last month's balloting. Gov. John R. (Jack) Williams of Arizona referred to "the remnant of a great number of governors I once knew."

Where they once talked of seizing party leadership, most frankly conceded they look to Washington for guidance and hope. As Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken put it, "The future of the party rests heavily on President Ford."

Plans announced for Cairo plant

Cairo and New York officials of Bunge Corporation announced today plans to construct a grain handling and soybean processing plant at Cairo, Illinois. W. H. Haslauer, District Manager of Bunge Corporatioin, confirmed that construction would commence soon on the multi-million dollar complex.

Employment figures were not announced by Haslauer, but he said that the number of new jobs would make a "substantial contribution" to the local economy.

Bunge Corporation, a U.S. firm with headquarters in New York, has operated grain facilities in Cairo and at other locations in the Tri-State area for the past 15 to 20 years. Bunge Corporation is one of the major U.S. grain firms with outlets to domestic and world markets through a network of river, inland, and export grain terminals, barge and rail fleets, according to Haslauer.

"The new Cairo plant," Haslauer said, "represents another major commitment of Bunge Corporation to the domestic grain and processing business, the primary marketing emphasis being directed toward domestic consumption."

The new plant, located East of Commercial Avenue and South of 38th St., will process 20 to 25 million bushels of soybeans annually. Grain will be unloaded from trucks, rail cars and barges into grain handling and storage facilities with a storage capacity of five to six million bushels.

"The modern processing operation along with the high speed truck and rail receiving facilities should provide significantly better service and prices to local and regional grain producers," Haslauer said.

The marine unloading system will unload barge soybeans for crushing, as well as grain which will be re-shipped to consumers in the Southeast.

Construction of the project will take approximately two years. Due to continuing negotiations for certain equipment the cost was not available at this time, Haslauer said. The new plant will conform with all environmental and safety requirements of the State of Illinois and the United States Government.

Haslauer was very high in his praise of the close cooperation of the Cairo City Officials, Alexander County Public Officials and the Cairo Chamber of Commerce. The Alexander County Housing Authority was also very helpful.

John E. Herbold will be Manager of the processing plant. Herbold was formerly the Manager of the Bunge Corporation Soybean Processing Plant in Destrehan, La., and now lives at 2502 Washington Avenue, Cairo.

Haslauer will be the General Manager of the new operation.

Congress overrides vets bill veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has overridden President Ford's veto of a 22.7 per cent increase in most GI education benefits, and veterans now in school should get some of their added money in about 15 days.

The votes Tuesday were far above the two-thirds majority needed to enact the bill over Ford's objections — 394 to 10 in the House and 90 to 1 in the Senate. Assistant GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan cast the lone Senate vote to back Ford's veto.

It was the fourth of Ford's 15 vetoes overridden. The House failed Tuesday to override another Ford veto. The vote of 249 to 150 in favor of override was 17 votes short of the required two-thirds. The bill would have provided $130 million in tax benefits to victims of several natural disasters.

The Veterans Administration has for months been keeping its computers geared to rush out the bigger checks for some 1.5 million veterans receiving benefits under the education program. The higher payments are retroactive to September, and VA officials said the back increases are scheduled to be in checks the veterans should get in about 15 days.

VA officials said the first regular monthly payment with the new increases would be in the January checks.

World News

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov.-elect Edmund G. Brown Jr. has decided against having the traditional inaugural ball.

"I don't think it's necessary," the 36-year-old Brown, a bachelor, told reporter at a news conference Tuesay.

"It just doesn't fit into my style of the way I operate. We'll have a inaugural. It will be in keeping with the dignity of the office and he way I see the problems ahead," he said.

Brown, a Democrat, will succeed Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan on Jan.

OLYMPIA, Wash. (P) — Danny Evans, 14-yer-old son of Gov. Dan Evans, was hospitalized in fair condition after he was struck by a car while riding his bicycle. a spokesman for Gov. Hearing on bridge replacement cancelled

BENTON — A public hearing, scheduled Monday to discuss the proposed replacement of a bridge on Route D about six miles north of Diehlstadt, was cancelled when no one showed up, according to Garry Chegwidden, chief designer for District 10 of the Missouri State Highway Department.

"We went up there prepared to hold the hearing," he said, "but nobody showed up."

Chegwidden suggested that one reason for the apparent lack of interest could be the small size of the project.

"We're just going to replace the present bridge and bring it up to required standards," he said. "The present bridge is still usable but is too narrow and has a timber understructure."

The location of the bridge is about .3 mile east of the intersection of Highway 77 and Route D.

"We were required by law to hold the hearing," Chegwidden said, "and the next step will be to send the information that there was no attendance and no hearing to the headquarters office."

"We've now met the formal hearing requirements," he said.

The way is now clear for the design of the bridge to be drawn up. Construction is expected to take place in 1978.

Commission sets meeting

JEFFERSON CITY — The Missouri State Highway Commission will meet in regular session here Dec. 11 and 12 in the hearing room at the highway department building.

Scheduled delegations will be heard by the commission on Dec. 11, and other commission business of a routine nature will be transacted.

On Dec. 12, other business not transacted on Dec. 11 will be conducted.

Former Sikeston minister shows slides of tour

The Rev. James W. Hackney of St. Louis, a former pastor at First Baptist Church, was guest speaker Tuesday night for a Kiwanis Club ladies night meeting at Ramada Inn.

The Rev. Mr. Hackney, currently pastor of Maplewood Baptist Church, narrated a slide presentation of a tour he and Ms. Hackney, who also was present, made to Rhodesia, Africa, in company with several other ministers and wives.

During the tour, the Rev. Mr. Hackney said he conducted revival meetings and spoke at some of the schools in Rhodesia.

The slides included pictures of churches, schools, huts, medical clinics and other buildings.

According to the Rev. Mr. Hackney, the people of Rhodesia are very religious.

In addition to the program, the Kiwanianns were told that Christmas trees for the club sale have arrived and will be on display at American Legion Park beginning today.

World news In brief

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Television actor George Stanford Brown, who plays a policeman in "The Rookies" was in court — as a victim rather than a cop.

Brown testified Monday at a preliminary hearing for Ivanhoe Spencer Jackson, 26, charged with forging checks reported stolen from Brown's Beverly Hills home.

Brown said he believes a woman whom he interviewed for a housekeeper's job took the blank checks. But Jackson was ordered bound over for trial.

CHESTER, England (AP) — The Anglican bishop of Chester, the Rt. Rev. Victor Whitsey, announced his New Year's resolution Tuesday. He will give up tobacco and alcohol for three months to aid the world's hungry.

The bishop said his no-smoking, no-drinking rule will last from Epiphany to Easter — Jan. 6 to March 30. The money saved will be paid into a bank account called the Bishop of Chester E to E Fund. The money will go to needy persons in India, Bangladesh, Africa and South America.

"It is the duty of a leader to set an example and not merely to exhort or demand," the bishop said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep.-elect Andrew Jacobs Jr., D-Ind., planned to fly to Washington from Indianapolis on Sunday, but the only seat he could get was in first class. Jacobs refused to spend the extra $20 in government money and got a tourist-class seat in a Saturday night flight instead.

Two treated

Two accident patients were treated and released Monday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Treated were: Delilah Jaynes, 26, Parma, injured leg at work, and Thomas Oliphant, 53, East Prairie, cut scalp in fall.

Caucus whittles away power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Democratic Caucus is continuing to whittle away the power of once lordly committee chairmen as the 75 newly elected Democrats flex their muscle.

The new members have shown they hold the balance of power in voting some of the major reforms the caucus is decreeing for the new House that will assemble in January.

The freshmen comprise more than a fourth of the Democratic membership. They have set up their own organization to press for open procedures and assurances that junior members will not be crushed by the seniorit system.

The caucus voted 147 to 116 Tuesday night to require that the selection of chairmen of appropriations subcommittees be subject to caucus ratification. These subcommittees generally make the effective decisions on money bills.

The caucus already has the right to review appointment of committee chairmen, but these chairmen in turn have appointed the heads of subcommittees. This change saps the power of Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the Appropriations Committee and the second most senior member of the new House.

Earlier caucus actions had diminished the prerogatives of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee and its ailing chairman, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

Mills entered Bethesda Naval Medical Center Tuesday after several confused days in which he renewed his public association with stripper Annabel Battistella. The nature of his condition was not disclosed.

Rep. Richard Fulton, D-Tenn., a member of both the Ways and Means and the Democratic Steering committees, said he would move to have Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., replace Mills as chairman next year.

Fulton said he acted reluctantly, but "in these times we cannot allow the Ways and Means Committee to go leaderless." Fulton's move apparently has strong support, but no immediate action was expected.

The new Democrats have organized as "the class of 74," rented an office, set up a small staff and held several caucuses of their own.

Representative-elect Richard L. Ottinger of New York, their temporary chairman, said an informal consensus favored these objectives:

—Assurances that every new member will be appointed to a major committee. This would include putting freshmen on the Ways and Means and Appropriations committees, something rarely achieved in the past.

—Opportunities for new members to sponsor important legislation and thus achieve public recognition. This would be especially valuable to new representatives facing re-election campaigns in marginal districts, he said.

Ottinger said the move to organize new members was launched soon after the election and that expense money was provided by the Committee for an Effective Congress, a private group pushing congressional reform.

Remembrance

The departed survives in the hearts of the living. This is why our staff has been oriented to regard a funeral service as something for the living ... a final remembrance to gradually blend softly with other memories they have of the departed. It is for this reason we are so attentive to family suggestions when arrangements are made.

Auto club repairs poorly done

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Nearly 40 per cent of the repairs made on automobiles in an Auto Club of Missouri study were either poorly done or not completed at all, it was reported Tuesday.

According to the club's magazine, The Midwest Motorist, the average cost of auto repairs in the St. Louis area has risen nearly 20 per cent over costs found in an auto club survey two years ago.

The study said 1,032 motorists had their cars inspected at the club's diagnostic center in St. Louis, and then the vehicles were taken to garages where mechanics were asked to make needed repairs.

After completion of the repairs, the cars were returned to the diagnositc center and again inspected by auto club mechanics.

The club found that 390 of the 1,032 motorists taking part in the study received repair work that the clinic judged unsatisfactory.

The average cost of the repairs was $148.44 compared with an average repair bill of $127 in a 1972 study. There were 1,397 car repair rechecks made during the study two years ago, and it was found that 28.7 per cent of the repairs were unsatisfactory.

Diagnostic center manager Larry Pipes said the high percentage of unsatisfactory work stemmed from "a lack of training, equipment and specialization" in the auto repair industry.

Cars "have become more and more complex each year," Pipes said, "and it's difficult for the average auto mechanic to keep up with these changes."

If a habeas corpus hearing is granted, evidence to back both the prosecution and defense claims will be presented in an open hearing.

Any appeal of the outcome of the hearing would go to the Mississippi Supreme Court, but could deal only with procedural errors.

Way ne Edwards, press aide for Gov. Waller, said the governor had signed the "retention warrant" at 11:30 a.m., turning Dr. Garrison over to the custody of Dunklin County Sheriff Raymond Scott.

Dunklin County authorities were unavailable for comment.

FBLA hosts C'ville chapter

NEW MADRID — The New Madrid Vocational School Future Business Leaders of America members were hosts to the Caruthersville FBLA Chapter Nov. 21 at the vocational school.

The Caruthersville Club conducted their business meeting and were given a tour of the school by FBLA members from the vocational school. Adult evening classes were in session so students were able to view each department in operation.

Plans were made for Caruthersville's club to return at a later date to install the vocational school's chapter.

Matthews handed victory

ORAN--- Tournament action went pretty well as expected here Tuesday night...well almost.

Scott County Central buried College High 84-51, Oran dumped leopold 83-57 and Richland handed Matthews a 61-60 victory.

Yes...Richland handed the Pirates the win. It just wasn't the Rebels night, despite out playing the MHS cagers.

A basket by a Richland player with about two minutes left in the game gave the Pirates a 61-60 lead and neither team was able to tally after that point, even though both teams had at least a pair of chances.

Richland stormed from a five point deficit in the fourth quarter to claim a 60-59 lead, using a pressing defense to make the Pirates caught up the ball, but a Rebel athlete, caught up in the fast pace of the game, got fouled up on which goal belonged to him and scored an unmolested bucket for the pirates after a teammate stole the ball on the press. Ironically it was the second two points that this athlete had put through the MHS goal. He earlier had tipped in the ball while battling for a rebound.

The game sort of set the stage for the evenings other two bouts, as the night was filled with the early season errors that most teams are plagued with.

Frank McCaster scored 16 points to lead the Pirates offense, which included 14 from David Kenedy. Richland's Jim Clay scored 24 points and claimed high game honors.

Coach Hershel Miller's OHS Eagles startted slow, scoring only six points in the first quarter, but finally got rolling and scored 77 points through the remaining 24 minutes of action to live up to their fourth seeded position.

Clint Atchison came off the bench to spark the Eagles on both offense and defense, leading them from their early 12-6 deficit into the winners circle.

Oran had to go to a zone press before upsetting Leopold.

David Hamm and Ronnie Hurst played an outstanding game for Oran, but it was the all around play of their leading scorer, Keith Campbell, that really made the difference.

Campbell tied Hamm for high game honors, scoring 20 points, but the 6-foot-1 juniors ball handling and sharp passing was his biggest assets.

The Daily Standard's third ranked Braves used its pressing defense to pull away from a 21-16 lead and into a 45-21 halftime advantage. The Braves poured in the points in the third quarter and then played the subs through the final eight minutes of action.

Otto Porter pumped in 22 points to lead a 12 player offensive attack of the Braves. Mike Cook scored 13 for the Preps leading effort.

Tournament action resumes Thursday night with College High battling Richland at 7 p.m. in a losers bracket contest which will be followed by the match of top seeded Kelly against Oran. KHS claimed a first round bye in the seven team event.

O-No!

Cats, Deer win

BERNIE — Old man upset toyed with the favorites early in the games here Tuesday night but failed to stay around as Bloomfield defeated Gideon 62-52 and Clarkton dumped Holcomb 74-58 to complete first round play in the 15th annual event.

Thursday's semifinals match the pre-tournament favorites, beginning at 7 p.m. with Risco battling Parma. Clarkton and Bloomfield square off at 8:30 with the winners playing for first place at 8:30.

Gideon jumped ahead of third seeded Bloomfiel 10-8 in the first quarter, but failed to maintain the pace and bowed out of the event.

Steve Rushin scored 10 points in the second half to spark the Wildcats, who were led in scoring by Keith and Ken Jackson who netted 18 and 16 points respectively for BHS. Virgil Sparks hit 19 for the Dogs top effort.

Clarkton had their hands full with neighboring Dunklin County rival --- Holcomb Hornets --- and didn't really put the game away until late in the contest.

Coach Richard Pyland's Reindeer gained a 15-14 lead in the first quarter and used its defense to race into a 34-25 halftime lead.

CHS's Ronnie Wilson pumped in 24 points, 14 coming in a 40 point second half, to lead the Reindeer offense. Kenny Rickman added 19, nine coming in the final eight minutes of play. Danny Burr scored 16 for HHS.

Indians rally

CARUTHERSVILLE--- The Kennett Indians went home a winner in a 66-55 bout with Caruthersville in Tuesday night's basketball action.

It was a tightly played game, but the Tigers gained an edge during first period of play. Caruthersville maintained it in the second period, sweeping past Kennett's man-to-man defense to hold a 37-29 halftime advantage.

The Tigers played determined ball but the action soon turned as Kennett switched their defensive plans and used the zone successfully to overpower the home team.

One big difference which played an important part in the game was the fouls. Caruthersville committed 15 while Kennett marked up three.

The Tigers' Mike Langford hit for 20 points for the night's high. Paul Palmer dumped in 12 while big Pedro Spicer was held to 10. Law Pulliam contributed 22 markers for Kennett's winning effort. Robert Roundtree and Larry Johnson threw in 18 and 16 respectively.

In B-team action, Caruthersville used the home court advantage to take a 62-45 win. Don Tyes led scoring for the Tigers with 21. High man for the opposing team was Lorento White with 14.

DEXTER — The Dexter Bearcats did not disappoint the home team fans as they marked up their first victory of the season Tuesday night downing Malden 69-49. DHS lost its opener against Lilbourn Monday night.

Dexter stepped out to an early lead and managed to hold on to it. Steady play kept them at a 16-point advantage at the most throughout the game. Malden pulled to within 10 of the Bearcats, but could not make the range.

The Greenwaves went into the locker room at half trailing 38-24. Dexter continued to play around the Malden squad and coasted to the win.

Dexter's Don Reynolds led the Cats' scoring with 20 points Clippard had 18 for his credit. Thompson hit for 14 and Moore 13 markers for Malden's leading effort. Anderson finished out the double figure scorers with 11.

Malden captured a close 56-53 win in the B-game. Pearman shot 15 for the Greenwaves as Jim Dowdy also hit for 15 for the home team.

Bell City wins 1st

BELL CITY — The Bell City Cubs picked up their first win in four outings Tuesday night as they downed St. Vincent of Cape, 51-47.

In a tight first quarter, St. Vincent jumped out to the lead by a single point but saw it whisked away as the Cubs came battling back to take a 23-19 halftime lead.

The Spartans steadily slipped behind, but rallied in the final period finding it was too late as the Cubs had pitched in two baskets over them.

Dan Rivers paced the home team to the victory with 18 points. Danny Scherer and Johnny Fitts followed with 14 and 13 respectively. Rigdon led scoring for the Spartans with 13 markers.

Bell City roared past St. Vincent in the B-team 77-17. High point man for the Cubs was Weeks with 28.

Delta, Notre Dame win

LUTESVILLE — Delta whipped Meadow Height 70-50 and Notre Dame downed Oak Ridge 56-48 in the Woodland tournament here Tuesday night.

Meadow Heights gave Delta a little trouble in the first period as the Bobcats outscored the Panthers 14-13 but after that the game was all Delta as the Bobcats began to press and run. The score was 34-25 at the half.

Mitch Stroder and Mike Kelly led the Delta offense with 14 points apiece.

Keith Brotherton and Mike McCormack were the only offense for the Panthers as they combined for a total of 29 points with 15 and 14 respectively.

Delta ended the game with a total of 33 field goals shots. Meadow Heights hit 20 free throws to only four for the Bobcats.

Notre Dame had all kinds of trouble through the first three quarters from the Jays defense as Oak Ridge took a 16-12 first period lead. Neither team could do much in the way of offense in the second period but the Bulldogs managed to outscore the Jays 8-7. Oak Ridge led 23-20 at the end of the first half.

Notre Dame began to take control of the game in the third quarter and walked away in the fourth period. Mark Buessink was high for the Bulldogs with 20 points. Bruce Schoen led Oak Ridge with 48.

Indians travel to Jonesboro

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Unbeaten Arkansas State University of Jonesboro and winless Indiana State University--Evansville will provide the opposition this week for the Indians of Southeast Missouri State University.

Coach Bob Cradic's Indians, 101-65 winners over Concordia Seminary in their first outing of the season, travel to Jonesboro Thursday to renew their longtime rivalry with ASU at 8 p.m.

Prior to the varsity game, the Southeast Missouri State jayvee team will square off against the ASU underclassmen. The 6 p.m. contest will be the first competition of the season for the Southeast Missouri State jayvee squad.

Southeast Missouri State will play host to Indiana State University--Evansville at 8 p.m. Saturday (Dec. 7) at Houck Field House. The game will mark the first meeting between the two schools. ISUE was founded in 1965.

Arkansas State, the only school Southeast Missouri State will play which has a major college schedule, has recorded wins over Delta State and Georgia Southern. Also nicknamed the indians, Arkansas State has four starters back from last season's club which captured the Southland Conference championship and finished with a 17-8 record.

Two of those 17 wins came at the expense of Southeast Missouri State.

ASU's returning starters are 6-2 senior guard Don Scaife of Helena, Ark., 6-2 senior guard J.H. Williams of Little Rock, a 6-5 senior forward Schuler Rowland of Marvell, Ark., and 6-7 senior forward Jay Harbison of Wynne, Ark. Three of the four averaged in double figures last season with Scaife leading the way with 18.5 points per game.

Missing from last year's championship t eam is 6-9 center Steve. Brooks. But ASU Coach John isn't too worried. He has a roster dotted with players standing 6-7 or 6-8. Leading candidates to replace Brooks are 6-8 sophomore Dan Henderson of Memphis, Tenn., and 6-8 junior Bob Gilbert of Sibley, Mo.

Indiana State--Evansville opened its season last week under a new head coach, Wayne Boultinghouse, and lost by substantial margins to Colorado State University and the University of Wyoming. Both games were played on the road.

The Screaming Eagles, like Southeast Missouri State, had a below .500 season in 1973-74, finishing 12-14. But they hope to reverse their fortunes utilizing the taleents of several returning players with outstanding credentials.

These include 6-0 junior guard Ernie Brothers of Vincennes, Ind., 6-6 senior forward Fred Chase of Mt. Vernon, Ind., and 6-8 senior center Jim Crisp of Elizabethtown, Ky.

Brothers led ISUE in scoring last season with an average of 15.6 points per game. Chase holds the Screaming Eagles' record for points in a single game with 41. Crisp is the tallest player on the squad, has three years of varsity experience, and led the team in rebounds last year with 7.8 per game.

Following Saturday's game, the Indians will begin preparations for a Tuesday night (Dec. 10) tilt in Cleveland, Miss., with Delta State. The Indians and Statesmen have previously met five times on the hardwoods and the Indians have been victorious in three of the five games, none of which was played in recent years.

Against Concordia last week Southeast Missouri State hit nearly 60 per cent of its field goal attempts and all five of the Indian starters scored in double figures. Steve Valli, a 6-6 senior forward from St. Louis, and Arvin Haynes, a 6-7 junior center from St. Louis, paced the attack with 17 poiints apiece.

Haynes grabbed a game-high 14 rebounds.

Cradic was not altogether satisfied with his team's initial performance, however. The play was sluggish, especially in the beginning, he said, and the players made too many mistakes.

He warned these aspects of the Indians' game must improve, if they hope to have any success this week and in the weeks ahead.

Panthers claim 17th straight win

LILBOURN--- Coach Bob Phelps' LHS Panthers ran their season record to 6-0 with an 82-64 win over the East Prairie Eagles here Tuesday night. It was the LHS Panthers 17th straight victory.

The Panthers were surprised in the first period with the scoring ability of the Eagles as coach Bill Beck's five came within one point, 20-19, of Panthers in the first eight minutes.

Lilbourn's speed and quickness with their press began to take its toll on the Eagles in the second period and the Panthers built up an insurmountable advantage of 22-16 to take a 42-35 lead into the intermission.

The third period was worse for the Eagles as the Panthers raced to a 26-12 advantage.

10 players for the Panthers got into the scoring column with Don Tredwell leading the way with 21.

Williford and Dixon led the Eagles in scoring with 24 and 23 respectively.

Lilbourn won the B game 77-40. Raymond Willis scored 14 for Lilbourn and Lee Johnson hit 10 for the Eagles.

Sports Briefs

BRUSSELS (AP) — The International Equestrian Federation meets today to debate the admission of China, Taiwan and The Philippines.

Sources say it is likely The Philippines' application will be approved but that Taiwan and China will run into problems.

It is expected, the sources said, that a vote on those two applications will be postponed until a member of the international federation can travel to the countries to make a personal assessment of their equestrian activities.

VAL d'ISERE, France (AP) — Switzerland's Bernadette Zurbriggen drew the No. 1 starting assignment in today's women's downhill race of the First Snow Ski Tournament that opens the 1974-75 World Cup season.

Annemarie Moser-Proell, who has won the World Cup four years in a row, will start No. 10.

Mizzou faces big test

COLUMBIA, Mo. — While it w as quite an auspicious opening for Missouri's cagers as they racked up impressive wins in their first two outings of the year, don't expect Coach Norm Stewart and his youthful Bengals to sit back and rest on their early-season laurels.

For one thing, the Tigers have a busy weekend of action ahead with Portland, Connecticut, and Mississippi State all headed for Columbia to battle with Mizzou in the Show-Me Classic Friday and Saturday nights. The Tigers will match up with Portland on Friday at 7 p.m. at Hearnes, with Connecticut and Mississippi State set to follow at 9 p.m. Losers return at 7 p.m. on Saturday, with the championship game scheduled for 9 p.m.

For another, Indiana State will follow right on the heels of the visiting Classic squads when the Sycamores of Coach Gordon Stauffer invade Missouri's home court for a Tuesday evening engagement at 7:35 p.m.

But don't deprive Stewart of the favorable impression those first two victories left with him, because they couldn't have pleased him more.

"We seemed to be a lot more comfortable and at ease on the floor during the Rice game," he points out, "but overall I was extremely happy with our efforts. I just hope we continue to keep improving as we go along."

While the Tigers' head man has maintained all along that the team's strong point would probably be its backcourt, he was still quite encouraged by the play of sta starting guards Steve Dangos and Willie Smith. Smith, especially, electrified with with the crowd both nights with his soft-shooting touch, pin-point passing, and overall hustle.

"Steve knew that he was going to get some help out there," smiles Stewart, "but I know he's a little relieved that Willie has done such a great job. If the two of them continue to play as well as they have and if we keep getting great efforts off the bench from people like Mark Anderson, Jeff Currie, and Ron Pexa, we'll be in good shape."

Another impressive facet of the two triumphs was the general teamwork of the club. With all five starters averaging in double figures, it obviously hasn't been a one-man show.

"Hopefully, we'll be able to come up with an offense that will complement the abilities of everyone on the floor," continues Stewart. "One of the strengths of the club now is that we almost always have at least four people on the court who can put the ball on the floor. This has given us a lot more movement, and it has really shown."

As Stewart prepares his charges for two more rugged battles this weekend, he realizes that the Tigers will need a strong effort to retain the Classic title they won a year ago.

"All three teams coming in had winning records last year, and Connecticut made it to the quarterfinals of the NIT. Mississippi State has one of the stronger clubs in the Southeastern Conference, so you probably have to list them as the favorite. With four teams from all areas of the country, the fans should see a v ariety of styles of play."

Indiana State dropped its '74-'75 lidlifter 98-80 to a powerful Purdue five that won the NIT last spring, but the Sycamores came back to tip a strong Louisiana Tech club 77-72. Junior forward Rick Williams will be one of the ISU stalwarts with his 16.8 scoring average and 9.3 mark for rebounds from last year. He tossed in 49 points in the first two Sycamore contests.

Caldwell suspended

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A spokesman for the American Basketball Association's Spirits of St. Louis says a court battle may result from suspension of forward Joe Caldwell.

The 6-foot-5 Caldwell, an 11-season pro veteran from Arizona State, was suspended Tuesday for "activities detrimental to the best interest of the club, the ABA and pro sports in general."

Club president Harry Weltman did not elaborate, but Caldwell's influence on rookie star Marvin Barnes was reported to be a factor.

Barnes two weeks ago jumped the club and sought counsel from Caldwell's agent, Marshall Boyar of Beverly Hills, Calif., before setting contract issues.

"This thing has been hanging for a while," Weltman disclosed.

After suspending Caldwell, the Spirits almost immediately signed 6-foot-7 Terry Driscoll, who was waived recently by the Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Association.

Spirits Coach Bob MacKinnon said an all-rookie front line of Barnes, Maurice Lucas and Gus Gerard would be in the lineup for a game tonight against the Kentucky Colonels.

"That's not a bad lineup," MacKinnon conceded, "but it would have been better if we had been working this way since September."

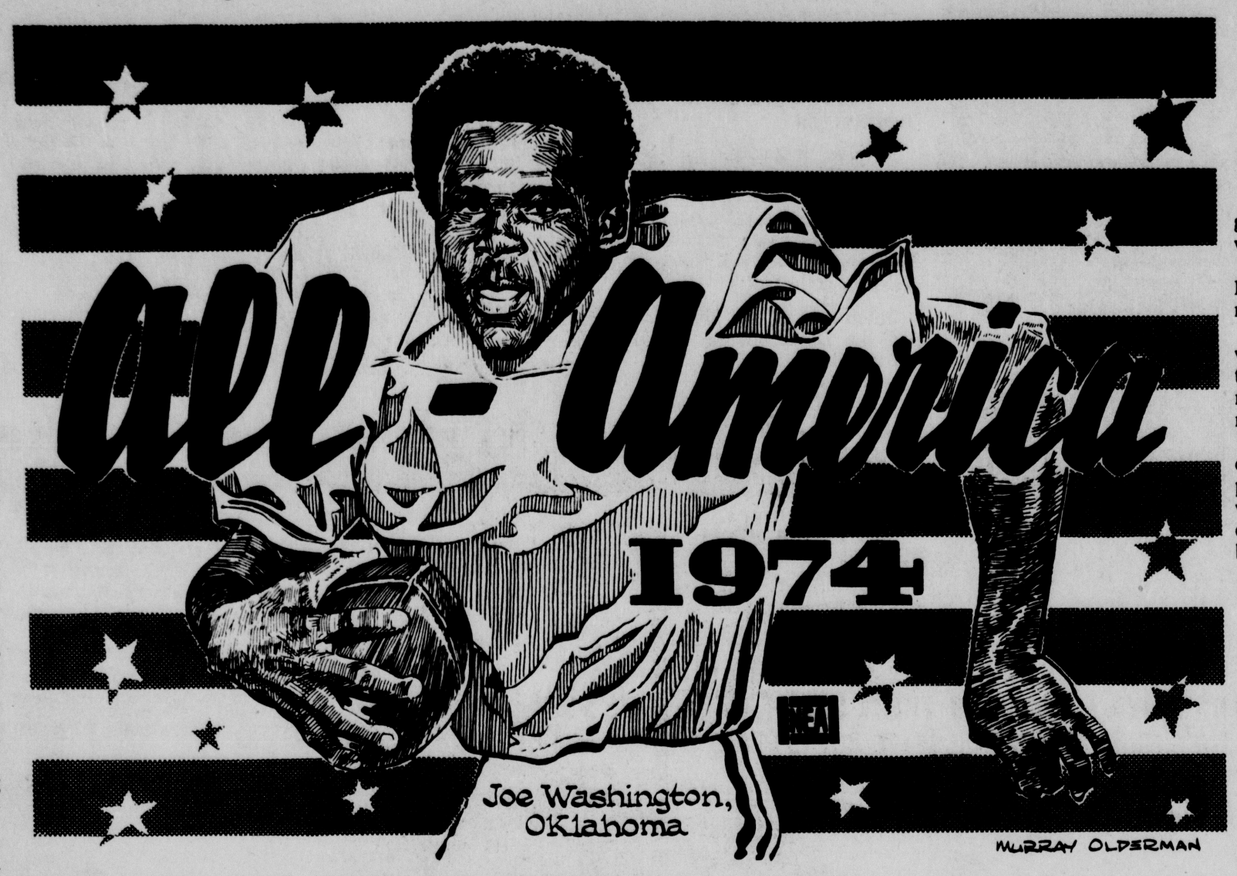
Sooners, OSU top NEA All-Americans



By Murray Olderman

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — (NEA) — It was before the college football season had even started and the talk got around to guys who figured to make All-American in 1974. They focused in on the Oklahoma Sooners, who are recognized by everyone but the football coaches of the nation and the Eastern bloc countries.

The list of Sooner stars started out logically enough—Washington, Selmon, Owens—and soon had reached the impressive total of nine before they started looking to other schools.

"I think," interrup'ed Coach Don Fambrough of Kansas, which plays in the same Big Eight Conference, "you missed one." He thought they overlooked the center.

If it was an oversight, it was rare. Now, no one misses the Sooners. So it is logical that four of them — halfback Joe Washington, linebacker Rod Shoate, defensive tackle LeRoy Selmon and wide receiver Tinker Owens — lead the 1974 NEA All-American team announced today. A fifth man, safety Randy Huges, is on the second team.

And the roster could well have included guard John Roush, middle guard Dewey Silmon, quarterback Steve Davis and, oh yes, that center, Kyle Davis. Except that other schools play football too.

Like Ohio State. The massive Buckeyes placed three men on the honor roll of bona fide All-Americans — irrepressible halfback Archie Griffin, tackle Kurt Schumacher and defensive back Neil Colzie — with tight end Doug France and guard-center Steve Myers on the second team.

This was the year of the running back in college football. Griffin, headed for the Heisman Trophy, and Washington were consistently brilliant. But so were Anthony Davis and Ton Dorsett of Pitt. All of them are sub-six footers but solidly muscled, with amazing quickness. The checklist of great looking ball carriers should include Bill Marek of Wisconsin, Walter Payton of Jackson State, Jim Germany of New Mexico State, Willard Harrell of Pacific and Sonny Collins of Kentucky.

The big lineman has also taken over college football. There's not a specimen under 6-4 on the offensive forward wall. The lightest man up front on defense, at 248, is Maryland's Randy White, and he's also the strongest.

The most unique and closest competition for a spot on the All-American team occurred at the vital quarterback post. It showed that you don't necessarily need an energetic publicity man to attract national attention.

Steve Bartkowski, a big, strong-armed passer in the pro mold, had stumbled erratically through a couple of seasons at California, a school troubled by probation and player defections. Suddenly he put it all together and, on his own merit, emerged as the best traditional T-quarterback in the country.

Probably the best all-around football player in the country is another quarterback, Fred Solomon, a little off the mainstream of attention at Tampa. He is a fantastic roll-out runner and a fine passer and he could be equally great, with his darting speed, as a wide receiver or defensive back. In a different situation, he would have been hard to suppress as a Heisman candidate.

The main thing, for all-star purposes, is that all these young collegians were honored because they put their talents out front — and performed.

Griffin claims Heisman

NEW YORK (AP) — Until he became the fifth underclassman to win the Heisman Trophy, Ohio State running ace Archie Griffin wasn't aware that none of the four previous players who won it as juniors had been able to repeat as seniors.

Now he knows.

"Everyone's scaring it into me now," Griffin said with a smile Tuesday when he was announced as the 1974 winner of the Heisman Trophy, which annually goes to the outstanding college football player in the country.

Griffin, a 5-foot-9, 185-pounder who holds the Big Ten and Ohio State career rushing records, intends to give it his best shot in 1975 in an attempt to become the first two-time Heisman winner.

"I'm gonna put my best foot forward," he said, "and if the voters think I'm good enough to win it again, then I'll win it."

Griffin has felt the pressure in rushing for more than 100 yards in every game during the past two years — an NCAA record 22 consecutive regular-season games, plus the 1974 Rose Bowl — and he expects to be even more of a target now that he stands above the crowd as the 40th Heisman winner.

"I'm sure they'll probably come and shoot at me more," he said, "but I'll just go out and do my best in every game. Coach (Woody) Hayes says you either get better or you get worse and I'll just try to improve next year."

That will take some doing since Griffin has 4,064 yards rushing in his college career and gained 1,620 yards this season — most among the nation's major collegians.

Griffin captured the Heisman in a runaway over Southern California senior tailback Anthony Davis. The two will meet in the Rose Bowl for the third year in a row.

Griffin received 483 first-place votes — each worth three points — and 1,920 of a possible 2,547 points from a nationwide panel of 849 electors. He was named second on 198 ballots and third on 75 others. The votes were tabulated on a 3-2-1 point basis.

Davis received 120 first-place votes, 148 seconds and 163 thirds for 819 points.

Joe Washington, a junior halfback from Oklahoma, finished third with 87 first-place votes and 661 points. Then came Notre Dame quarterback Tom Clements and Nebraska quarterback Dave Humm.

Rounding out the top 10 were Michigan quarterback Dennis Franklin, Oklahoma linebacker Rod Shoate — top lineman in the balloting — Brigham Young quarterback Gary Sheide, Maryland defensive lineman Randy White — the Outland Trophy winner — and California quarterback Steve Bartkowski.

Griffin won the voting in each of the country's five regions—East, South, Midwest, Southwest and Far West. Davis finished second and Washington third in the East, South and Far West while those positions were reversed in the Midwest and Southwest.

The other juniors to win the Heisman were Doc Blanchard of Army in 1945, Doak Walker of Southern Methodist in 1948, Vic Janowicz of Ohio State in 1950 and Roger Staubach of Navy in 1963.

Sports in brief

FOOTBALL

NEW YORK — Archie Griffin, the slashing Ohio State tailback who has rushed for over 100 yards in each of his last 22 games, scored a runaway victory in the 1974 Heisman Trophy balloting to become only the fifth underclassman to win the award.

OKLAHOMA CITY — Randy White, Maryland's 248-pound defensive tackle, was awarded the Outland Trophy as the nation's top collegiate interior lineman.

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins' quarterback Bob Griese signed a long-term contract with the National Football League team for an estimated million dollars.

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Don Fambrough announced his resignation as head coach at the University of Kansas because his request was rejected for a contract extention.

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — P.W. "Bear" Underwood resigned from the head coaching position he had held for the past six seasons at the University of Southern Mississippi.

HOUSTON — Houston Oilers K.S. "Bud" Adams said his National Football League team had been fined $15,000 last season for having 68 players on the payroll during the regular season.

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Steelers will raise most ticket prices a minimum of $1.10 and a maximum of $5.10 for their National Football League games next season. A ticket that had been priced $3.15 this year will cost $8.25 next season.

Trades highlight baseball meet

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — You gotta believe Tug McGraw's with the Philadelphia Phillies.

And Dick Allen of the Atlanta Braves? Well, not everybody's ready to believe that just yet.

McGraw, Allen and Lee May were among the 13 players traded Tuesday in four deals at major league baseball's winter meetings.

The question remains whether Allen, the game's highest-paid player at $225,000 a year, will report to the Braves, who obtained the controversial first baseman from the Chicago White Sox for a reported $5,000 and a player to be named later.

Allen, 32 left the White Sox Sept. 14, saying he was retiring from baseball. However, he never made it official by putting it in writing, and recently he said he wanted to continue playing.

He was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

As part of the deal, the White Sox will keep the $5,000 even if Allen doesn't report. Chicago receives a player only if Allen shows up.

McGraw, one-time relief ace of the New York Mets who popularized the "You gotta believe!" slogan during the Mets' 1973 pennant drive, moved to Philadelphia in a six-player trade.

Outfielders Don Hahn and Dave Schneck also went to Philadelphia. In return, the Phils sent outfielder Del Unser, left-handed pitcher Mac Scare and rookie catcher John Stearns to New York.

Unser, who will be 30 Monday, is expected to provide the Mets with their first solid center fielder in years.

"We feel McGraw can be the stopper in our bullpen," Phillies' Manager Danny Ozark said of the 30-year-old left-hander who had a 6-11 record and a 4.50 earned-run average last season and was rarely effective. "Relief pitchers have been known to have on-and-off years."

Unser, a left-handed hitter who batted .264 with 11 homers and 61 runs batted in, is regarded as a top-flight fielder.

Baltimore obtained May, a power-hitting first baseman, and minor league outfielder Jay Schleuter from the Houston Astros for second baseman Rob Andrews, who has had an outstanding minor league career, and infielder-outfielder Enos Cabell.

In the other transactions, the New York Yankees sent first baseman-outfielder Bill Sudakis to the California Angels for right-handed pitcher Skip Lockwood.

Allen, who previously played with Philadelphia, St. Louis and Los Angeles, won the American League's most Valuable Player Award in 1973 and batted .301 with 32 home runs and 88 RBI in 1974.

The departure of May to Baltimore will move the Astros' Bob Watson from left field to first base. Cabell batted .241 last season for the Orioles and is expected to be a reserve with the Astros.

May, 31, who batted .268 with 24 homers and 85 RBI last season, will play first base, making veteran Boog Powell expendable.

No word on expansion matters was expected until Thursday with Seattle, Denver.

World Bowl set

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A disenchanted bunch of Birmingham Americans has reversed field and agreed to play in a World Bowl overflowing with ill will.

Florida's Blazers, who have not been paid in months, say they won their berth in the World Football League's first championship by beating Memphis out of anger at what they saw as a "setup" Birmingham-Memphis finale.

And the Americans, who walked away from a scheduled practice Monday and threatened not to show up for Thursday night's championship game, said at a Tuesday news conference they would play despite their anger over missed paydays.

At least player representative Charlie Harraway said most of them will show up. Harraway said a players' meeting at which the decision was made to play was "very heated.

"A couple of guys got up and wanted to fight," he said. "I don't know if we're going to have 100 per cent of our players but we'll have enough to play."

Harraway said the Americans are "quite disenchanted" and have not been paid in five or six weeks. Linebacker Ross Brupbacher said it had been eight weeks since the players got paychecks.

Several of the veterans negotiated late into Monday night with owner Bill Putnam, and a player who did not want to be identified said:

"We don't want to be negative at this time, but it really looks like the game won't be played. The team has poured millions into the economy of Birmingham but no one wants to come forward and help us financially."

But Harraway, a running back who is also the WFL Players Association president, said Tuesday the Americans will play the game "for the citizens of Birmingham and for our pride.

"We're not playing for back pay ... We are playing for the championship."

Putnam has said it would take $750,000 for the team to pay its back taxes, bills and back salaries, and that he has had trouble borrowing the money or finding substantial investors. He said Tuesday he had no comment on the players' decision to play.

Harraway said "There is no way we're going to get any money." But he added that league officials had warned that a boycott of the World Bowl would damage the league's chances for next year. And he added: "We're concerned that the WFL keep going so we can eventually get our back pay."

Harraay said the players would get a portion of Thursday night's gate "but it will be only a few hundred dollars per man."

After stadium rental and other game expenses are deducted, the players are to get 70 per cent of the gate receipts

2. Card of Thanks

To the many friends and relatives of Noah Heath, the family would like to express our appreciation as best we can for all the many kindnesses shown during his illness and death. The floral offerings, memorials to Dogwood Church, Cerebral Palsy, Heart Association and cancer are just past describing. The service of Rev. Floyd Brower, Rev. A. A. Noggle, Miss Monte Allen and Mrs. Mary Dale Sater has filled our hearts with love to the utmost. Thanks is just not a big enough word to truly express what we really feel, but please accept this from the depth of our hearts.

Margaret, Marjorie and Bill, Kenny and Nancy, Brenda and all of the grandchildren.

Modern drugs make TB picture bright

Remember when we called TB "consumption?" The American Lung Association of Eastern Missouri remembers. That was in the early years of the Association's 70 year old battle against this lung crippling disease.

Then along came Christmas Seals, and everyone who cared, got into the battle. Contributions, as today, ranged from pennies to large amounts and also, the giving of services and time to the program. One of America's first health voluntary programs was under way.

People who care today are noticing the large number of emphysema victims. One of the fastest growing diseases in the country, more than a million people suffer from the disabling effects of this disease. Lung physicians are agreed that we are at the same point in the control of emphysema as we were with tuberculosis 70 years ago. More research; more training of professionals to cope with the disease on a community basis; more education of patients and families; and more programs aimed at preventing the disease are needed.

Is TV a disease of thepast? TB is a tricky disease. Last year, approximately 4,400 people died from it and half a million are directly affected by it. Thanks to modern drugs and updated detection methods, the TB picture is a bright one. Even so, constant surveillance and continuing research are necessary. The trickiness of the germ causing TB lies in its ability to lie dormant in the body and become activated. The ALA of Eastern Missouri advocates that a tuberculin skir test be part of the annua phyusical checkup.

What about other diseases of the lung? The list is a long one anc your contribution to the ongoing annual Christmas Seal campaign helps support ongoing programs Statistics show that right now, 47 million men, women and children are suffering from Asthma, Chronic Bronchitis, Emphysema, Tuberculosis, Hay Fever, Chronic Sinusitis and other lung and respiratory conditions. Your Lung Association is working toward helping these people. In addition, programs include workshops on the health effects of air pollution, and "How to Kick the Habit" smoking clinics.

2 bound over on weapon charge

NEW MADRID — Two Portageville men, charged in separate cases with carrying a concealed weapon, having been bound over to Circuit Court and placed under bond of $1,000 each after waiving preliminary hearings in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

William Hall is charged with carrying a concealed .22-caliber automatic pistol in his pocket, and Donnie McCarter is accused of concealing a .22-caliber sawed-off rifle.

McCarter, a minor, was also fined $66 for underage possession of beer. He was given a six-month suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for six months.

Charles Robbins drew a $75 fine, six-month suspended jail sentence and probation for one year on a charge of underage possession of beer.

Charged with possession of less than 35 grams of marijuana, Bobby Recker and Craig Nelson of New Madrid and Shelia Ruby of Marston were fined $59 each.

Charged with driving while intoxicated and no operator license, Joe Sherman Everett and Joe Lockridge were fined $125 each, given six-month suspended jail sentences and placed on probation for one year.

Frank Coffee charged with driving while intoxicated and no operator license was levied a $130 fine and received a year on probation when a six-month jail sentence was suspended.

Other cases and fines:

Eddie Paul Rinehart, following too closely, $40; Obie Arphus Sisk, no trailer lights, $20; Joseph Albert Dormer, speeding, $32; Patty Lynn French, speeding, $30; and Vernice Mildred Walker, expired vehicle license, $20.

Donald Tucker

Tucker elected senate head

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. Donald L. Tucker, son of Mrs. Rose H. Gray of New Madrid, a sophomore at Rust College in Holly Springs, was recently elected president of the Men's Senate and chairman of Student Government Association Ways and Means Committee.

He is also a director of the Safety Club at Rust.

New recruiting plan announced

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The U. S. Air Force has announced a special emphasis recruiting program designed to alleviate unemployment trends and provide substantial educational and technical training opportunities. "The program will be fully implemented in our area," stated Sgt. Jack Simpson, local Air Force recruiter.

The program is designed to provide a maximum number of job opportunities for high school graduates. It features no obligation aptitude testing, career counseling and job planning, leading to regular enlistment into the Air Force. Also included in the program is the regular delayed enlistment option whereby qualified applicants can enlist in the Air Force Reserve for up to 180 days before entering active duty.

"We feel we offer outstanding opportunities to learn a good technical skill — one that's useful both in the Air Force and marketable in civilian life," stated Sgt. Simpson, whose office is at 1313 Broadway and phone number is 335-6100.

The Allied land, air and Normandy coasts of France called the greatest invasion sea operation against the on D-Day, June 6, 1944, is in military history.

Dear Editor:

Jack Anderson's column of November 22 charged that the Federal Energy Administration "has quietly given the oil industry the means of creating a costly natural gas and oil 'shortage' in the next few months."

Mr. Anderson's totally meaningless accusation is based on the fact that individual oil companies, the American Petroleum Institute, other trade associations and federal agencies have responded to FEA requests for advice in designing a questionnaire through which the federal government hopes to obtain an independent analysis of U.S. oil and gas reserves.

In the first place, there is no connection between the estimates of the nation's proved reserves of oil and gas and any possible shortages during the next few months. The capability of the industry to produce, refine, and deliver oil and gas in sufficient quantities to meet demand will determine whether shortages occur. Proved reserves, on the other hand, are estimates of oil and gas which have been discovered and are believed to be recoverable in future years under present-day economic and operating conditions.

Secondly, the API does not believe the approach being followed by the FEA in sending out the proposed questionnaire will produce realistic reserves figures, and we so informed the FEA from the beginning. With a survey going to 23,000 oil and gas operators of all sizes, who keep their records in many different ways, there is little likelihood that meaningful information will result.

We recommended that the federal government make the best use of its effort and resources by making a thorough and objective audit of the accuracy and completeness of data already developed by industry experts.

Since our basic recommendations were rejected, the API and the industry responded to the FEA's request for technical assistance on such matters as clarifying definitions and identifying he kinds of data that would be most meaningful, given the approach which FEA had elected to take. In several instances the industry suggested the addition of certain relevant information that had been omitted by the FEA.

Thirdly, Mr. Anderson is completely wrong when he states that the oil complanies will send their survey forms to the API for checking before the FEA receives them. In accordance with FEA procedures, the API will at no time have access to the individual operator responses to the survey. Indeed, if suvh a suggestion had been made, the APIwould have rejected it immediately.

Sincerely,
J. E. Hodges
Director,, Division of Statistics
American Petroleum Institute

Dear Editor:

Nixon has proven beyond any doubt the states needs very little guidance from the federal government, when Nixon was elected president in 1968 he immediately commandered all branches of the executive department to serve the interest of this one little man who had become president by hook and crook. He very swiftly set up an organization whose single purpose (without regard for country or fellow man was to reelect himself 4 years later, supporters for this type of unAmerican, unDemocratic, unChristian and gestapo type of government came out of the woodwork like roaches out of the walls, financial contributors for this criminal regime were plentiful, religious leaders (like Reverend Billy Graham) were enthusiastic in their support of the antiChrist movement by this freakish little man whose name is Richard Milhous Nixon.

This Godless creature timed the horrible Vietnam war to serve his selfish personal interest at the polls in 1972, after his overwhelming victory at the polls in 1972 Nixon became so drunk with power he further put himself above the laws, rules, decency, fairplay and the constitution that governed his fellow man. While this little intoxicated president concentrated on deceiving the people and using force to subdue all opposition and all executive branches of the federal government to bow down to his level, and in spite of the lawless Nixon and associates, the states continued to function normally and are holding the union together, a responsibility that belongs to the federal government.

Nixon wa a little sick man trying to lead a big sick nation and both are floundering in a sea of confusion. Nixon has thrown all his aids on the mercy of the courts while he maneuvered a pardon for himself.

I remember when Nixon put his hand on the Holy Bible and took his oath of office. He then made mockery of that Bible and the constitution he was entrusted to protect for every citizen in America.

Like Adolph Hitler, Nixon had no true friends and finally could trust not even one man. But unlike Hitler, Nixon has chosen slow torturous suicide while Hitler ended his sorry life immediately, but one of the many lessons we should have learned from Richard Nixon is, the states needs very little federal government — but the federal government needs all the states.

Proof of age needed

Q. What should I bring for my age proof when I apply for social security benefits?

A. We will need the best evidence. Normally, this is a birth or baptismal certificate recorded before the age of 5. If this record doesn't exist, school records, Federal and state census records, marriage records, and other documents recorded early in your life will be adequate.

Q. I was 72 years old this year. Although I haven't retired, my social security checks automatically began coming to me every month. Can I keep them?

A. Yes. After you are 72, your earnings do not affect your entitlement to social security benefits. At that point, social security becomes an annuity program.

Q. I am 64 years old. I've been told by my frinds that if I start my social security checks now I'll have to take a 20 per cent reduction in my benefit. Is this correct?

A. No. If you start your benefits at the age of 64, your benefit will be reduced by about 7 per cent. This is because you are only 12 months under the age of 65.

Q. I've been getting my social security checks since I was 65. My wife will be 62 this year. Will she get half of my benefit amount?

A. No. Her check will be reduced 25 per cent because she is just 62. If she waits until she is 65, she will receive half of your check.

Q. When I applied for social security disability payments, I was denied for medical reasons. Since I'm still unable to work at my trade, could I get monthly supplemental security income payments?

A. No. The disability requirements are now the same for both the social security program and the Federal supplemental security income program. People must be severely disabled and unable to do any substantial gainful work for a year or more.

Q. My 32-year-old son, who has been disabled since birth, lives with me. He has no income, and he doesn't own any property. Would he be eligible for the new Federal assistance payments?

A. Since your son doesn't have any income and resources, he might be eligible for supplemental security income payments. However, his payment would be reduced by one-third in consideration of the value of the room and board he gets from you

Q. A friend told me that I could get extra credit from social security if I kept on working past 65 and didn't get any monthly benefits on my work record. What does my friend mean by extra credit?

A. The extra credit will mean increased monthly checks from social security when you do retirea and start getting benefits. Any worker who delays retirement past 65 will get a benefit increase of one-twelfth of 1 percent for each month after 65 and before 72 that he doesn't receive a check because of his earnings. This delayed retirement credit only applies to months after December 1970.

Q. I'm 67, and I recently fell and put a deep gash in my arm. I was treated in the emergency room at the hospital, but I didn't stay overnight. Are these services covered under my Medicare medical insurance?

A. Yes. Medicare medical insurance helps pay for emergency room services.

SEASONAL SYMBOL

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Eggs have been a symbol of Easter since the earliest days of Christianity. Ancient Persians believed that the world was hatched from an egg on the first day of spring, according to Hallmark researchers. Early Egyptians, Greeks and Romans all saw the egg as a symbol of the universe and a token of spring, fertility and rebirth.

Christians first used eggs to symbolize the resurrection in Mesopotamia. Eggs were consecrated and the shells stained red to represent Christ's blood.

Draft evader can't find job

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Steven Edward Thiellen, 24, Nebraska's first draft evader to return to the country under President Ford's Vietnam era re-entry program, is finding it hard to find a job, and time is running out.

Thiellen returned from Ontario, Canada, and turned himself in Oct. 29. A federal grand jury indicted him on draft evasion charges Sept. 30, 1970. He failed to report to his local draft board here June 16, 1970.

Thiellen says he feels the President's return program is "economic punishment."

Thiellen and his wife now live with his parents here.

Thiellen said he has been turned down just about everywhere he has gone looking for a job because under the provisions of the Ford proposal, the jobs must be exclusively open to him — there can be no other applicants.

Even with the help of State Selective Service Director Edward Binder, Thiellen said, "Now where are you going to find a job that anyone wants where you're the only applicant. They're not really trying to punish you out front, they're trying to punish you economically."

Thiellen said he would like to do something socially significant under the two-year plan but that "what they want to do is scrub floors or be a bed pan nurse for your time, and then they say fine, take off."

Thiellen added that even after completion of the work program, the record on his indictment will not be erased, but will stay with hime for the rest of his life.

Thiellen has been quoted as saying he would like to return to Canada after finishing his 20-month alternative service. He said prospective employers have misinterpreted the statement.

The reason he wants to return to Canada is because employers there accept him, whereas he is not accepted in the United States.

Thiellen said he was not aware of all the complications in the Ford plan when he made the decision to return.

"I thought you could come back and take about any job . . . and jobs wouldn't be so hard to get . . . . man . . . there's a hundred applicants for every job that pays over $5,500 a year."

Thiellen said he does not think the Ford proposal offers amnesty at all.

"I wish people would stop calling it amnesty. It's not even called amnesty in the proclamation. It's a re-earned, re-entry program," said Thiellen.

Thiellen said the government has not admitted that Vietnam-era draft evaders were right in refusing to be inducted, "they make you sign a bond on your own recognizance, they make you feel like a criminal, and they want you to take the lowest sort of job. But they actually don't say that, they hide it in the rules."

Under the proposal, Thiellen must find a job by Friday. In the meantime, he says he is waiting by the telephone.

Big Catch

The heaviest of all invertebrate animals is the Atlantic giant squid (Architeuthis Princeps). The largest specimen ever recorded was one measuring 55 feet overall, captured Nov. 2, 1878 after it had run aground in Tickle Bay, Newfoundland. Its eyes were 9 inches in diameter.

Without the middle class Ford's lost

By Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Ford economically is attempting to be all things to all people — except the middle class.

Psychologically, this may be Mr. Ford's undoing, though he says the surtax, in practice, will be small. For the middle class as individuals — the highly skilled machinist, welder and technician, the office manager, foreman and middle-level manager, blue and white collar alike — are the men and women Mr. Ford must depend upon to provide the brains and resources to make his program a success.

They have been hit by so many discriminatory blows these past few years (in college scholarships for their children for one) that any new tax which focuses on their incomes is sure to create strong resentment. If the morale of this group is shattered, what chance does the Ford program have?

Just as worrisome, an economic grab bag that includes so many compromise half-do, half-don't solutions, is bound to be picked to pieces by Congress with considerable vigor. This leads me to believe the parts which survive may not add up to a workable whole.

But let us suppose, for the sake of argument, that Mr. Ford has his way and that Congress votes him every law he is asking for. He does not have the organization and skilled managers to effectively put an anti-inflation, energy-independence program into effect.

In the main, whatever small numbers of men he can draw in from the outside, he must in the end rely on a bureaucracy which has failed miserably in promoting energy production and conservation and in developing or supervising inflation programs. There has been so much inter-departmental backbiting that some upper-middle-level officials are resigning in despair, being convinced that nothing will happen.

Mr. Ford's proposal is a shopping list, not a program. His speech before Congress, of course, was a mere outline and tells little about how this 31-ring circus is to be handled. The 43-page backup fact sheet adds little more. Officials questioned differ widely in their interpretation and in their evaluation of what is and is not possible.

There are concrete proposals of course. Witness the 5 per cent surtax on corporations and middle- and upper-bracket taxpayers, the 10 per cent allowance on depreciation, and extended and broadened unemployment programs, Congress willing. But consider the bewildering generalities.

when you put Rice Krispies in your Marshmallow Treats.

'Tis the season to enjoy an extra savings on Kellogg's Rice Krispies and extra-good Holiday eating with Marshmallow Treats. This delicious, crunchy confection takes only minutes to make. Requires no baking. Uses just three tasty ingredients: Rice Krispies, marshmallows and margarine. So, clip the coupon and easy recipe. Put a dime in your pocket and tasty Marshmallow Treats on your Holiday table.

MARSHMALLOW TREATS

¼ cup regular margarine or butter
1 pkg. (6 to 10 oz.) regular marshmallows, about 40, OR 4 cups miniature marshmallows
5 cups KELLOGG'S RICE KRISPIES cereal

1. Melt margarine in large saucepan over low heat. Add marshmallows and cook, stirring constantly, until marshmallows are melted and mixture is very syrupy. Remove from heat.
2. Add Rice Krispies cereal. Stir until well coated.
3. Using buttered spatula or waxed paper, press mixture evenly and firmly in buttered 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Cut into squares when cool.

Yield: 24 squares, 2 x 2 inches

NOTE: For thicker squares, press warm mixture into buttered 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Best results are obtained when using fresh marshmallows. About 2 cups marshmallow creme may be substituted for marshmallows. Add to melted margarine and cook over low heat about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Proceed as directed in step 2 above.

COOKING-UP

Mrs. John Beis of Bertrand and her son Andy, 4, are busy preparing a dish from one of the recipes Mrs. Beis shares with readers in today's Cooking-Up column.

By MARY WINCKEL

Now that those hot summer days have vanished, our minds begin to wander back to the kitchen and tasty dishes we can serve our families. Chilly mornings are a good time for baking, especially now that the festive holidays are near.

Mrs. John Beis of Bertrand enjoys her kitchen and is always trying out new recipes, as well as making frequent used old ones. Her 4-year-old- son Andy is a willing assistant, and her husband does the sampling and judging.

Mrs. Beis, her husband and son moved to Bertrand four years ago from Perryville. Her husband is employed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, and she is a housewife who enjoys sewing, arts and crafts, camping and, most of all, cooking.

In sharing a few of her favorite recipes, Mrs. Beis says Scalloped Egg Plant is good served anytime, whether it be for Sunday dinner or for those special holidays, and Taglarine — a ground beef dish — can be prepared ahead of time and frozen.

Then when your family or guests can't endure the thought of turkey or ham, simply pull this dish from the freezer and pop into the oven while still entertaining your guests. Later, a tossed salad and homemade rolls prepared ahead of time will show what a thoughtful hostess you are.

If you want to relax with company, plan your menus early and do as much as possible in advance. Holidays are for you, too, so don't spend all your time in the kitchen.

SCALLOPED EGG PLANT

1/8 medium sized eggplant
1/8 beaten egg
1/2 cup milk
2 tbsp. melted butter
1 small onion chopped
1 cup dry bread or cracker crumbs

Pare eggplant, cut into one-inch pieces and cook in salted boiling water eight minutes. Drain; add egg, milk, butter, onion and bread crumbs.

Place in greased baking dish, top with buttered crumbs bake in moderate oven at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

For Spanish Eggplant, substitute 1 1/2 cups of canned tomatoes for milk and sprinkle one-half cup of grated American cheese over top. Serves six.

TAGLARINE

2 lbs. ground beef
1 large button garlic
1 large onion
1 large green pepper

Sear meat in bacon fat. Chop onion, garlic and pepper and cook with meat. Salt and pepper, add one quart can of tomato juice and one can of tomato puree. Reserve part of tomato juice to add if needed. Cook five minutes add one can of cream style corn and one can mushrooms. Cook five minutes more; add one-half of 12-ounce package of real fine noodles, and cook until well done. Pour into baking dish, sprinkle with lots of cheese.

RUM PECAN PUMPKIN PIE

1 1/2 cups canned or fresh pumpkin
3/4 c. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. ginger
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
3 eggs
1 cup milk
3/4 cup cream or evaporated milk
1/4 cup dark rum
1/2 cup pecans or walnuts
Golden pastry for one crust

Mix pumpkin, sugar, salt and spices; add eggs and liquid and blend well. Pour into pastry lined pan that has been sprinkled with chopped nuts. Cook at 425 degrees for 15 mins. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees and bake 30 or 40 minutes longer. Serve with whipped cream and spiced with a little ginger.

PRUNE CAKE

3 eggs
1 cup vegetable oil
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 cups flour
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. allspice
1 cup butter milk
1 cup chopped prunes (cooked)
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

Blend sugar and oil, add eggs. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add vanilla, nuts and prunes. Pour into buttered pan. Cook for 45 minutes at 300 degrees.

FROSTING

Frosting

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup buttermilk
1/2 tsp. soda
1/4 cup butter
1/2 tsp. vanilla

Boil mixture to good brisk boil and pour over cake without any beating.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

No one is more thrilled than I that movies are finally getting around to entertaining us with national disasters like floods, hurricanes and earthquakes.

The animals were beginning to get on my nerves. Oh, the Disney movies were harmless enough with Flipper laughing out loud when you fell out of the boat, and Gentle Ben smelling up the house with his bad breath, and Joy Adamson in Born Free running through 8,000 miles of game preserve and throwing her arms around just the right lion. (I've had my luggage eight years and still have to check the claim ticket.)

But then things got out of hand. Next thing you know little kids were teaching rats to kill on command. Birds were scaring Tippi Hedren half to death by aiming for her eyes. Snakes were taking over submarines which could demoralize a Navy. Frogs started to eat the theater patrons. Flies threatened to take over political parties and locusts were having New Jersey for lunch.

I became so suspicious of animals that one day at a picnic an ant scurried under a rock and I clubbed him to death with a tire iron just to make sure he didn't turn on me.

The only drawback I can see to bringing disasters to the screen is that we are limited. As I see it, there are possibly only 9 natural calamities: earthquakes, tidal waves, floods, hurricanes, volcanic eruptions, tornados, cyclones, typhoons and avalanches. I mean, how many times can Hollywood scare you to death by having you come face to face with Shelley Winters in a wet suit?

American theater goers have become mmune to fear. We are going to have to do better than to have the theater move while showing Charlton Heston during an earthquake.

To me, there are national disasters that haven't been explored yet.

How about a movie showing a 47-year-old woman being told by her obstetrician that she is expecting?

Or a man who is signing the papers on a $150,000 dream house and notices a termite just ate the pencil?

Or the man who discovers his septic tank is under his swimming pool?

Now that makes your flesh crawl.

Desert Delicacy

Many cacti bear edible fruit and shelter or otherwise help sustain creatures of the desert community, including man. The giant saguaro — which sometimes towers 50 feet — may house white-throated wood rats at its base.

Holiday Favorites From England, Updated

Many foods which we enjoy during the holiday season have been passed down from our European ancestors. American homemakers enjoy making and serving these perrenial favorites, but often need recipes that fit into their modern lifestyles.

If you're looking for a fruitcake recipe with Old-World flavor, try this one, adapted for today's homemakers in The Kraft Kitchens. Yuletide Fruitcake is a satisfying, but not too sweet cake, which can be classified inbetween the dark, brandy-soaked version and the delicate white fruitcake.

The use of vegetable oil in the recipe facilitates easy mixing — it's done completely by hand. Apple jelly lends a simple and different glaze to this fruitcake. You'll find Yuletide Fruitcake stays moist, even after cutting, and that's especially important during the holidays when guests drop in throughout the week.

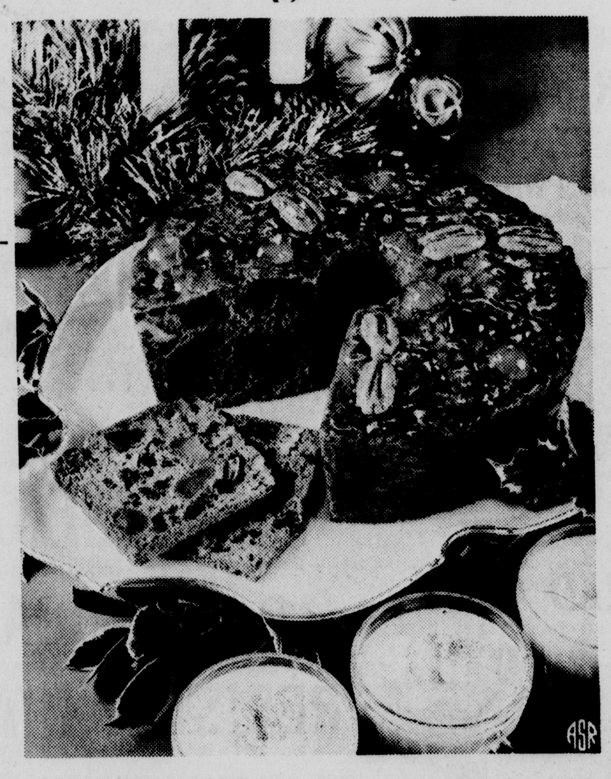
The English serve their fruitcake, or Christmas Cake as it's called, at tea. But whether it's on your menu for an afternoon or evening get-together, serve it with Syllabub, a frothy drink, also of English origin.

Originally, Syllabub was really a "bub" (the Elizabethan slang for bubbling drink), and had to be served immediately after mixing because of the use of champagne and stiffly beaten egg whites. Today's syllabub depends upon marshmallow cream instead of egg whites, and white wine rather than champagne, making it a delightful holiday beverage that can be made a few hours before guests arrive and refrigerated.

Yuletide Fruitcake

2 cups ready-to-use mincement
1 2/3 cups mixed diced candied fruit
1 1/2 cups chopped pecans
3/4 cup chopped dates
3 cups flour
1 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs, beaten
3/4 cup Kraft Oil
2 teaspoons vanilla

* * *



Kraft Pure Apple Jelly

Heat oven to 300°. Combine mincemeat, candied fruit, nuts and dates. Add combined dry ingredients; mix well. Combine eggs, oil and vanilla; stir into fruit mixture. Spoon into greased and floured 10-inch tube pan. Bake at 300°, 1 hour and 45 minutes. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Heat jelly until melted; glaze cake. Decorate with candied cherry halves and pecan halves, if desired.

Syllabub

1 7-oz. jar Kraft Marshmallow Creme
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
2 cups dry white wine
1/2 cup brandy
1 qt. milk
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Combine marshmallow creme, lemon juice and rind; mix until well blended. Stir in wine and brandy. Gradually beat in milk. Fold in whipped cream; chill.

Approximately 2 1/2 quarts.

Dear Santa

Dear Santa,

My name is Leslie Ann. I am 4 years old. I have been a bad girl, this year, but I'll try to be better next year.

Would you please bring me something nice for Christmas?

Don't forget to bring my brothers something too. Stevie wants a paint set, Jimmy wants a shotgun, and bring Marty, a girlfriend. Don't forget my Momma and Daddy.

I'll see you real soon. Don't forget we moved.

Love, Leslie Ann

P.S. Be sure to bring my grandma's and grandpa's something nice, and Aunt Jean too.

Bees may travel 13,000 miles to make a pound of honey.

Dear Santa

Dear Santa,

My name is Angie and I am almost 7. I am in the first grade and can write my own letter for the first time. I am learning to read in school, too, so Mom says she can't spell around me anymore.

I've tried hard to be good this year, but I sometimes forget. Please bring me a Barbie Fun Center, a Sno-Cone Machine, some cake mixes for my Easy-Bake Oven, and some new books.

My brother Mark is almost two years old now and watches tv commercials. He says he wants a Digger Dog, a Tonka Dump Truck, a Play Action Garage, and some Lincoln Logs.

If we're asking for too much, Santa, please share our toys with some poorer children who don't have many. Daddy tells us Christmas is Jesus' birthday and we should be kind to others not only at Christmas, but all year long.

Your friend,
Angie Fortner

Dr. Lamb

This rash isn't syphilis

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — We are hearing so much about syphilis today, I wish you would give me a few pointers. Is old age syphilis and the syphilis young people have the same disease?

I have heard the chancre is the first sign and would that come on the buttocks, and would it come in the same place three or four times a year? Does it itch?

I have heard something about a rash, is that so?

DEAR READER — Syphilis is a contagious disease, and the same germ causes it in all age groups. Even if you are 100 and are exposed to the germ and do not have immunity you may develop the disease.

People often think of syphilis as a disease of young people, but it is important in today's free, uninhibited society to remember that age is no protection. Older people are far more active sexually than used to be appreciated. With the lessening of prejudices against older people, there have been some further changes in sexual behavior which increases the chances of venereal disease in this age group.

The chancre is the same in all ages. It is a small sore and commonly appears on the sexual organs, not the buttocks. It occurs only once in the first few weeks of the illness and does not occur again. It is painless and does not itch. If you have a rash and it itches, it is not syphilis. The rash that occurs later in untreated syphilis doesn't itch.

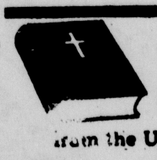
Some people who have had untreated syphilis develop an immunity and in effect the disease is cured by the body's own defense mechanism. These people are not likely to get syphilis again any more than you are apt to get chicken pox again, if you have already had it. They won't transmit the disease, either.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have two daughters, aged 5 and 1. My older daughter has had the smallpox vaccination. My doctor recently told me the shot was not necessary any longer. This worries me. If all children stop receiving it, isn't an outbreak of smallpox possible, as with the case of measles?

DEAR READER — The World Health Organization thinks that smallpox is on its way to being an extinct disease — the world's first example of complete disappearance of a disease from the globe.

Smallpox is dependent upon humans to survive. When the number of cases of human smallpox becomes so small the organisms can't produce enough new organisms to avoid becoming extinct. It is something like the wildlife problem. If the population gets too small for a species, they become extinct.

Even the recent outbreak of smallpox in Asia does not dampen the World Health Organization hopes. So, very soon now there should never be another outbreak of even one case of smallpox anywhere on the earth. The risk is already so small that the risk of vaccination complications is greater than that of getting the disease itself. You can stop worrying about that problem.



Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

"Though our sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."

PRAYER: Redeeming Savior, thank You for renewal of a person, even one in poor condition. Thank You for bringing me out of the pit of sin. Thank You that even as we repent, we are forgiven. Amen.

Americans to collect in settlement

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Up to a million persons in six states will divide $25 million by next spring in an antitrust settlement from five major drug companies, according to directors in charge of refunding the money. But one claimant who may run into difficulty is Eva Gabor.

A clerk said Monday that the actress submitted a form requesting a refund but didn't list her age. The form was sent back, the clerk said. She didn't know if Miss Gabor had returned it.

The refunds are for persons who bought medicines containing the drug tetracyclene from 1954 to 1966. A class action suit accused the companies — American Cyanamid, Bristol-Myers, Pfizer, Olin and Upjohn — of overpricing the drugs. The firms settled the suit for $39 million, of which about $14 million will go to various state agencies.

Actress files for divorce

ESTES PARK, Colo. (AP) — Actress Sue Lyon and an inmate at the Colorado State Penitentiary were married at the prison a year ago this mnth. Now, she has filed for divorce.

Miss Lyons' lawyer, Joseph P. Jenkins, said divorce papers were filed Tuesday, claiming the marriage to convicted murderer Cotton Adamson is "irretrievably broken."

Miss Lyons, 28, who starred in "Lolita" at age 14, had been living near the prison and visiting Adamson regularly. Jenkins said she moved to the mountain resort town of Estes Park about a month ago.

The life you take may be your own

By Tom Tiede

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One of the arguments against legalizing abortion has been that once society begins to violate the sanctity of life a little, the door is open to violate it a lot.

Accustomed to terminating the "life" of unwanted fetuses the argument goes, the nation is increasingly discussing the possibilities of eliminating other burdensome beings.

Regularly, the press reports new concepts of euthanasia and beyond. Fr. Frichard McCormack, learned Jesuit of Georgetown University, has announced his support for the removal of newborn infants with deformed bodies who have no potential for human relations.

A Florida state legislator, Walter Sackett, has introduced a bill which would allow the "mercy killing" of Mongoloids and other retarded people.

Then there is the hospital in Coral Gables, Fla., which recently went to court to evict a 21-year-old patient who has been in a coma for 16 months; the hospital says the patient is terminal, expensive, and it wants the bed space.

But the boldest concept of all, at least the most far-reaching, has come from a respected Washington physician who is calling for the creation of committees which would be empowered to decide "when life may be terminated in these people who no longer live in a productive manner."

Dr. Darrell C. Crain, past president of the D.C. medical society and now head of this town's Arthritis Rehabilitation Center, says large numbers of old, sick and handicapped people are being "kept alive without any particular purpose."

The trend here is not merely academic. It is real. Dr. Robert Veach of the Institute of Social Ethics and the Life Sciences, a professional who monitors the pulse of opinion concerning life and death, says the movement toward expanding euthanasia is currently on the threshhold of "experiments at the hospital level." He says he knows of no experiments going on now — nor does the American Medical Association, nor the National Institute of Health — but he regards the eventuality as not just likely but "probable."

Already, as a practical if not always legal matter, euthanasia of various sorts is fairly common. There are numbers of infants born with grotesque maladies — "God only knows how many," says an AMA spokesman — who are killed in secret by delivering doctors.

And to be sure, there are growing numbers of physicians willing to let their patients or their patients' families decide questions of life and death. Subscribing to the theory of "the right of a man to die with dignity," doctors normally do not induce death in these cases but instead withdraw life-preserving medical techniques.

Taken individually, most areas of euthanasia as practiced today have compelling, always merciful, rationales. Doctors who destroy deformed infants are saving the children from lives of horror. Yet the gnawing reality remains that, taken as a whole, a trend Dr. Veach describes as "terribly dangerous," may be developing.

Who will be next, in other words, to be classified as unwanted, inhuman, unnecessary, unproductive; who will be next to be eliminated?

The question may be "Strangelovian" but then so is the answer. Dr. Crane has said it to the unproductive. It may still be ridiculous to imagine a social order so efficient or pressed as to legalize the elimination of the enfeebled or the senile — yet tomorrow is another day.

Facing it, we might do well to remember the story of the society which one day democratically voted to send all people over 65 to a camp to await euthanasia. All went well until each voter himself reached 65 and then, too late, realized the error.

Senator favors commission

By NELSON B. TINNIN
State Senator

There has been much discussion during the past sevearal months concerning the advantages or disadvantages of Missouri's regional planning commissions.

I have had the opportunity to work with three Regional Planning Commissions in the past years while serving in the Missouri Senate: The Bootheel, the Ozark Foothills, and the South Central Ozarks. I have taken time out of my schedule to serve on the Goals Committee of all three Commissions, not just as a State Senator but as an interested citizen of my community; and I have worked with all the Commissions toward implementation of various projects and programs.

If someone were to ask me the reason I have supported the Regional Planning Commission Concept in Missouri, the answer is two-fold.

In Jefferson City, we are faced yearly with legislation designed to solve problems which are prevalent Statewide and with appropriations to a multitude of State agencies for the implementation and enforcement of this legislation. However, many of us in the Missouri General Assembly recognized that there were many problems suffered by local governments, counties and cities, which could not be solved through State Legislation; and because of the tax burden imposed upon the citizens of Miassouri by the State and federal governments, adequate resources were not available on the local level to hire the professional staffs necessary to solve these problems.

The second reason, and equally important, is the realization by many that numerous problems are unique to individual political jurisdictions and by the naure of the problem must be handled individually. There are problems, however, which are common to many areas of our State which could be dealt with collectively by member governments within a certain area or Region.

This does not mean that the local governments must join together through consolidation to solve the problems. This mearely means that through cooperation of local units of governments, common problems can be solved. To more clearly understand this reason, we must realize that because of todays technology, problems do not always stop at political subdivision boundaries; but certain problems are shared by many political subdivisions. Citizens residing in one city within an area may depend upon another city for health care, retail goods, wholesale goods, or industrial jobs. In turn, those persons who reside in the city which provides these goods or services depend upon the total area for the sale of these goods and services.

There is therefore, some dependency, one on the other, and hence the need of co-operation between political subdivisions to assure adequate transportation facilities, law enforcement, industrial development, community services and health care for all persons living within an area.

Only through the co-operation of local elected officials can a total area or region be improved which is the reason I support the regional planning commissions.

What then is a regional planning commission? A regional planning commission in Missouri is a voluntary association of local governments, authorized by law and operated under the jurisdiction of its local government members. The authority of regional planning commissions in Missouri is limited by law to an advisory function only. It may not regulate, enforce or control. It does, however, provide a strong collective voice in dealing with Jefferson City and Washington, D. C.

One of my colleagues in the Missouri Senate has indictated that regional planning commissions in Missouri are a bureaucracy and, therefore, should be eliminated. It is quite evident that this individual does not understand the regional planning commission concept in Missouri, and in essence, through such advocation suggests that local governments do not need assistance and must look to the state and federal governments for the necessary expertise to solve local problems. I suggest that the state and federal bureaucracies are not as aware of the problems and needs of the various area of our State as those local elected officials who every day must answer to the public.

I further suggest that, in the past, State and Federal Bureaucrats have put forth inacceptable and unworkable solutions to the local problems either by being unable to relate to all areas of the State or by applying blanket solutions to the State.

I would much prefer that the local elected officials and local governments be sgrengthened by providing them professional staffs, in an advisory capacity, responsible to them and working with them so that the local elected officials can develop adequate solutioins to the problems. In essence, my colleague, through his advocacy of the elimination of regional planning commissions, would in effect propose to weaken local government by taking away a most valuable resource.

Another issue which has been discussed is that regional planning commissions are a tool of the federal government for the purpose of forcing local governments to comply with federal regulations. I have long been concerned with the "Big Brotherism Approach" practiced by the federal government and I have disagreed with many of the regulations placed upon rural Missouri by the State Legislature under the guise of compliance with federal regulations or passed as the result of a threat by the federal government of the withholding of funds from some federal program until such a law is passed.

The eliminiation of regional planning commissions in Missouri will not change these federal regulations or practices. This change can only come about through the Congress or through interpretatins by the courts. The elimination of regional planning commissions would perpetuate such practrices, in that, a valuable tool would be taken from local governments which they have used as a resource to comply with or respond to such regulations.

We must remember that the staffs of regional planning commissions work for the local elected officials and would be more responsive to that elected official than a bureaucrat in Washington or Jefferson City.

A final issue which has in effect become the major issue concerning the value of regional planning commissions is land use control. I have long been an opponent of the "Wild Rivers Bill" and similar legislation concerning the control of privately owned land by the federal and state government. I have alsoserved as chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee for many years; and, prior to my election to the Missuri Senate, I served on the Soil and Water Conservation Commission, taught vocational agriculture and farmed.

Over the years, I have supported land use planning on individual farms to improve corp yields, prevent erosion and improve drainage, however, such controls were voluntary on the part of the individual farmer. The degree of farm management or land use planning was dependent upon the individual farmer and this also is the case with land use planning and land use control as they relate to individual cities or counties.

Control of land use by local government may be extremely necessary in some areas; and , conversely, unnecessary in other areas of our State. This is the responsibility of local government to determine and not the responsibility of the state or fedreal governments. In Missouri, land use controls can only be established by a vote of the people. (Chapter 64.800 to 64.905 R.S. Mo) To say that the use of all land use controls is bad is not fair because we then take away a tool from local government which could be necesaary to solve a local problem. The determination as to the need for land use controls must be decided by the people they affect and the emphasis on land use planning by planning commissions is in direct proportion to the demand for land use planning activities by member governments.

In closing, as a citizen of Missouri and my community, I would like to commend the efforts of Missouri's Regional Planning Commissions; and those local elected officials who have worked within their individual commission toward improvement of our area.

I would further suggest that for those of you who are not acquainted with the work of these Commissions, contact the Commission offices; or better yet, attend a Commission meeting to become better informed as to the programs of the individual Commission. By working with the Planning Commissions, we can hopefully strengthen the cornerstone of our system — local government.

Inflation seminar is held

COLUMBIA — The presence of both inflation and recession at the same time in the U.S. economy is very disturbing.

This is one of numerous points economists agreed on at a seminar on inflation held for 50 agricultural leaders Nov. 22 at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Other points of agreement were: The current inflation is a serious and persistent problem; the causes are complex and interrelated; and there is little hope for quick and easy solutions.

The discussion dealt at length on the question of how the U.S. can have recession and double digit inflation at the same time.

"The extent to which we answer this question will determine whether we have an opportunity for any satisfactory long run solution," according to Sheldon Stahl, vice-president and senior economist, Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City.

He said increasing economic concentration has been the cause of much of the problem. Some industries and labor groups have the power to maintain or increase prices or wages in spite of slack in the economy and high unemployment.

V. J. Rhodes, UMC agricultural economist, said he supported a proposal of far tougher anti-trust policy that weakens the market power of industries and unions which seem ready to accept almost any level of unemployment in order to enforce their price and wage demands.

"But I must admit that our history suggests that our anti-trust policy is not likely to be tough enough to make much difference," Rhodes said.

Another proposal, made by Stahl, was to examine the many regulatory agencies, such as the ICC, which came into being to promote competition on behalf of the consumer. He said that in some cases they appear to be stifling competition in the interests of the industries they are supposed to regulate.

Another UMC economist, Mona Dingle, warned against trying to make fiscal and monetary policy do too much too fast.

"I think it is essential that monetary and fiscal policy avoid being overly expansionary in a shortsighted attempt to jack up employment slightly at the expense of accelerating inflation in the future," she said.

The huge amounts of money being paid to the Mideast countries for oil has added another element of instability to the international money situation, according to Wayen Leeman, UMC economist. He said that right now much of this money is being invested in the U.S. on a short term basis. If the Mideast countries for oil has added another element of instability to the international money situation, according to Wayne Leeman, UMC economist. He said that right now much of this money is being invested in the U.S. on a short term basis. If the Mideast countries get jittery about the health of the U. S. economy, they might pull these funds out quickly, causing even more instability.

Summing up the session, Harold Breimyer, UMC agricultural economist said, "There would be nothing worse than letting inflation really run away with us."

The UMC agricultural economists are working with extension specialists throughout the state in setting up a series of area meetings to discuss inflation.

Service has its price

Comparison shopping entails more than simply checking price tags. A lower price may mean a real bargain, but the difference may result from limited customer services such as delivery, credit, installation, repair and maintenance.

Decide whether these services are important to you. If they are, you may be better off with the seemingly higher price.

Different types of stores, from department to specialty shops, through discount stores and warehouses, offer different services and thus may vary widely in merchandise prices.

Look around to find the stores that offer the most appropriate merchandise, services and prices. Don't forget though, the amount saved by comparison shopping, especially for low-priced items, may not be worth the cost in time, energy and shopping expenses.

OVEN FOR ALL

If you have to heat the oven for one dish, try to use it for the entire meal that night. Two or three dishes can be baked with little more energy than one.

Pick foods that cook at about the same temperature. With a little premeditation, you can still arrange to have everything finish at the same time.

Then go it one better and use the oven for a cake or other baked desert after you've removed the roast or casserole.

COLOR IT BLUE

If the gas flame of your stove isn't blue, you aren't getting the most energy for your money, because it isn't operating correctly.

If the flame has traces of yellow, the burners may be clogged. Clean them (after they've thoroughly cooled) with a wire pipe cleaner.

Also, keep reflector pans clean to maximize efficiency — the shinier they are the more heat they will reflect, thus saving energy.

A WARMER RADIATOR

If you paint your radiator or baseboard heating panels, use an enamel or nonmetallic paint.

Metallic or flat paints can reduce heating efficiency by up to 25 per cent.

Keep room heating units clean. Vacuum them periodically, having removed radiator covers. If you don't, a layer of dust may form in the radiator, insulating the unit and reducing efficiency.

(Have you a clever way to save energy or fight inflation? Send your idea to The Inflation Fighter in care of this newspaper. The best ideas will be used in future columns, and their authors will be rewarded with a free copy of the $1.50 book "Save Money-Save Gas.")

Salary cut proposed

By By STUART SYMINGTON
U.S. Senator

WASHINGTON, D.C.--At a press conference in Missouri on Oct. 25, I suggested the President, as well as members of Congress, take a reduction in salary to set an example for the nation, thereby helping curb and hold down the cost of running the government.

Following through on that suggestion, on Nov. 25, I introduced legislation to provide salary reductions for the Congress, the President and other top level positions in the legislative and executive departments.

The bill would provide that, effective Jan. 1, 1975, the salaries of all government employes of the legislative and executive branches earning $40,000 or more, including the President, senators and representatives, be reduced by 10 per cent.

Today in U. S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Dec. 4, the 338th day of 1974. There are 27 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1851, a workers' rebellion broke out in Paris and was suppressed by Louis Napoleon. The event is known in French history as the December Four Massacre.

On this date —

In 1783, George Washington, quitting as Commander in Chief, had a farewell dinner with his officers at Fraunces Tavern in New York.

In 1816, James Monroe was elected the fifth U.S. president.

In 1875, the New York Tammany leader, Boss Tweed, escaped from prison. He later was captured in Spain.

In 1942, in World War II, American bombers hit the Italian mainland for the first time.

In 1943, President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill held their second wartime meeting in Cairo.

In 1945, the U.S. Congress approved U.S. participation in the United Nations.

Ten years ago: The FBI arrested the sheriff of Neshoba County, Mississippi and 20 other white men in connection with the murder of three civil rights workers.

Five years ago: President Nixon announced that Judge Clement Haynesworth would retain his position as chief judge of the U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals although denied a Supreme Court seat.

One year ago: President Nicolae Ceausescu of Rumania arrived in Washington for talks with President Nixon on trade and Middle East hostilities.

Today's birthday: Spanish Chief of State Francisco Franco is 82.

Thought for today: If you would be wealthy, think of saving as well as of getting — Benjamin Franklin, 1706-1790.

Senior citizens food program marks first year

Tuesday marked the first anniversary of the nutrition program at Sikeston's Heritage House at 305 Cresap. The program provides hot, nutritious meals at low cost for senior citizens and at slightly higher cost for anyone who cares to eat in the Heritage House program. Crowds have proved the food popular during its first year. The total number of meals served for the year was 39,032. (Daily Standard photo)

Garrison's extradition approved

JACKSON, Miss.---After a nearly three-month battle, Dr. Norman A. Garrison Jr., of Corinth, a former Kennett, Mo., physician, has apparently lost his fight against the extradition request of Dunklin County, Mo., authorities for his return to Missouri to face a first-degree murder charge in connection with the Sept. 8 death of his ex-wife, Lee Ann Garrison.

Mississippi Gov. Bill Waller announced his decision to sign the extradition request at a news conference this morning in the state capitol building. The governor previously had stipulated that certain conditions would have to be met before he would sign the request.

The conditions apparently were met last week when his office received guarantees from Dunklin County authorities that bond would be available to the doctor throughout any and all court preceedings and a prior contempt of court charge against him would be held up until after disposition of the murder charge.

John B. Farese Sr., chief defense counsel for the Corinth physician, said today that he would file a request for a habeas corpus hearing. Informed sources said the request will be filed in Marshall County Circuit Court at Holly Springs.

Jimmy Williams, Waller's legal aide, said he was uncertain whether the official extradition papers would be mailed, or if Missouri authorities would pick them up in person.

Dunklin County Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker had said earlier that bond had been set at $25,000. His correspondence with the Mississippi governor said he would oppose any increase in bail and would fight any effort to increase it.

Waller had announced on Oct. 23 that he would grant extradition if Missouri Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond would guarantee an "irrevocable" bond and meet certain other conditions before he would grant extradition.

Waller cited concern for Dr. Garrison's patients and the fact that "conflicting evidence" was presented during a seven-hour hearing Oct. 10 as grounds for such requests.

Bond replied to Waller that he did not have the authority to enter such an agreement.

The Dunklin County authorities then forwarded papers in which they apparently agreed to comply with Waller's requests.

Informed sources say Dr. Garrison's attorneys have some "explosive evidence" ready to present at the habeas corpus hearing, which is expected to be conducted next week.

The new development in the case may concern a pistol that private investigators believe may be the murder weapon. The gun was confiscated from a former Dunklin County criminal arrested in Tennessee after an armed robbery and kidnaping near Somerville, Tenn., in early November.

Bill to loosen tight housing market approved by Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri Senate gave final approval today, wvly three dissenting votes, to a bill aimed at loosening the state's tight housing market.

The measure now goes to the House for action next week.

An emergency clause was adopted by the same vote—24-3—to put the bill bill into effect when the governor signs it. Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, said St. Louis and Kansas City have redevelopment projects ready to go as soon as the bill, which lifts the 8 per cent cent interest rate ceiling for most large loans, goes into effect.

It also increases the yield on redevelopment bonds from 6 to 10 per cent.

The measure was amended Tuesday to limit points to two and remove the 8 per cent ceiling for real estate loans, corporation loans and bu siness loans of $5,000 or more.

The Senate also gave finally approved and sent to the House four bills lowering the majority age in the state from 21 to 18. They would allow men to marry at 18 without parental consent and permit 18-year-olds to purchase real estate, sign contracts and become notary publics.

The Senate also planned to act a final time on four bills lowering the majority age from 21 to 18. They would allow men to marry at 18 without their parents' consent and allow 18-year-olds to buy real estate, sign a sales contract and get a notary public license.

The state Supreme Court declared unconstitutional a majority rights bill because it did not amend each of the 134 sections of law dealing with majority rights, but merely made a blanket statement saying that whenever the age of 21 was cited, it shall be changed to 18 by the reviser of statutes. The void majority rights law did not affect the right of 18-year-olds to vote or the denial of possession or drinking of alcoholic beverages until the age of 21.

Passed by the Senate and returned to the House was a $10.2 million appropriation bill. Most of the money goes for payments to the blind, disabled and aged, and $444,400 of it will pay for the special legislative session.

The Senate added $75,000 of the taxpayers' money to pay for maintenance, security and snow removal at a parking garage near the Capitol. The Office of Administration, which maintained the garage with funds from parking fees paid by non-legislative state employes, has turned the garage over to the legislature.

Last year, because of a reduction of parking on the Capitol grounds and in the Capitol basement, the legislature took over 100 places in the 287-spot garage.

The Senate Accounts Committee this year asked for more parking spots and the State Board of Public Buildings, made up of the governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general, decided to give legislators the entire garage.

About $220,000 of the appropriations package will go to the secretary of state to help his office gear up for the new campaign reporting law, which takes effect Jan. 1.

Dissenting in the 22-6 adoption of the usury rate bill were Sens. Donald Gralike, D-St. Louis; Emory Melton, R-Cassville; Norman Merrell, D-Monticello; James Noland, R-Osage Beach; Maurice Schechter, D-Creve Coeur, and Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann.

Port board to select chairman

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- The first meeting of the Southeast Missouri Regional Port Authority will be held at 4 p.m. Monday in the Cape Girardeau Chamber of Commerce office, 601 N. Kingshighway.

The eight-member board is responsible for establishing a port on the Mississippi River to serve Cape Girardeau and Scott counties.

Formation of the board was made possible Nov. 12 when the Missouri Department of Transportation granted the counties the authority to establish a port authority. The two counties had been seeking such a move since mid-summer.

The board consists of four members from each county. The Cape Girardeau County Court named C.W. Rushing, Maurice Dunklin, Robert Earley and A.J. Seier, all of Cape Girardeau, to serve on the commission.

The Scott County Court named Raymond Roth of Illmo, Mike Pfefferkorn of Chaffee, Jackson Hunter of rural Sikeston and C.B. Taylor of Morley to the commission.

At its first meeting, the board is to select a chairman and appoint a ninth member to serve the term of the member elected chairman.

Largest rise in six months

Sikeston food prices up again

By JACKIE SCHOENEMAN

Led by a huge increase in the price of sugar, the cost of the average food basket in Sikeston rose by $2.26 above the calculated cost of the October average food basket for the largest monthly increase since The Daily Standard began its monthly survey six months ago. The overall increase since the survey was started now amounts to $1.43 per basket.

The food basket cost for 42 selected items averaged $32.90 for Sikeston consumers at the end of November, compared to $30.64 for the same items in October.

Food basket costs were averaged after a survey of six grocery stores--Sikeston IGA, Safeway, Liberty, S&S Discount, Marks Food Mart and Barkett's Big Star--the same stores used in all previous surveys.

Five pounds of sugar led price increases for individual products. Sugar rose with an average gain of $1.07 in November. Since last July, the average local price for five pounds of sugar has risen $1.67.

Ice cream, possibly reflecting high sugar prices, has been rising steadily, including a nine-cent gain in November.

Other items with the biggest increases this month included Crisco shortening, up 16 cents for three pounds; Wesson oil, up 14 cents for 24 ounces; and Lipton instant tea, which climbed 19 cents for three ounces.

Among fruits and vegetables, a pound of tomatoes rose 15 cents from last month. Celery was down eight cents.

Meat prices continued to drop during November, with the exception of chicken fryers which increased six cents a pound from last month. Ground beef dropped six cents a pound.

For the third straight month, the average price for half a gallon of milk did not change. Other items which did not change in price were dried beans and Quaker Quick Oats.

Turn to page 5 for a complete table of prices for the 42 items surveyed.

Coal vote ends today

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Members of the United Mine Workers were concluding their voting today on a new contract as unofficial tabulations indicated a slim majority in favor of the pact.

UMW officials said no official voting figures would be released until Thursday when President Arnold Miller has scheduled a news conference to announce the decision of the 120,000 union members, who have been on strike for three weeks.

An unofficial Associated Press tabulation of scattered returns showed today that with 26,200 votes counted, 13,165 — or 50.2 per cent — were voting for the contract and 13,035 against.

However, sources in Washington said today that as of Tuesday night the union had counted 47,963 ballots with 27,117 votes for ratification — 56.5 per cent — and 20,846 votes against.

Miller has predicted the contract will be approved by a 60 per cent majority but the partial unofficial returns indicated it would be closer. The contract, which Miller calls one of the finest in the history of organized labor, would provide a 64 per cent increase in wages and benefits.

Voting results are to be telegraphed to the union's Washington headquarters by each local when the voting period ends tonight.

Until the votes are counted in Washington, the UMW has attempted to clamp down on local release of figures. Miller said he asked locals not to release preliminary totals "so as not to prejudice those still voting."

Balloting originally was to be completed Tuesday, but Miller extended the voting deadline through tonight after weekend snowstorms which crippled travel in the coal fields of Appalachia.

The UMW has said that if the proposed contract is ratified, mines which were struck by the UMW on Nov. 12 could begin reopening Monday.

The strike has forced more than 25,000 layoffs in coal-related industries such as steel and coal-hauling railroads, but most firms affected by the coal strike were holding off further layoffs pending completion of the UMW vote.

Unofficial figures compiled by The AP showed that the contract was flatly rejected by District 22 voters in Utah, Wyoming and Arizona. Miners there voted 1,020 to 709 against the pact.

Alabama miners, however, supported it, with 68 per cent of the 3,125 miners in favor.

Votes in other states, including the coal-rich regions of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio and Illinois were extremely close.

Loy Baugher

Loy M. Baugher, 56, of 318 Edmondson Drive died at 7 a.m. today of injuries received in a Nov. 19 automobile accident on North Main Street.

Baugher became the second traffic fatality in Sikeston this year. The accident occurred when his car struck the back of a farm implement truck that had stopped to make a left turn into the parking lot at El Capri Motel.

The city's other 1974 traffic fatality was Melvin Wilburn, 302 S. Stoddard St., who died Feb. 8 of injuries receiveed when a tractor-trailer truck ran over him at the Agrico Chemical Co. fertilizer plant on West Malone Avenue.

Baugher was a professional photographer for 26 years before retiring in August 1972.

He began his photographic career when he joined the Dysart Studio in 1946. The business soon became known as the Dysart-Baugher Studio and, when he purchased the business 17 years ago, it became Baugher Studio. He was a member of First United Methodist Church, Professional Photographers of America, Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion and was named to Who's Who in Missouri. He also was active in Boy Sdout leadership.

Baugher was born May 7, 1918 in Chickasha, Okla., to Charles F. Baugher of Sikeston and the late Mrs. Baugher.

On April 13, 1946, he married Mary Vinson, who survives.

In addition to his father and widow, survivors include two sons, Loy Mac Baugher of Memphis, Tenn., and Fred Baugher of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Myra Gilliland of Sikeston and Dawn Baugher of the home; five brothers, Jerry Baugher of Minneta, Minn., Fred Baugher of Simi Valley, Calif., Bernie Baugher of Baldwin, Calif.; Larry Baugher of Ojai, Calif., and Irwin Baugher of Camarillo, Calif; five sisters, Mrs Glenn Jones of Sikeston,Mrs. June James of Jackson, Mrs. Loriene Cook of Pierce City, Mrs. Enid Patterson of Palmsdale, Calif.; and Mrs. Betty Jones of Phoenix, Ariz.; and three grandchildren.

The body is at Welsh Funeral Home where arrangements are incomplete.

County shielded against depression

With inflation continuing unabated in Scott County, as it is elsewhere throughout the country, local residents are wondering whether a recession, or what is worse-- a depression-- is on the way.

The term "depression" is meaningless to most local people since they never experienced one personally. There hasn't been one in the United States since the 1930's. Two- thirds of those now living in Scott County were not alive then or were too young to remember it.

To the other one- third it brings back some bitter recollections. It was a time when industry ground almost to a standstill and when millions of workers lost their jobs.

Might it happen again? The consensus among the experts is that it is most improbable because of economic safeguards created since then.

What was it like, generally, during the 1930's? According to U.S. News and World Report, unemployment reached 25 per cent, which is over four times the rate in Scott County at present.

It was a time when the national output of goods and services fell by almost one-third in a period of four years.

By way of comparison, although there was no growth in that respect in the past year, neither was there a major slippage. The drop in the national output was about two per cent, not counting inflation.

The 1930's also saw people's investments and savings go down the drain. The stock market industrial average fell nearly 90 per cent in a period of three years.

As for personal income, it dropped 28 per cent in four years. This is in marked contrast to what has been happening in Scott County. During the last four years, family income after taxes went up 16 per cent locally, the figures show.

Despite the fact that the cost of living has gone skyhigh, pretty much offsetting these wage gains, families are protected from financial collapse by safeguards that did not exist during the 1930 depression.

There is now unemployment insurance and minimum wage laws to protect the worker. These are backed up by Social Security and, in many cases, by privatepensions. Bank accounts are Government- insured and home loans, running for longer periods, are easier to handle.

Morehouse man injured

A Morehouse man was injured in one area traffic accident Tuesday, the highway patrol announced today.

Clement Jackson McFarling, 69, of Morehouse received minor injuries in a two-vehicle accident at 3:10 p.m. Tuesday on Route Y two miles west of Sikeston.

The accident occurred when a southbound pickup truck, driven by Joseph Michael Schuchart, 26, of Sikeston, failed to stop at a stop sign and struck the front of McFarling's southbound car.

THE MAGIC OF GIVING

There are two great seas in Palestine. One of them, the Dead Sea, is far saltier than the ocean and uninhabited by fish. The other, the Sea of Galilee, has teemed with life since before Christ walked its shores nearly 2,000 years ago.

The difference between the two is this: the River Jordan enters the Sea of Galilee from the northwest and flows out at the southwest. From there the Jordan flows into and stops at the Dead Sea. Galilee both receives and gives. The Dead Sea only receives.

Giving thanks and sharing our blessings are a firm part of America's character. Like the Sea of Galilee, our country has been blessed both by what it has received and what it has given.

Our heritage of giving can be dated from 1621 when the Pilgrims who survived their first devastating year in the New World invited neighboring Indians to help celebrate a life-sustaining harvest. Although 44 of their Pilgrim band of 101 had died before spring, still they celebrated their blessings with a feast of Thanksgiving.

Generosity likewise has characterized subsequent generations of Americans. Following two great world wars, relief programs organized and largely financed by the United States literally saved millions of men, women and children from starvation in Europe and Asia. UN aid programs in reality usually have been US aid programs. And during the past 10 years the United States has supplied 85 per cent of the food sent to nations with a shortage.

America has been greatly blessed in turn, both spiritually and materially. After nearly two centuries of independence, we retail the basic freedoms our government was organized to guarantee. While sharing our wealth with other nations, we also have succeeded more than any society in history in distributing it evenly among our own people.

Although hunger hasn't been eliminated totally, 95 per cent of our citizens receive an adequate minimum daily intake of nutrients. A higher percentage of students from minority populations in the U.S. attend college than from majority populations in every other country in the world. We have more churches and libraries than the rest of the world put together.

America long ago learned this magic of giving: the gift inevitably is returned manyfold in blessings. This week, as we contemplate those blessings, we indeed have much cause for Thanksgiving.

TURNING THE BATTLE'S TIDE

As the saying has it, "You've come a long way, baby." Just how far women have come, and where they are going is suggested by the findings of the Third Virginia Slims American Women's Opinion Poll.

In this year's poll, conducted by the Roper organization, 3,000 women (and also 1,000 men) aged 18 on up were asked their views on marriage, divorce, child rearing, male and female roles and the changing values and morals of society. Some of the findings:

. Women are leaning toward bonafide partnerships in marriage where husband and wife share the responsibilities of household and family. Over 50 per cent favor combining marriage, children AND careers.

. But marriage in either the old or new style remains the preferred way of life for more than nine out of ten women and men. Given a choice, only a handful of women (2 per cent) would pursue a career rather than marriage and having children.

. Divorce as a solution to a bad marriage is favored by three out of five women. Furthermore, a majority oppose alimony when the woman can earn a reasonable income.

. Nearly half of women today think having two children is ideal, compared to only one in four who thought so in 1952 and 1941. Most cite the high cost of living and overpopulation as the reasons.

. Women are still trying to come to grips with the so-called new sexual freedom prevalent among unmarrieds in society today. About two out of five see it as a change for the worse and nearly an equal number express mixed feelings.

. For the first time, a clear majority of American women — 57 per cent — say they are in favor of efforts to strengthen women's position in society. Yet men continue to show greater enthusiasm for this goal than women themselves; 63 per cent of the men interviewed were for improving women's status.

FORDS FOLLIES

How about this new President of ours? Mr. Ford says to quit spending and do without things then he takes off in his big plane to fly all over the country making political speeches in nearly empty buildings. He was the featured speaker at one Republican fund raising affair where only 59 supporters showed up. The fuel burned up on these jaunts could take care of the energy problem in northeast Missouri for several years.

President Ford simply lost it with the public when he made those momentous decisions to pardon Nixon, give amnesty to draft dodgers, and increase the taxes on the already hard-hit middle income bracket family. This country just isn't going to operate smoothly until a leader is chosen by the people who has the common sense to abide by the wishes of the majority. Then and only then will the people of this democracy have faith and confidence in government.

KILLER OF SMALL BUSINESS

Small business exemption from Phase II wage-price controls is recognized as a practical necessity by government economic managers. In another area, however, small business may receive no such consideration. Nineteen-hundred and seventy-one has seen the revival of a drive to lump small business together with larger businesses under the mantle of inflexible government control. Specifically, the drive is aimed at removing the exemption of smaller retail establishments from federal minimum wage coverage and subjecting them to the constantly escalating minimum wage requirement.

When the minimum wage bill of 1960 was passed, retailing and the service trades were included for the first time. But the Senator (later President) John F. Kennedy realized that stores doing under $250,000 of business a year should be exempt, and they properly were.

Congressional representatives in 1960 apparently were keenly alive to the operating problems of smaller concerns. They recognized that small retail outlets do not generate the traffic nor the sales per employee hour to support the minimum wage standard of a huge, busy downtown store. Competent authorities believe the exemption of smaller retailers from the minimum wage law is as valid today as it was in 1960. Imposing this type of regulatory fiat as has been proposed".will lliterally drive the retail business to larger stores in cities and in big shopping centers."

Applying the minimum wage laws across the board to big and little business alike may sound fine in theory just as does total wage and price control to a lot of people. In reality, it would be a killer of jobs and small business.

MILLIONS OF LIVES AT STAKE

A late issue of Business Week magazine features an article entitled "A new antibiotic finally gets born." It recounts the ten years of research and development together with the investment of some $10 million by one pharmaceutical company that lies behind the introduction of a new drug which is destined to become a major weapon in combating some venereal diseases and staph infections. The new drug is also expected to be effective against bacteria that cause cholera, typhus, certain kinds of dysentery and Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Of the $10 million that this single drug company has put into the development of this lifesaving medicinal compound, $3 million has been spent for a new manufacturing plant which was made necessary by the complex process involved in producing the drug. Business Week comments, "In part, these expenditures reflect cost costs that all U.S. ethical drug companies face today in meeting the government's testing standards for new drugs. In 1970, the industry put only 16 new drugs on the market, down from 45 a decade earlier."

Pictures have been shown of stacks of government forms, higher than a man's head that must be filled out for such things as federally -aided highway projects. The forms and reports now required of the pharmaceutical industry have grown to what many believe to be a point of diminishing returns so far as the public's health is concerned. The fact that a leading drug firm has produced a new "miracle" drug over the past 10 years is encouraging. It also served to illustrate the rising difficulties and declining rate of new drug discoveries--matters that are of deep public concern. The heavy hand of regulation has brought stagnation and crisis to other industries--notable the railroads. It should not be be permitted to do so in the case of the drug industry--where millions of lives may perhaps hang in the balance over the next generation or so.

A REVEALING ADVERTISEMENT

Advertisements of a home appliance manufacturing company--a leading company in it its field--have stressed a number of products designed"..to improve the quality of life at home." One double page ad describes a water purifying unit that sets on the kitchen counter; a longer lasting light bulb; a security device that detects intruders or fire, flashes a warning and rings a loud alarm. Also shown is a unit to provide cleaner air to breathe, a new type washer that uses less detergent and even a new can opener that keeps dirt from getting into the food. People will be quick to appreciate these new devices for improving the environment and the quality of life at home. And the company producing them is doing so in what it believes to be a legitimate endeavor to meet the demands of the public for an improved and more wholesome existence.

The interesting thing about this appliance company's advertisement is that all of the products shown utilize energy for their electric energy. So here once again is demonstrated the truth of those statements from the power industry and elsewhere pointing out that solutions to environmental problems rest first and foremost on a base of adequate energy supplies. Just as energy is required to light a modern home and drive the many appliances and machines that make living more comfortable so is energy required to recycle or dispose of the mountains of waste that flow from every home.

It is little wonder that energy consumption is growing by leaps and bounds--now that the investor-owned electric light and power companies are utilizing every available argument for a speedup rather that a slowdown in the construction of generating facilities, including those cleanest of all sources of energy, nuclear plants.

The advertisement of the home appliance company illustrates the irresistable urge of everyone to achieve improvement and progress. Both of which are turned into reality by that silent servant of man--electric power.

BACKBONE OF CONSERVATION

The 17 million American hunters who follow the seasons in search of their favorite game are also the chief protectors of that game. As an editorial in "The American Rifleman" comments, "Except for licensed hunters, most North American game might have vanished decades ago because of market slaughtering and economic encroachment on wildlife habitats."

The president of the Wildlife Management Institute reports that U.S. hunters have contributed $2.2 billion to conservation and game development. From state hunting licenses, going back as far as 1923 in some states, $1.6 billion has been collected. Federal duck stamps have brought in $117 million since 1934 and, since 1937, an additional $438 million has been collected in the form of federal excise taxed on guns and ammunition. It is ironical that the very group of citizens that antigun extremists and many misinformed conservationists have been seeking to brand as virtual outlaws, in reality, have done more than all other groups combined for the cause of conservation and preservation of wildlife.

The backbone of high contemporary hunting ethics and standards of sportsmasship is the National Rifle Association. Its Hunter Safety programs alone, conducted in cooperation with state game departments, have reached some 5 million hunters. A number o of states have made the NRA sponsored Hunter Safety Training Course mandatory for new hunting license holders. The record of America's hunting sportsmen demonstrates the high level of responsibility which the majority of law-abiding citizens accept as an integral part of gun ownership.

THEY SHOULD WONDER

As more 18-year-olds exercise their right to vote, they may begin to wonder about those social security "contributions" that are taken from them by law each month so that government can provide for their well-being nearly 50 years from now. They might well wonder abuut the thousands upon thousands of dollars of their earnings that they are told by politicians are to be put into some vague trust fund to help care for them in their old age. A lot can happen in 50 years. The rules can change. inflation can wipe out the dollar. The "establishment", which helps to pay the taxes that keep the welfare state going, might succumb to the attacks of its adversaries and so on.

Whatever happens, the 18-year-olds who are starting to vote now are destined to bear a substantial portion of the cost. As this fact begins to sink home, politicians could well find promises of a sweet life at the other fellow's expense-namely the younger generation- a mightly poor vote getter.

AS NECESSARY AS water but SWINDLING

The warning that automobile antifreeze will be in short supply this season and double the price is used to be is an unpleasant reminder that the energy crisis is still very mnuch with us.

The waiting lines may be gone at the neighborhood gas station but there is a "hidden" part of the energy crisis we are not too conscious of until we discover a product we once took for granted is no longer available or has soared in cost.

This is the protion of the energy spectrum that concerns the small amount of the nation's oil and natural gas that is not used for fuel but as raw material for making the petrochemicals that have become so essential to modern life. How essential?

"From the time we get up in the morning and brush out teeth with a plastic toothbrush and wash our faces with manmade detergent, until we go to bed at night and pull our permanent press sheets and synthetic blankets, we are surrounded by pretochemicals."

The quote is by Richard C. Perry who is in charge of Feedstock and Energy for Union Carbide Corp.

Although the percentage of oil and natural gas that goes to make petrochemicals is extremely small compared to the amount that goes to fuel about five per cent of the oil and 10 per cent of gas- our dependence upon them is much greater than we realize, says Perry.

Consider the family car. If we were to remove everything based on petrochemicals from today's automobile, gone would not only be such essentials as antifreeze but radiator hoses themselves, also tires, brake fluid, steering wheel, dashboard, upholstery and carpeting. Gone, too, would be the windshield because the resins that hold safety glass together are derived from petrochemicals. And also gone, the grille and even the paint.

In and around the home we come in contact with petrochemicals in paints and finishes for walls, furniture and appliances, vinyl wall coverings and floor tile, kitchen countertops, refrigerant for air conditioners, refrigerators and freezers.

Even the family medicine chest depends upon petrochemicals. Common aspirin is a petrochemical derivative. In the garden shed: Garbage and leaf bags, fertilizers, bug sprays, weed killers'all petrochemicals.

Okay. But do we really need all these manmade materials? Why not go back to the naturally occurring materials we used before synthetics came along?

The answer is simple, says Perry: Natural products are in extremely short supply and getting shorter. There are too many people in the world today to be supported by natural products. There aren't enough trees and we couldn't raise enough sheep.

Even if natural materials were available, in many cases they cannot do the job as well or as inexpensively as synthetics with their unique properties of light weight combined with sgrength, wrinkle resistance, long wear, etc.

Then, too, any massive shift back to natural materials would cause severe dislocations. It might seem a simple matter, for instance, to go back to cotton for all things we now make from synthetic fibers. But how do wecome bythe 16 to 20 million additional acres of cropland?

To add 16 million acres of cotton would mean reducing the nation's soybean crop by 30 per cent. A reduction that size i in soybean production would send the cost of animal feed skyrocketing worse than it is already.

In sum,like it or not, we are dependent upon petrochemicals. From not other single natural resource do we get four of the fundamental needs of life: Food, through fertilizers and pesticides; shelter, through structural materials , coatings and adhesives; clothing, through fibers and health care, through drugs.

The things that is really hard to understand is why we continue to send most of this precious natural resource up in flames.

AN UNPARDONABLE PRESIDENTIAL PARDON

By his undoubtedly humane but fully premature granting of a "full, free and absolute" pardon to former President Richard M. Nixon for any offenses he may have committed against the United States during his presidency, President Gerald R. Ford has seriously strained and may have irreparably damaged the credibility he brought with him into the White House, and which he must maintain if the nation is ever to recover from Watergate.

Rather than helping to heal the wound of Watergate Mr. Ford's action has served to reopen it. He has done the very thing he implied he would not do when he testified before a Senate committee as vice-president-designate.

Almost every reason the President cited in his pardon message could be used as an argument for not doing what he did.

"I believe passions would again be aroused," he said, "by a long, drawn-out period of litigation against Richard Nixon. Our people would again be polarized in their opinions, and the credibility of our free institutions of government would again be challenged at home and abroad."

Precisely this has been the result of his placing Richard Nixon forever beyond punishment, and even beyond indictment and trial, for whatever crimes he may have committed.

The President says he had been advised that many months and perhaps years would have to pass "before Richard Nixon could hope to obtain a fair trial by jury in any jurisdiction of the United States." It would be helpful to know who provided that advice.

This use of the presidential pardon power is, of course, a shortcutting of our system of justice which is one of the things the President is sworn to preserve, protect and defend. It may in fact be questioned whether the President acted constitutionally. The chief executive's power to pardon for offenses committed against the United States is not in doubt. But can he pardon in advance someone who has not even been formally charged with any offense-immunize him from the law entirely?

What happens now, or should happen, to those close associates of Richard Nixon who still face trial for their roles in Watergate, not to mention those underlings who have already been convicted and sent to prison?

Most Americans do not want to see a former president in jail or to continue to "kick him when he's down," as the current phrase goes. But at the very least the President should have required from Richard Nixon a full and complete confession-call it a form of "earned amnesty"- and something more than a self-serving apology for the hell he put the country through.

Mr. Nixon has admitted to mistakes but not to any real guilt. Now we'll never know just what his guilt or innocence was. We will be given only his version of Watergate in his memoirs, for which he may receive $2 million to console him in his suffering period.

The most distressing thing of all about this unfortunate and unnecessary development is that Gerald Ford has substitutted his own judgment of what is best for the country for that of the people, as expressed in the ordinary and orderly processes of the nation's system of criminal justice.

A paratrooper is always climbing down trees he never climbed up.

DISCREDITING THE DOOM-SAYERS

Some time has passed since the controversial nuclear device was detonated far out in the Aleutian Islands. The blast was a test of a vital U.S. military weapon. Authorities felt it was necessary for the security of the nation. They also said the test could be carried out with no danger from radiation or other hazards. The test went off on schedule notwithstanding protests and predictions of disaster from peace groups and environmentalists. There were no earthquakes nor tidal waves.

The net result of the test so far, aside from providing important information to military authorities, has seemed to have been a further discrediting of the environmental doomsayers who apparently fear our country's peaceful efforts to defend itself more than they fear a possible nuclear missile invasion from abroad.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Pampered Poohbahs Of Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON--When Congress travels abroad, it is supposed to focus on sober facts and figures. But lately, to escape the cruel realities, the junketeers have focused on figures belonging to Viennese waltzers, opera singers and pretty girls at gay amusement parks.

Congressment with less roving eyes have settled for hydrofoil trips to Capri, Rhine castles and lush cocktail parties. One enterprising ligislator, Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R-N.Y., even used the good offices of the State Department and Israeli government to get his son a "bar mitzvah" at the Western Wall in Jerusalem.

The never-ending chronicle of congressional visits to faraway places are stored in the internal files of the State Departmet, which has the delicate job of shepherding the wandering flock.

When, for example, Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., decided to lead fellow Banking Committee members to Europe, it was not the dour counting houses of Zurich that occupied them, but the vivacious music of Austria and the ferris wheels of Copenhagen's Tivoli Gardens.

Congressional Delegation requests four tickets to Watlz Concert Imperial Palace for fifteenth and for Barber of Seville on sixteenth.," reads an urgent State Department request to U.S. diplomats in Vienna. To Copenhagen, went an equally preemptory order:

"Congressional Delegation interested in seeing things..such as Tivoli Garden, Hamlet's castles."The U.S. embassy in Bonn was instructed to plan a "Rhine rivertrip to see castles."

In Naples, a romantic hydrofoil voyage to Capri was arranged just after dusk fell on the beautiful Gulf of Naples. But the State Department began to worry that this migh cut into the junketeers' cocktail time.

Forthwith, a cable was fired off by the U.S. mission in Naples: "Request immediate confirmation from Department" on whether the Capri trip should be at 7:10 p.m. or 8 p.m. "Former means a rushed drink, the latter a more congenial one. Please advise."

And with summer heat beating down on the vacation spots, cables flashed to Cologne, Copenhagen and Rome, saying "Congressional Delegation inquiring if air-conditioned is available..Advise Priority."

Sometimes the State Department , which employs 25 fulltime staffers to indulge the Capitol Hill travelers, is assisted by other governments and even private companies.

When Rep. Gilman made a private visit to the Mideast last August, the Israeli government set up a "bar mitzvah" (confirmation ceremony) for his son. The State Department handled the communication work.

"GOI(government of Israel) arranging schedule based on (Gilman's expressed interests and son's Bar Mitzvah at Western Wall," our embassy in Tel Aviv advised Washington. "Please cable ((Gilman's preference for time and date of Bar Mitzvah."

More insidiously, the giant oil combine, Aramco, babied a House Public Works delegation in Saudi Arabia. Rep. James Howard, D-N.J., and two staffers were supposedly getting an impartial look at how Aramco and other companies based in Saudi Arabia use Arabian ports.

"Aramco handling all details (of the congressmen's) visit, including transportation, housing and area tour," said one classified State Department cable. "It now appears (the U.S.) consulate general is relieved of all logistical support. will provide rooms within its compound."

The State Department politely made sure the congressmen's requests for "pictorial coverage" was passed on the proper oil company. authorities.

One of Rep. Howard's staffers insisted to us that this hand-in-glove relationship with Aramco "didn't hamstring us" in getting an objective view of Saudi ports.

The internal files at State bulge with such cables . Here is a sampling of their infinite variety:

Rep. Dan Kuykendall, R-Tenn,., made a private trip to Martinique but called on the State Department to provide him with the amenities. "The Congressman and his wife were met by a representative of the Consulate and presented with briefing packets," reported U.S. diplomats in Martinique to Washington. "Thereafter, they enjoyed a privately chauffered tour.which had been arranged by the Consulate."

When Rep. Marjorie Holt, R-Md., lost her luggage in Europe, frantic cable traffic reflected State Departments effort efforts to find it. Finally, our envoys to Munich crowed, "holding one piece of luggage belonging to Majorie Holt." It was sent speedily to Paris for shipment home.

Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., is best know as a watchdog over the broadcast and atomic energy industries. But during a trip by Pastore on behalf of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee. Pastore was identified in cable traffic by a title more important to the State Department: "Chairman, State Department Appropriations subcommittee."

Confidence A Factor

As the economic shadows deepen, the Gallup Poll finds through its surveys that 72 percent of the people in the United States believes that the recession will get worse. Many indicators suggest this reasoning. Massive unemployment has struck the automobile industry. The coal industry shutdown is bringing despair. The real estate market is crumbling.

All is not gloom on the economic horizon, however. The nation's economy is diversified and there are some pluses in the picture. Sales in many consumer lines continue at a brisk pace. Unemployment rates are not even close to those of the Great Depression years. Federal law restricts marginal buying of stocks. There is enough fuel oil to keep people warm this winter and public and private transportation continues to move.

What this nation needs is now is a resurgence of confidence in our system of government and the profit-motive system. The marketplace, if it is well stocked through ample production, will put a halt to inflated prices.

We had much to be thankful for as Thanksgiving was observed. The future offers hope. We simply need to muster hope in our hearts.

Mills faces replacement effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, fatigued and stripped of some of his wide congressional powers, rested in a hospital today facing an effort by some Democrats to replace him as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Arkansas Democrat, whose recent behavior has baffled his colleagues, was on the House floor Tuesday afternoon when he refused to handle a routine legislative matter and told a close friend: "I just can't do it."

Shortly afterwards, he entered Bethesda Naval Medical Center without notifying his office.

Mills, 65, was examined by a hospital staff doctor Tuesday afternoon but no report on his condition was released, a Navy spokesman said.

The nature of his illness was not disclosed. Sources close to the hospital said they understood it had not been diagnosed, but that Mills appeared to be very tired.

Meanwhile, the woman who entered Mills' public life last October said she wanted to visit her hospitalized friend.

"If the doctor says it is okay, then I will go see him," said Annabel Battistella, the stripper who jumped into the Tidal Basin from Mills' auto when police stopped it.

Mills' power as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee was whittled down Monday when the House Democratic Caucus decided to expand the panel, which initiates tax and Social Security legislation, and authorized it to establish subcommittees.

Congressional Democrats talked Tuesday about replacing Mills with Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the No. 2 Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. Richard H. Fulton, D-Tenn., a member of the Democratic Steering Committee and the Ways and Means Committee, said he would propose that the Steering Committee nominate Ullman. He said he expected the recommendation to be followed.

The Steering Committee is unlikely to act much before the end of the current congressional session later this month and could delay action until the 94th Congress meets in January.

But one member of the Ways and Means Committee, Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., predicted that Mills would not return to Congress before the 94th Congress convenes.

"I don't think you'll see the chairman back for the rest of this year," the No. 3 Democrat on the panel said.

The movement to replace Mills gained momentum after the 36-year House veteran appeared on a Boston stage over the weekend with Mrs. Battistella. The stripper bills herself as Fanne Foxe and the Tidal Basin Bombshell.

Dr. Guy F. Sciacca, a Boston physician who examined Mills Friday and gave him a vitamin shot and multiple vitamin tablets, said the congressman appeared at the time to be suffering from exhaustion.

Mrs. Battistella, who moved her show to New York this week, announced after learning of Mills' hospitalization that she was calling off her performances. She said she was "mentally upset."

11 treated

Eleven accident patients were treated and released Tuesday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Matthew L. Ridings, 2, Advance, injured fingers on rocking chair; Clement McFarling, 69, Morehouse, bruised chest in car accident; Earl Williams, 48, Sikeston, fell and cut right eyebrow; Rosie Noble, 39, Sikeston, injured back.

William Ahlfield, 1, Charleston, cut forehead in fall; Daniel Ledbetter, 7, Sikeston, fell and bruised left elbow; and Dora Grant, 18, East Prairie, scratched left ankle when hit by car.

Firemen said only a small area of grass burned. Cause of the fire was not determined.

4 arrested

Police today announced four arrests, including Dempsey Wilburn Taylor, 791 Olive St., Earl D. Williams of Bell City Route One and Geneva Hensley, 319 School St., public intoxication, and Ralph Lee Vinson, 116 W. Kathleen Ave., speeding.

The bombardment of Fort McHenry, which inspired the writing of "The Star-Spangled Banner." began at 7 a.m., Sept. 13, 1814, and lasted, with intermissions, for 25 hours. British ships fired some 1,500 shells, each weighing as much as 220 pounds, The World Almanac says. Because the Americans had sunk 22 vessels in the channel, the British were unable to approach too closely which kept U.S. casualties low — four were killed and 24 wounded.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

By CHERIE BLANTON

Several nights ago we left the boys by themselves while we went to dinner at a neighbors home. Now, you might say what's such a big deal about that as they're certainly old enough; but, only a mother of two or more sons knows with what trepidation one goes off leaving one's house with a fond backward glance & a silent prayer it will still be standing when one returns several hours later. You think I exagerate? Ho-ho- back to the above mentioned evening & I'll give you a good example. We had perhaps been enjoying ourselves for about two hours when the phone rings & the hostess motions me to the receiver. Thus, with heart in mouth & visions of the roof blown off from a chemistry set I dash breathlessly to the phone & hear. "Mom, a mouse ran in the house while ago & Brete & I almost caught it a bunch of times but it finally got away, you better come home & get it!" My fellows are very impressed by mice since one came to stay with us several years ago, bit (I am not making a word of this up) everyone of the silk tassels off my living room drapes, carried them inside my piano & proceeded to give birth, whereupon one evening when I was entertaining all the babies' proceeded to make their first journey out into the wide world, which was my living room & you cannot imagine the chaos & havoc this brought on! So, as I said, after that experience we are very impressed with mice.

"Alright, " I tell Lee, "we'll be home in a little while."

"Mom," he says, "we moved all the furniture out in the middle of the rooms to catch it & once when I was looking under a desk it ran over my face & then up my pants legs, but by the time I got my britches off it had run out again."

"Allright," I tell Lee, "we'll be home shortly."

"Mom," he says, "we got our B.B. guns out & loaded them to try & shoot it, but then we sorta got worried about holes in the wall.

"Alright Lee—we're coming home right now!!!!!!"

Little bit of Japan comes to town

By JACKIE SCHOENEMAN

Takeo Kato is the Japanese version of a 5-foot, 90-pound woman with a generous smile and a pleasing personality.

The Americanized version of the former Miss Kato is Mrs. Jerry McCormick who arrived in Sikeston Nov. 23. Mrs. McCormick is presently staying with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Oather McCormick, 111 S. Stoddard St., until her husband returns from an Air Force base in Thailand.

Living in the United States is nothing new for Mrs. McCormick because she has followed her husband, a U.S. Air Force master sergeant from base to base.

To date, she has lived at Travis Air Force Base at Fairfield, Calif., and spent last year in Dayton, Ohio. The McCormicks had furnished a house in Dayton when McCormick received orders to report to Thailand. When he returns to the United States, he will have served 18 years.

Mrs. McCormick said she had no desire to fly back to Japan after her husband went to Thailand since she was settled in her new home land and was not really missing anything.

She said Japan is much like the United States in that consumers there also have a variety of goods from which to choose. Other than this, America always winds up on the plus side in Mrs. McCormick's mind. Japan's inflation is much wilder and higher, she says, and America is uncroweded compared to Japan and has wide open spaces.

Of Sikeston, she said, "It is very nice, quiet and clean."

Mrs. McCormick plans to make Sikeston her home, at least for the coming year, if she can find a job as a keypunch operator.

The people "are much happier, friendly and tall," she remarked, and quickly added, "American women are very pretty. It's true."

While in Japan, she attended a typing school for six months of training as a keypunch operator. Shen then landed a job in the supply department for the U.S. Air Force Base in Tokyo. Her salary at that time was about $60 a week.

McCormick was her supervisor and soon they were dating. Taeko spoke little English and McCormick was something short of being fluent in Japanese. But, as Mrs. McCormick said, her eyes twinkling, "It (the message) gets through."

Marrying an American serviceman even in 1963 was "no problem if there is nothing bad in your background."

Another obstacle, parental approval, never existed because Mrs. McCormick comes from a family that is "free." A free family is one where parents allow daughters to find jobs and marry whomever they please. Mrs. McCormick estimates half of Japan's families are free.

In fact, Mrs. McCormick has a sister who is also married to a U.S.Air Force man. Her other sister is also married and works in a department store.

Taeko's mother died when she was very young, and her father, now deceased, worked in a paper factory in Krafto, a small country near northern Japan taken over by the Russians.

The McCormicks' marriage ceremony also was not in the Japanese tradition, as she preferred a civil ceremony followed by American church services.

The elder Mrs. McCormick, 71, said she was neither surprised nor angry when she learned through the mail that her future daughter-in-law was to be Japanese.

"I always thought that children should lead their own lives." And who they want to marry, that's their business. He (her son) wrote home and said he had found the right wife."

The first three to four years of their marriage, Mrs. McCormick spent learning American customs and ways to be a good American wife.

She says she had difficulty adjusting to eating American food and learning "how to drink liquor." She seldom cooks rice but occasionally will whip up a good dish of sukiyaki.

As for American holidays, she remembers that her first Christmas was bewildering with all the bright lights.

Although she has heard of women's liberation, Mrs. McCormick, who is 43, says she prefers to "just listen" to her husband, who is 36.

While living in the United States, she says she has had no difficulty making friends with American wives.

However, because she speaks only broken English, she said this makes her shy. But occasionally she will burst out with a sentence or two of perfect English.

If she cannot speak it, she certainly can write the language. "My son writes like an old hen, but she (Taeko) writes beautifully," her mother-in-law says.

Because Mrs. McCormick still has much to learn about the United States, she said many Americans treat her like a child in their overzealousness to be helpful.

She admits that even her husband is guilty of this but only because he is trying to help her adapt.

With this help plus studying on her own, Mrs. McCormick said she is determined and looking forward to becoming a U.S. citizen. Her attitude is that if other Japanese wives can pass the citizenship test, she can, too.

While in Sikeston, Mrs. McCormick said she is looking forward to finding a job, a place to live and making a few friends.

One of her old friends is Fazoo, a cat that has flown three times to the United States, with the McCormicks. Fazoo is supposedly a French name picked by her husband who brought the cat home to her in Tokyo.

Mrs. McCormick's response was typical of many American wives. "At first I didn't want to keep the cat because I thought it would be too much trouble. But after awhile I loved it."

And Fazoo seems to be enjoying America so much that he does not want to come in at night. "The other night we put on our coats and were chasing him down around midnight," the elder Mrs. McCormick said.

And, for Fazoo and Taeko McCormick, that is adventure the great old American way.

Instruction Program Set By Orchestra

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Philharmonic, which plays a key role in London's musical life, is starting a new and lucrative venture with an American-run institute in Switzerland.

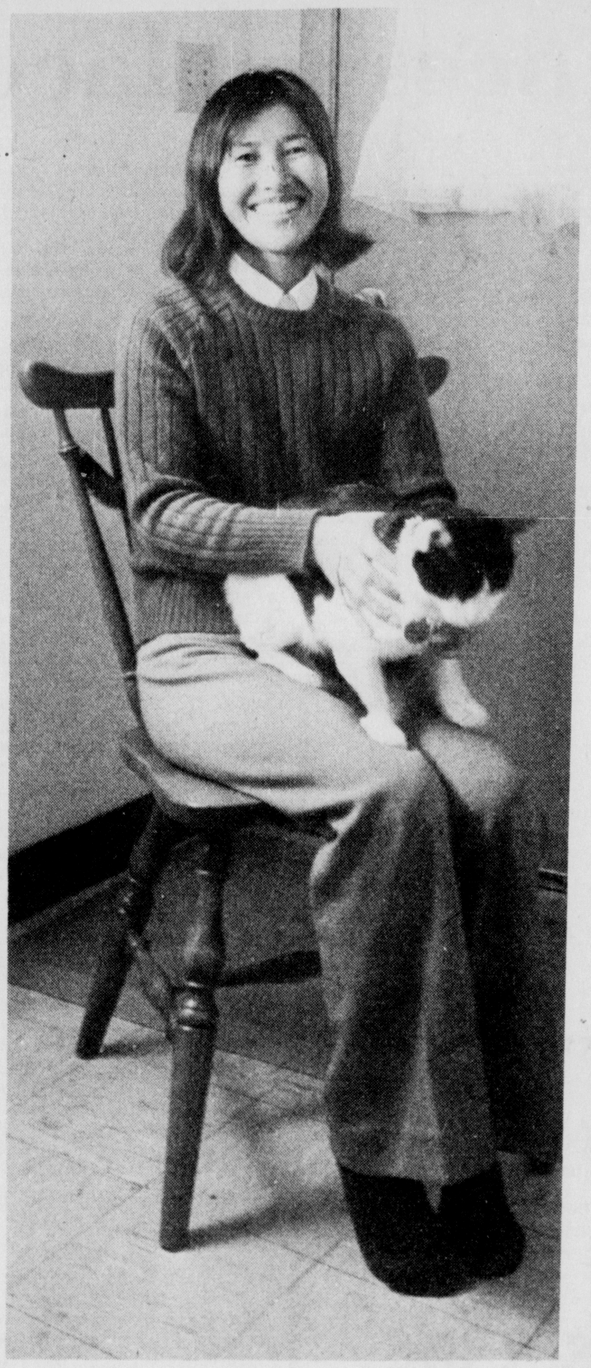
The orchestra signed a contract to spend two weeks each summer for the next five years with the Institute for Advanced Musical Studies at Montreux.

Members of the orchestra will give instruction to the 120 students at the institute. The orchestra plans to record the complete series of Dmitri Shostakovich's 15 symphonies at Montreux. The students will sit in at rehearsals and recordings and learn what it's like being a professional musician.

"This is a new form of musical education," said the institute's director of development Daniell Revenaught, American pianist and conductor who comes from Louisville, Ky., and was previously associated with the University of California.

"For a student who is making music his career, it is not enough to learn music itself. What is it like being a professional? What are the working hours? How arduous are the rehearsals?

"Our students will watch the Royal Philharmonic at work and find out for themselves."



Fazoo travels, too

Mrs. Taeko McCormick, formerly of Tokyo, holds her traveling cat, Fazoo. She is presently staying with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Oather McCormick, 111 St. Stoddard St., until her husband returns next year from a United States Air Force base in Thailand.

The institute was started last summer and most of the students thus far have been Americans. They are selected for their talent and pay no fees.

Homemade projects make Christmas your very own

Homemade is the word this year for a naturally fun holiday. Do-it-yourself Christmas tree decorations and greeting cards are great projects for the whole family to enjoy.

For tree decorations, all you need are a cook, seamstress, and artist (your children). The cook makes cookie shapes with a string baked in them to tie onto the tree.

The seamstress threads popcorn onto a very long piece of thread, to wrap around the tree, and the artist cuts out paper dolls and chains to hang on the branches.

Everybody gathers all their small colorful toys and trinkets to put up.

For a fun Christmas card idea, cut a potato in half and draw a holiday design on one flat side. With a knife, cut around the design until it is raised on the potato. Press the design on an ink pad and stamp on a postcard or construction paper. After the design dries, the children write in their season's greetings.

Cutouts of Yuletide illustrations are another favorite activity among the children.

Peruse with the kids through the newspaper ads and cut out different Christmas illustrations, such as Santa Claus, raindeer, Christmas trees, stockings, ornaments, snowflakes, etc. You'd be surprised at all you can find, many times in color too!

Here are just some of the things that can be done with cutouts of such illustrations:

Make rectangular cardboard fold-down tabs, bend them and paste one side tothe artwork so that the cutouts can stand up on their own. Make a little display with figures, for instance.

Or paste the artwork to the little one's shopping bag, or even your own. Glue them onto Christmas packages for added decoration.

Use them to decorate the Christmas tree. Simply poke a little hole on the top of the cutout andhang it by a bit of thread from the tree's branches.

Ann Landers

Reader praises wise teetotalers

Dear Ann Landers: Our young teenagers read your column and I am so pleased they do. You tell them the same things their parents do, but somehow it sounds "different" from Ann Landers. They listen to you.

As a token of thanks I send a little bit of wisdom I ran across recently in a small local publication. It was written by a friend. I hope you will print it. Here it is:

Positively Negative

We drank for happiness and became unhappy.

We drank for joy and became miserable.

We drank for sociability and became argumentative.

We drank for sophistication and became obnoxious.

We drank for friendship and made enemies.

We drank for sleep and awakened without rest.

We drank for strength and felt weak.

We drank "medicinally" and acquired health problems.

We drank for relaxation and got the shakes.

We drank for bravery and became afraid.

We drank for confidence and became doubtful.

We drank to make conversation easier and slurred our speech.

We drank to feel heavenly and ended up feeling like hell.

We drank to forget and were forever haunted.

We drank for freedom and became slaves.

We drank to erase problems and saw them multiply.

We drank to cope with life and invited death.

--Daily Reader

Dear Reader: Your friend sounds like a man who knows what he's talking about. It was good of you to share his wisdom. Thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to comment on your advice to the young bride who took her teenage sister in to live with her when their parents were killed. It seems the teenager was uncontrollable, gave her older sister ulcers and was ruining her marriage.

Your suggestion that "perhaps a foster home would be the best place for Dee" was, in my opinion, not very good. Before resorting to foster placement, why didn't you recommend seeking out other blood relatives--cousins, aunts, grandparents, even Dee's stepfather, despite her sister's allegation that "he doesn't want her."

In our family-destructive culture, it seems to me that your powerful influence ought to be used to strengthen blood-related family ties. --Dr. R.S.M., Department of Preventive Medicine, University of Illinois.

Dear Dr. M.: Those "blood relatives" you refer to were certainly aware of the death of the teenager's parents. If they were interested in making a home for the girl they would have made their wishes known. "Blood-related family ties" are often more bloody than related.

I've received many letters from children reared in foster homes, expressing tremendous affection and deep appreciation for their foster parents. I believe my advice was correct, but I thank you for taking the time to express another point of view.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

The beauty, landscape, history, and character of Russia so fascinated American photographer Kenneth Murray, of Kingsport, Tennessee, during his visit there that the coal district denizen found time for little else. The morning mist lifting as fishermen make their way upstream to a favorite site in the Caucasus Mountains (top left) charmed Murray, as did a peasant woman carting water into town from a mountain brooklet (top center). Sheep wind their way through the grassy meadows of the mountains (top right) in a scene familiar throughout Europe. In a small collective farm at the foot of the mountains, an old woman transports grain in the oldest method known to man (lower left). Despite the Soviet government's repression of religion, many older peasants continue to worship, as evidenced by a simple funeral at an Orthodox church in the village of Pratching (lower center). Further evidence of Russia's religious history is personified in the colorful "onion" domes of the Orthodox cathedrals (lower right) dotted throughout the metropolis of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine.

Bill would outlaw well-to-pump gas operations

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Well-to-pump gasoline operations would be outlawed in Missouri under a bill that has been prefiled for the upcoming regular session of the legislature.

Rep. Corley Thompson, R-Webster Groves, introduced the measure Tuesday that would prohibit any producer, refiner or wholesale distributor of petroleum products from operating a retail service station with its own personnel if that station were in competition with an independently-owned station.

The measure, if it gains approval, would in effect halt what are known as integrated operations in which large corporations refine, distribute and then sell petroleum products to the consumer, a situation some consumer advocates have claimed has contributed to high fuel prices.

The Missouri Public Service Commission would police compliance with the measure and violators would be subject to a maximum fine of $5,000 for each day they fail to comply.

Also introduced have been bills making it a misdemeanor to duplicate a key to any public building without written permission and a perennial proposal to outlaw pay toilets in "places of public accomodation."

A measure establishing no fault auto insurance was introduced in the Senate again after failing to receive approval this year and a proposal for increasing state aid to junior colleges, vetoed by Gov. Christopher S. Bond on the grounds that the state could not afford it, was also offered. A Bond aide has said the governor will recommend approval of the hike in state aid in 1975.

Scouts win in float competition

DEXTER — First place in float competition at Monday night's annual Christmas parade was captured by Dexter Scout Troop 70 for an entry with a Santa's Helpers theme.

The Junior Civic Club took second place for a float with a Mother Goose theme.

A religious design entered by the Assembly of God Church won third place.

The parade was sponsored by the Dexter Retail Merchants Association and officially opened the city's Christmas shopping season.

World News

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has voted to set up the first national standards for drinking water after the government said some water supplies may contain cancer-causing chemicals. The bill now goes to the White House where it faces a possible veto.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Democratic Caucus is continuing to whittle away the power of once lordly committee chairmen as the 75 newly elected Democrats flex their muscles. The new members have shown they hold the balance of power in voting some of the major reforms the caucus is decreeing for the new House that will assemble in January. The caucus voted Tuesday night that the selection of chairmen of appropriations subcommittees be subject to caucus ratification. These subcommittees generally make the effective decisions on money bills.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prosecutor in the Watergate cover-up trial says H.R. Haldeman confessed to a crime while testifying about the attempt to get CIA officials to curtail the FBI investigation of the Watergate break-in. During a private courtroom conference Tuesday with Judge John J. Sirica and defense lawyers, assistant prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste said Haldeman "confesses to a crime, which I believe he has just done, to defrauding the United States through the misuse of the CIA for improper reasons ..."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, fatigued and stripped of some of his congressional powers, rested in a hospital today facing an effort by some Democrats to replace him as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. The Arkansas Democrat, whose recent behavior has baffled his colleagues, was on the House floor Tues
ay when he refused to handle a routine legislative matter and told a close friend: "I just can't do it." Shortly afterwards, he entered Bethesda Naval Medical Center without notifying his office.

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Members of the United Mine Workers wind up voting today on a new contract that, if ratified, would bring an end to the three-week strike by the nation's soft coal miners. Although UMW officials said no voting figures would be released until Thursday, an unoffical Associated Press tabulation of scattered returns showed that with 20,922 votes counted — about 17.4 per cent of the 120,000 miners covered by the contract — approval of the new pact is in doubt. Of the 20,922 votes, 10,615, or 50.7 per cent, were for the contract.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — With Pioneer 11's conquest of Jupiter over, scientists today planned for its next destination: a two billion mile giant leap for a peek at Saturn. "If the power holds up, I have no doubt that Pioneer 11 will be alive and working well at Saturn in 1979," said Dr. John Wolfe, National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Pioneer project scientist.

NEW YORK (AP) — Friday the 13th this month will be a good day for sky watchers: a partial solar eclipse for most of North America in the morning and a meteor shower that night. For the United States, the eclipse will be most extensive in the Northeast, 60 to 70 per cent. The effect will diminish to the south and west, to 19 per cent at LXOS Angeles at sunrise. After sunset that night, the sky should be lit up with "shooting" or "falling stars" — particles of matter burning up as they enter the earth's atmosphere.

MENOMONIE, Wis. (AP) — The girls in Brownie Troop 259 rarely miss their Tuesday afternoon meetings these days. They all want to see what the men have planned for them. University of Wisconsin-Stout students John Lamirande, 18, and Jim Nichols, 19, are the leaders of the 14-member troop. "It just started out as a dare from my girl friend," said Nichols. "She was going to be a leader but couldn't because of her class schedule, so she dared me to take her place." Nichols talked Lamirande into coleading the troop with him.

TOKYO (AP) — Takeo Miki, 67, Japan's next prime minister, today promised a vigorous program based on social justice and reform of the ruling Liberal-Democratic party. Miki said he will make an early public statement about his personal wealth, the issue that brought about Kakuei Tanaka's resignation as prime minister.

Economic program to get priority

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Democratic party leaders moved today to make approval of a broad economic program the first order of business at their miniconvention opening in Kansas City later this week.

In a unanimous vote, the 52-member committee considering rules and amendments for the formal sessions opening Friday voted to provide for debate and action on the economic proposals Friday night.

Action was scheduled after a series of speeches by Democratic congressional leaders and before the 2,000-delegate conference gets down to work Saturday for its main purpose, approval of a national charter to govern party affairs.

In laying the revised plan before the convention rules committee, party chairman Robert S. Strauss said the resolution would incorporate "a rather carefully drawan legislative thrust" in the speeches of Speaker Carl Albert House majority leader Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., and assistant Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd.

Asked to explain the timing, Strauss said:

"We could get more momentum and more thrust and be more meaningful to the people of this country if we do this."

The rules panel then plunged into consideration of about 100 amendments to the charter drafted by a party commission over the past 18 months.

They will be screened and debated today and Thursday.

Strauss opened the committee meeting, which was delayed for a time by lack of a quorum, that his two years as party chairman haven't been easy but have been "most constructive."

Strauss recounted what the party has accomplished since he became a chairman two years ago.

He said the Democratic national organization, besides working on the proposed charter, had provided a help to party candidates in the 1974 elections not offered by any political party in history.

He also reported two nationwide telethons seeking a public support had netted for the party more than $5 million.

While skirmishing over party reforms this week is a virtual certainty, party leaders are hoping it can be resolved in a compromise ending six years of intraparty warfare.

A host of aspirants for the party's 1976 presidential nomination are here, bucking a tradition that White House hopefuls do not appear at political conventions.

And despite earlier predictions that memory of the tumult and discord of the past two conventions would keep Democratic office holders away, some 220 congressional Democrats were expected as well as many of the party's governors, mayors and other public officials.

The first formal session on the convention floor comes Friday night after the 2,000-plus delegates have spent a day discussing national and international issues in a series of panels.

Party Chairman Robert Strauss has hinted that the outlines of a Democratic legislative program for next year may be revealed in a keynote speech Friday night by House Spaker Carl Albert.

Strauss also is predicting that the mini-convention will adopt a charter, the first ever for a major American political party, which will repesent a compromise on the party reform issue that most Democrats can live with.

The charter, drawn up by a special commission, will be debated and adopted in a day-long session Saturday with a possible spillover to Sunday. It is expected to write into a party constitution the basic reforms sought by the reform wing but without the quota system which caused the defection of many old guard Democrats in 1972.

Strauss said Tuesday, "I don't think we'll have any walkouts and I don't think we'll come out of there with any bitterness."

Intertwined with the debate over the charter will be a heavy lacing of presidential politics with more than a dozen active or potential candidates wooing support from the delegations for 1976.

Jolliff named examiner

Perry Jolliff of Jolliff Flight Instructing School has been appointed pilot examiner for the Sikeston area. Pilots may now take their commercial or private check rides, and student or private pilots working for their advance rating may be checked by Joliff, who can issue these ratings. Jolliff was appointed by the Federal Aviation Administration district office in St. Louis and is the first flight examiner in Sikeston since 1940.

Telephone directory deliveries begin

Delivery of the new Sikeston telephone directories began Monday, according to Mike Smith, local office manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Delivery will be completed in about two weeks.

"This year's directory contains 58 pages of alphabetical listings. That's a total of about 8,800 listings," Smith said.

"In addition, this year's Yellow Pages supplement has 145 pages of business listing," he added.

The Sikeston directory also contains telephone exchange numbers for Morehouse.

The cover of the directory is the same used by all other Missouri communities served by Southwestern Bell. It features the rugged beauty of Johnson's Shut-Ins State Park in Reynolds County, in tribute to the Missouri park system's 50th anniversary.

Smith said distribution of this year's directory will be limited.

"As we've said before, only one new directory will be delivered to each residence customer this year to help conserve paper," he said. "There shouldbe a card inside the phone book for customers to request additional books, if necessary. Business customers will continue to receive one new directory for each phone."

The new directory also carries considerable information for those who want to stretch their telephone dollars, he added. Included are rate periods for long distance calls and complete instruction for dialing 1-plus and 0-plus long distance calls. Area codes for the entire country and several items of general interest round out the directory's call-guide section in the front of the book, he said.

Smith said the number of people using the phone book seems to be increasing.

Depression forced financial collapse

By CROCKETT SCOTT

"Let us all be happy, and live within our means, even if we have to borrow the money to do it." ...Artemus Ward

As more and more Americans become aware of the economic slowdown, questions of rising consumer and corporate debt levels tend to be compared to those of the depression years.

And there is another question: Will the catastrophe of the 1930s be repeated?

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York reminds that "history -- so far, at least, -- has not borne this out.

"Indeed, as many students of monetary history are quick to point out, it was the depression (of the 1930s) that forced a financial collapse, rather than the other way around."

The populace just curtailed buying with either cash or credit to such a slow pace that large sectors of the productive wheels of the nation stopped.

Morgan Guaranty notes that business bankruptcies "are edging up" currently, but mentions that "overall, credit quality on new debt seems to have improved in recent months under the constraint of very tight credit markets that have existed throughout much of 1974."

Not only have lenders become "more choosy," as the bank states, but high interest rates have dissuaded borrowers, too.

And higher costs of big ticket items, such as autos , furniture and TVs have been the headline makers of recent weeks -- along with food. But food everyone has to have, so it is purchased.

For the "optimist" investor, however, the economic slowdown traditionally has been a time for committing capital to equity.

Pfizer and Squibb are favorites of a Kansas City SEC-registered stock market analyst.

Pfizer, rated A-plus by Standard & Poor's, is a major producer of drugs, cosmetics and perfumes, and has been paying dividends since 1901.

Currently trading in the low 30s, the stock peaked out in the low 50s last year.

The high rating for Pfizer originates from its improved profit showing in chemicals, particularly agricultural. Demand has been high and increased costs are being passed along. Pfizer has done well with its Trojan Seed, and the recent acquisition of Mt. Clemens Seed Farms also should help , according to the Kansas City stockbroker.

Squibb, also rated A-plus by Standard & Poor's, manufactures ethical drugs and cosmetics and is engageed in the food and candy business as well. The firm has been paying a dividend since 19092.

The Kansas City analyst likes Squibb because of recent government clearance for the oral use of its cephalosporin antibiotic, Velosef.

Pharmaceuticals demand looks promising, says the Kansas City broker, and Squibb's confectionery business is benefiting from prices it has passed along to offset the higher and higher cost of sugar.

This analyst also believes the Lanvin Charles of the Riz division will reap good return from its Arpege fragrances.

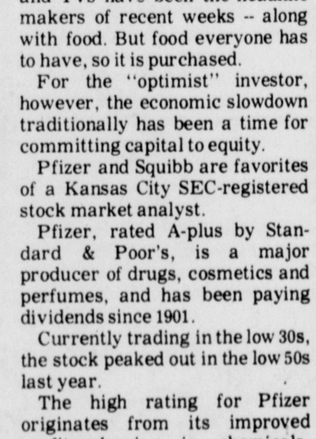
Over in Indanapolis an SEC-registered analyst likes Cincinnati Milacron, identified by Standard & Poor's as "largest machine tool maker." The stock is selling around 16, down from a high last year of abut 44.

"If you haven't any confidence in Cincinnati Milacron," he states, "you haven't any confidence in America.

"The stock is quality," he emphasizes, "and has been paying some kind of dividend since 1923."

Giddings & Lewis, another machine toolmaker, is also believed worthy of consideration by the Indianapolis stockbroker.

This stock currently trades around three to four after a high last year of about 12.



Guy Harden

Harden slated for jamboree

BERNIE — Guy Harden, country music performer, will appear Saturday at the Bootheel Jamboree. The Jamboree begins at 8 p.m.

Harden currently has a new Shannon Records release called, "Warm in My Arms."

Born in Milledgeville, Ga., Jan. 5, 1956, he started playing guitar at the age of six. When he was 12, he sang at a local talent contest and won. At the age of 14 he was playing clubs and doing mostly rock music. During this period he worked at a local radio station without pay and learned to love country music.

This year he came to Nashville, Tenn. and stopped by Jim Reeves Enterprises and was signed to a recording contract with Shannon Records. He has appeared many times in Ernest Tubb's Midnight Jamboree on WSM, filled in for Jim Mundy at Roger Miller's King of the Road and has recently appeared on Grand Ole Gospel at the new opry house.

J C Penney announces gift of music to schools

George R. Bowen, manager of the Sikeston J. C. Penney store, has announced a gift of music entitled "A Bicentennial Musical Celebration" which will be presented to area high schools and colleges in late spring 1975.

The "Celebratioin" program, part of the J. C. Penney Company's contribution to the nation's Bicentennial, was awarded a certificate of official recognition from the Amerivan Revolution Bicentennial Administration during ceremonies held Monday in Washington, D. C. The "Celebration;" is the first program by a business corporation to be made an official part of the nation's Bicentennial festivities.

The "Bicentennial Musical Celebration" includes 70 minutes of historic American music spanning our 200 years, and 30 minutes of newly commissioned contemporary works by American composers.

In announcing the gift, Bowen said,

"Our purpose is to make this music as widely available and as useful to as many people as possible. It will be supplied to any other bands, choral groups and orchestras that may ask for it. Use will be entirely unrestricted and free of any performance charges."

Each school in the United States will receive a box of specially arranged sheet music -- enough for school music groups -- to equip a complete band, chorus and orchestra. Works for rock and stagebands are included, as well.

The "Celebration" has been created in an effort to enrich the nation's Bicentennial observance with a reflection of American history through the music of its most representative composers.

The band music is being programmed by Dr. Richard Franko Goldman, President of Peabody Institute, Baltimore, Maryland; the orchestra music by Thor Johnson, conductor of the Nashville Symphony; and the choral music by Leonard DePaur of the Lincoln Center, New York City.

The package is now being produced and it will be presented to the music groups at each of the nation's 30,000 schools in the spring of 1975, enabling bands, choral goups and orchestras to perform the "Celebration" -- in whole or in part -- throughout the Bicentennial year and beyond.

Warehouse outlet store to open

Charles Buchanan, owner of Buchanan Sales, distributors of automotive supplies, will open a warehouse outlet store in the same building where his grandfather, C. C. Buchanan, opened a store 50 years ago.

The new store, located at 522 S. Kingshiway, will be called Buchanan's and will feature the Fleetwood Tire made by Mohawk Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio.

Fleetwood is a nationwide cooperative buying group which buys directly from the manufacturer on contract. Buchanan's will also offer automotive parts and accessories geared to the do-it-your-selfer.

Lung cancer approaches calamity stage

CHICAGO (AP) — "Cancer of the lung is rapidly approaching the dimensions of a national calamity in this country," a medical scientist warns.

He cited an American Cancer Society estimate that 91,000 persons will be stricken with lung cancer in 1975 and that 81,000 will die of the disease during the year.

And he said cigarette smoking is almost entirely responsible for lung cancer.

"A man who smokes two packs a day has about as much chance of surviving as a bull in Spain," said Dr. Bernard Roswit of New York. He added that death from lung cancer is rising among women.

Roswit made the comments Tuesday in a report at the annual meeting of the Radiological Society of North America on a study begun in 1958 at Veterans Administration hospitals.

Roswit, a radiologist at the Bronx VA hospital, is chairman of the group of physicians evaluating the use of radiation in the treatment of lung cancer.

He told reporters that he has been giving papers at the society's meetings for 25 years and that "this is the first time I've felt so deeply depressed."

He said that the majority of lung cancer cases will be too far advanced to benefit from surgery by the time they are diagnosed.

And drugs and radiation offer little hope for either curing the cancer or extending the patient's life by very much, he added.

Since 1958, the VA doctors have studied 8,000 patients with lung cancer, using 13 different treatments or combinations of treatment — including radiation, drugs and placebos, or sugar pills.

Roswit reported on 1,279 of the 8,000 patients for whom there was some hope of tratment success.

Pioneer 11 heads for Saturn

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — With Pioneer 11's conquest of Jupiter over, scientists today planned for its next destination: a two-billion-mile giant leap for a peek at Saturn.

"If the power holds up, I have no doubt that Pioneer 11 will be alive and working well at Saturn in 1979," said Dr. John Wolfe, National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Pioneer project scientist.

Scientists huddled here at NASA's Ames Research Center which controls the Pioneer spacecraft to discuss possible approach courses. They want one that would allow the nuclear powered, unmanned vehicle to collect the most information while at the same time avoiding flying meteoroids in Saturn's strange rings, phenonema which have baffled man.

While they met, Pioneer 11 sent Earth-bound scientists more information about Jupiter. Its telescope painted the planet as a receding, orange and white striped basketball as the spacecraft departed from the north pole.

At midday, the 570-pound vehicle, cruising at 30,000 miles per hour, had pulled 1.5 million miles away from the planet. The craft was sailing on a course that hopefully will take it to Jupiter's relatively mild-mannered planetary cousin, Saturn, in September 1979.

Jupiter, a fiery ball of gas and liquid hydrogen, scoured Pioneer 11 with electrons and protons and pelted it with tiny meteorites when the spacecraft plunged to within 26,600 miles of the planet.

Flying at 1,800 miles per minute, Pioneer 11 survived the ordeal, though the searing radiation caused some malfunctioning in three of its delicate instruments.

Among other things, Pioneer 11 told man that Jupiter's magnetic field was four times stronger than Earth's and that the radiation of high flying protons at 26,600 miles from its surface was 75 times more intense than Pioneer 10 felt at 81,000 miles a year ago.

NEW YORK (AP) — A new television series on health is already working wonders for its producers. They've gone from merely being alive and well to actually feeling good. However, they didn't plan it that way.

The Children's Television Workshop, producers of a show for adults that debuts Nov. 20, started with the working title of "Alive & Well." But when a legal problem developed over that title, they switched to "Feeling Good." And that's the name that will head the 26 hour-long shows.

2 more grocers join price freeze

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Two more supermarket groups have joined the move to freeze retail food prices.

Alterman Foods Inc., operator of 101 supermarkets in Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama, and the Giant food store chain announced Monday that they are holding the line on retail prices until Jan. 1.

"We have instituted a total and complete retail price freeze on all the more than 10,000 items stocked in our stores," said Sam Alterman, executive vice president of Alterman Foods.

"This includes meats, produce, dairy products, frozen food, groceries and nonfoods. The only prices changed in our stores will be those that are lowered," he said.

Giant said it will freeze the price, beginning today, on all non-perishable private-label grocery products.

Hearnes present at meeting on cancer program

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has re-entered the political scene, but apparently only as an interested party in proposed legislation.

Hearnes, currently a St. Louis lawyer, was on hand Tuesday as State Rep. James Russell, D-Florissant, outlined a program to curb breast cancer in women.

The program would involve state operation of mobile vans to administer radiological examinations to women at an initial state cost of $1.2 million.

Also at the news conference was Dr. John Spratt, the coordinator of community cancer control and director of cancer resarch at the Ellis-Fischel State Cancer Hospital in Columbia.

In the absence of a program for breast cancer detection, Spratt said, the mortality rate from the disease has remained nearly constant the past 35 years.

GOP governors can't agree on situation

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A few hours after they had been warned to shed the GOP's "country club" and "big business" images, Republican governors pulled up outside the suburban headquarters of the McDonnell Douglas Corp.

Besides a demonstration of the giant aerospace firm's latest scientific advances, the governors and their aides and reporters were treated to drinks, dinner and a 45-minute speech by the firm's founder, James S. McDonnell, stressing his company's need for exemption from antitrust laws.

The 14 or so GOP governors and governors-elect at the three-day conference that ended Tuesday–like their Democratic counterparts two weeks ago in South Carolina, talked a lot about their role in influencing their party and national policy.

Unlike the Democrats, who took a significant step towards internal party unity for this week's Kansas City miniconvention, the Republicans did little else but display their own impotence and divisions that mirror those of their party as a whole.

They couldn't agree on whether things were bad or not.

Michigan GOP chairman William McLaughlin tried to get across the message that the Republican party is a minority party which needs to change its image, and that the road to majority status will be long and hard.

But GOP National Chairman Mary Louise Smith declared, "We are alive and well."

When it came to prescriptions for restoration of GOP health, the differences were equally apparent.

Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr., of New Hampshire called for rejection of "me-too politics," a return to conservative principles. He said President Ford couldn't possibly win his state's 1976 GOP primary with Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond, the 35-year-old Missourian named new conference chairman, warned against "binding ourselves to some narrow ideology." He said "the battle lies in the broad center of the political spectrum," where the voters are.

But he decried the notion of trying to solve GOP problems with "some cosmetic approach whose focal point is an expensive advertising campaign designed to sell people on how truly great we are," a target that sounded suspiciously like the program party chairman Smith has just undertaken.

The party's biggest names were absent — the President, who rejected private appeals from Bond to come; Vice President-designate Rockefeller, awaiting confirmation in Washington; and California Gov. Ronald Reagan, whose conservative views have little support among governors other than Thomson.

The McDonnell Douglas sponsorship of the Monday night dinner underscored the fact that such conferences are expensive undertakings for which host governors must seek corporate contributions.

This is true both for the annual, bipartisan National Governors Conference, as well as partisan sessions such as this one and the Democratic meeting two weeks ago at Hilton Head Island, S.C.

The setting for the Democratic meeting was plusher than the downtown St. Louis hotel where the GOP meeting took place. But the social events were relatively modest, and the Democratic governors received only two gifts — a painting and a book — compared with some 15 local products here ranging from Missouri quilts to a charm bracelet.

There was sort of a nostalgic quality to the meeting here of an organization whose membership has dwindled from 32 after the 1969 elections to just 13 after last month's balloting. Gov. John R. (Jack) Williams of Arizona referred to "the remnant of a great number of governors I once knew."

Where they once talked of seizing party leadership, most frankly conceded they look to Washington for guidance and hope. As Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken put it, "The future of the party rests heavily on President Ford."

Plans announced for Cairo plant

Cairo and New York officials of Bunge Corporation announced today plans to construct a grain handling and soybean processing plant at Cairo, Illinois. W. H. Haslauer, District Manager of Bunge Corporatioin, confirmed that construction would commence soon on the multi-million dollar complex.

Employment figures were not announced by Haslauer, but he said that the number of new jobs would make a "substantial contribution" to the local economy.

Bunge Corporation, a U.S. firm with headquarters in New York, has operated grain facilities in Cairo and at other locations in the Tri-State area for the past 15 to 20 years. Bunge Corporation is one of the major U.S. grain firms with outlets to domestic and world markets through a network of river, inland, and export grain terminals, barge and rail fleets, according to Haslauer..

"The new Cairo plant," Haslauer said, "represents another major commitment of Bunge Corporation to the domestic grain and processing business, the primary marketing emphasis being directed toward domestic consumption."

The new plant, located East of Commercial Avenue and South of 38th St., will process 20 to 25 million bushels of soybeans annually. Grain will be unloaded from trucks, rail cars and barges into grain handling and storage facilities with a storage capacity of five to six million bushels.

"The modern processing operation along with the high speed truck and rail receiving facilities should provide significantly better service and prices to local and regional grain producers," Haslauer said.

The marine unloading system will unload barge soybeans for crushing, as well as grain which will be re-shipped to consumers in the Southeast.

Construction of the project will take approximately two years. Due to continuing negotiations for certain equipment the cost was not available at this time, Haslauer said. The new plant will conform with all environmental and safety requirements of the State of Illinois and the United States Government.

Haslauer was very high in his praise of the close cooperation of the Cairo City Officials, Alexander County Public Officials and the Cairo Chamber of Commerce. The Alexander County Housing Authority was also very helpful.

John E. Herbold will be Manager of the processing plant. Herbold was formerly the Manager of the Bunge Corporation Soybean Processing Plant in Destrehan, La., and now lives at 2502 Washington Avenue, Cairo.

Haslauer will be the General Manager of the new operation.

Congress overrides vets bill veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has overridden President Ford's veto of a 22.7 per cent increase in most GI education benefits, and veterans now in school should get some of their added money in about 15 days.

The votes Tuesday were far above the two-thirds majority needed to enact the bill over Ford's objections — 394 to 10 in the House and 90 to 1 in the Senate. Assistant GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan cast the lone Senate vote to back Ford's veto.

It was the fourth of Ford's 15 vetoes overridden. The House failed Tuesday to override another Ford veto. The vote of 249 to 150 in favor of override was 17 votes short of the required two-thirds. The bill would have provided $130 million in tax benefits to victims of several natural disasters.

The Veterans Administration has for months been keeping its computers geared to rush out the bigger checks for some 1.5 million veterans receiving benefits under the education program. The higher payments are retroactive to September, and VA officials said the back increases are scheduled to be in checks the veterans should get in about 15 days.

VA officials said the first regular monthly payment with the new increases would be in the January checks.

World News

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov.-elect Edmund G. Brown Jr. has decided against having the traditional inaugural ball.

"I don't think it's necessary," the 36-year-old Brown, a bachelor, told reporter at a news conference Tuesay.

"It just doesn't fit into my style of the way I operate. We'll have a inaugural. It will be in keeping with the dignity of the office and he way I see the problems ahead," he said.

Brown, a Democrat, will succeed Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan on Jan.

OLYMPIA, Wash. (P) — Danny Evans, 14-yer-old son of Gov. Dan Evans, was hospitalized in fair condition after he was struck by a car while riding his bicycle. a spokesman for Gov. Hearing on bridge replacement cancelled

BENTON — A public hearing, scheduled Monday to discuss the proposed replacement of a bridge on Route D about six miles north of Diehlstadt, was cancelled when no one showed up, according to Garry Chegwidden, chief designer for District 10 of the Missouri State Highway Department.

"We went up there prepared to hold the hearing," he said, "but nobody showed up."

Chegwidden suggested that one reason for the apparent lack of interest could be the small size of the project.

"We're just going to replace the present bridge and bring it up to required standards," he said. "The present bridge is still usable but is too narrow and has a timber understructure."

The location of the bridge is about .3 mile east of the intersection of Highway 77 and Route D.

"We were required by law to hold the hearing," Chegwidden said, "and the next step will be to send the information that there was no attendance and no hearing to the headquarters office."

"We've now met the formal hearing requirements," he said.

The way is now clear for the design of the bridge to be drawn up. Construction is expected to take place in 1978.

Commission sets meeting

JEFFERSON CITY — The Missouri State Highway Commission will meet in regular session here Dec. 11 and 12 in the hearing room at the highway department building.

Scheduled delegations will be heard by the commission on Dec. 11, and other commission business of a routine nature will be transacted.

On Dec. 12, other business not transacted on Dec. 11 will be conducted.

Former Sikeston minister shows slides of tour

The Rev. James W. Hackney of St. Louis, a former pastor at First Baptist Church, was guest speaker Tuesday night for a Kiwanis Club ladies night meeting at Ramada Inn.

The Rev. Mr. Hackney, currently pastor of Maplewood Baptist Church, narrated a slide presentation of a tour he and Ms. Hackney, who also was present, made to Rhodesia, Africa, in company with several other ministers and wives.

During the tour, the Rev. Mr. Hackney said he conducted revival meetings and spoke at some of the schools in Rhodesia.

The slides included pictures of churches, schools, huts, medical clinics and other buildings.

According to the Rev. Mr. Hackney, the people of Rhodesia are very religious.

In addition to the program, the Kiwanianns were told that Christmas trees for the club sale have arrived and will be on display at American Legion Park beginning today.

World news In brief

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Television actor George Stanford Brown, who plays a policeman in "The Rookies" was in court — as a victim rather than a cop.

Brown testified Monday at a preliminary hearing for Ivanhoe Spencer Jackson, 26, charged with forging checks reported stolen from Brown's Beverly Hills home.

Brown said he believes a woman whom he interviewed for a housekeeper's job took the blank checks. But Jackson was ordered bound over for trial.

CHESTER, England (AP) — The Anglican bishop of Chester, the Rt. Rev. Victor Whitsey, announced his New Year's resolution Tuesday. He will give up tobacco and alcohol for three months to aid the world's hungry.

The bishop said his no-smoking, no-drinking rule will last from Epiphany to Easter — Jan. 6 to March 30. The money saved will be paid into a bank account called the Bishop of Chester E to E Fund. The money will go to needy persons in India, Bangladesh, Africa and South America.

"It is the duty of a leader to set an example and not merely to exhort or demand," the bishop said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep.-elect Andrew Jacobs Jr., D-Ind., planned to fly to Washington from Indianapolis on Sunday, but the only seat he could get was in first class. Jacobs refused to spend the extra $20 in government money and got a tourist-class seat in a Saturday night flight instead.

Two treated

Two accident patients were treated and released Monday in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Treated were: Delilah Jaynes, 26, Parma, injured leg at work, and Thomas Oliphant, 53, East Prairie, cut scalp in fall.

Caucus whittles away power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Democratic Caucus is continuing to whittle away the power of once lordly committee chairmen as the 75 newly elected Democrats flex their muscle.

The new members have shown they hold the balance of power in voting some of the major reforms the caucus is decreeing for the new House that will assemble in January.

The freshmen comprise more than a fourth of the Democratic membership. They have set up their own organization to press for open procedures and assurances that junior members will not be crushed by the seniorit system.

The caucus voted 147 to 116 Tuesday night to require that the selection of chairmen of appropriations subcommittees be subject to caucus ratification. These subcommittees generally make the effective decisions on money bills.

The caucus already has the right to review appointment of committee chairmen, but these chairmen in turn have appointed the heads of subcommittees. This change saps the power of Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the Appropriations Committee and the second most senior member of the new House.

Earlier caucus actions had diminished the prerogatives of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee and its ailing chairman, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

Mills entered Bethesda Naval Medical Center Tuesday after several confused days in which he renewed his public association with stripper Annabel Battistella. The nature of his condition was not disclosed.

Rep. Richard Fulton, D-Tenn., a member of both the Ways and Means and the Democratic Steering committees, said he would move to have Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., replace Mills as chairman next year.

Fulton said he acted reluctantly, but "in these times we cannot allow the Ways and Means Committee to go leaderless." Fulton's move apparently has strong support, but no immediate action was expected.

The new Democrats have organized as "the class of 74," rented an office, set up a small staff and held several caucuses of their own.

Representative-elect Richard L. Ottinger of New York, their temporary chairman, said an informal consensus favored these objectives:

—Assurances that every new member will be appointed to a major committee. This would include putting freshmen on the Ways and Means and Appropriations committees, something rarely achieved in the past.

—Opportunities for new members to sponsor important legislation and thus achieve public recognition. This would be especially valuable to new representatives facing re-election campaigns in marginal districts, he said.

Ottinger said the move to organize new members was launched soon after the election and that expense money was provided by the Committee for an Effective Congress, a private group pushing congressional reform.

Remembrance

The departed survives in the hearts of the living. This is why our staff has been oriented to regard a funeral service as something for the living ... a final remembrance to gradually blend softly with other memories they have of the departed. It is for this reason we are so attentive to family suggestions when arrangements are made.

Auto club repairs poorly done

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Nearly 40 per cent of the repairs made on automobiles in an Auto Club of Missouri study were either poorly done or not completed at all, it was reported Tuesday.

According to the club's magazine, The Midwest Motorist, the average cost of auto repairs in the St. Louis area has risen nearly 20 per cent over costs found in an auto club survey two years ago.

The study said 1,032 motorists had their cars inspected at the club's diagnostic center in St. Louis, and then the vehicles were taken to garages where mechanics were asked to make needed repairs.

After completion of the repairs, the cars were returned to the diagnositc center and again inspected by auto club mechanics.

The club found that 390 of the 1,032 motorists taking part in the study received repair work that the clinic judged unsatisfactory.

The average cost of the repairs was $148.44 compared with an average repair bill of $127 in a 1972 study. There were 1,397 car repair rechecks made during the study two years ago, and it was found that 28.7 per cent of the repairs were unsatisfactory.

Diagnostic center manager Larry Pipes said the high percentage of unsatisfactory work stemmed from "a lack of training, equipment and specialization" in the auto repair industry.

Cars "have become more and more complex each year," Pipes said, "and it's difficult for the average auto mechanic to keep up with these changes."

FBLA hosts C'ville chapter

NEW MADRID — The New Madrid Vocational School Future Business Leaders of America members were hosts to the Caruthersville FBLA Chapter Nov. 21 at the vocational school.

The Caruthersville Club conducted their business meeting and were given a tour of the school by FBLA members from the vocational school. Adult evening classes were in session so students were able to view each department in operation.

Plans were made for Caruthersville's club to return at a later date to install the vocational school's chapter.

Matthews handed victory

ORAN--- Tournament action went pretty well as expected here Tuesday night...well almost.

Scott County Central buried College High 84-51, Oran dumped leopold 83-57 and Richland handed Matthews a 61-60 victory.

Yes...Richland handed the Pirates the win. It just wasn't the Rebels night, despite out playing the MHS cagers.

A basket by a Richland player with about two minutes left in the game gave the Pirates a 61-60 lead and neither team was able to tally after that point, even though both teams had at least a pair of chances.

Richland stormed from a five point deficit in the fourth quarter to claim a 60-59 lead, using a pressing defense to make the Pirates caught up the ball, but a Rebel athlete, caught up in the fast pace of the game, got fouled up on which goal belonged to him and scored an unmolested bucket for the pirates after a teammate stole the ball on the press. Ironically it was the second two points that this athlete had put through the MHS goal. He earlier had tipped in the ball while battling for a rebound.

The game sort of set the stage for the evenings other two bouts, as the night was filled with the early season errors that most teams are plagued with.

Frank McCaster scored 16 points to lead the Pirates offense, which included 14 from David Kenedy. Richland's Jim Clay scored 24 points and claimed high game honors.

Coach Hershel Miller's OHS Eagles startted slow, scoring only six points in the first quarter, but finally got rolling and scored 77 points through the remaining 24 minutes of action to live up to their fourth seeded position.

Clint Atchison came off the bench to spark the Eagles on both offense and defense, leading them from their early 12-6 deficit into the winners circle.

Oran had to go to a zone press before upsetting Leopold.

David Hamm and Ronnie Hurst played an outstanding game for Oran, but it was the all around play of their leading scorer, Keith Campbell, that really made the difference.

Campbell tied Hamm for high game honors, scoring 20 points, but the 6-foot-1 juniors ball handling and sharp passing was his biggest assets.

The Daily Standard's third ranked Braves used its pressing defense to pull away from a 21-16 lead and into a 45-21 halftime advantage. The Braves poured in the points in the third quarter and then played the subs through the final eight minutes of action.

Otto Porter pumped in 22 points to lead a 12 player offensive attack of the Braves. Mike Cook scored 13 for the Preps leading effort.

Tournament action resumes Thursday night with College High battling Richland at 7 p.m. in a losers bracket contest which will be followed by the match of top seeded Kelly against Oran. KHS claimed a first round bye in the seven team event.

Scott County Central coach, Ron Cookson (head bowed), seems to have lost something on the floor, but actually couldn't stand to look onto the floor as one of his players made a defensive mistake and allowed his opponent to score an easy basket. Coach Cookson is one of the more active coaches on the bench in Southeast Missouri.

Cats, Deer win

BERNIE — Old man upset toyed with the favorites early in the games here Tuesday night but failed to stay around as Bloomfield defeated Gideon 62-52 and Clarkton dumped Holcomb 74-58 to complete first round play in the 15th annual event.

Thursday's semifinals match the pre-tournament favorites, beginning at 7 p.m. with Risco battling Parma. Clarkton and Bloomfield square off at 8:30 with the winners playing for first place at 8:30.

Gideon jumped ahead of third seeded Bloomfiel 10-8 in the first quarter, but failed to maintain the pace and bowed out of the event.

Steve Rushin scored 10 points in the second half to spark the Wildcats, who were led in scoring by Keith and Ken Jackson who netted 18 and 16 points respectively for BHS. Virgil Sparks hit 19 for the Dogs top effort.

Clarkton had their hands full with neighboring Dunklin County rival --- Holcomb Hornets --- and didn't really put the game away until late in the contest.

Coach Richard Pyland's Reindeer gained a 15-14 lead in the first quarter and used its defense to race into a 34-25 halftime lead.

CHS's Ronnie Wilson pumped in 24 points, 14 coming in a 40 point second half, to lead the Reindeer offense. Kenny Rickman added 19, nine coming in the final eight minutes of play. Danny Burr scored 16 for HHS.

Indians rally

CARUTHERSVILLE--- The Kennett Indians went home a winner in a 66-55 bout with Caruthersville in Tuesday night's basketball action.

It was a tightly played game, but the Tigers gained an edge during first period of play. Caruthersville maintained it in the second period, sweeping past Kennett's man-to-man defense to hold a 37-29 halftime advantage.

The Tigers played determined ball but the action soon turned as Kennett switched their defensive plans and used the zone successfully to overpower the home team.

One big difference which played an important part in the game was the fouls. Caruthersville committed 15 while Kennett marked up three.

The Tigers' Mike Langford hit for 20 points for the night's high. Paul Palmer dumped in 12 while big Pedro Spicer was held to 10. Law Pulliam contributed 22 markers for Kennett's winning effort. Robert Roundtree and Larry Johnson threw in 18 and 16 respectively.

In B-team action, Caruthersville used the home court advantage to take a 62-45 win. Don Tyes led scoring for the Tigers with 21. High man for the opposing team was Lorento White with 14.

Bearcats prevail

DEXTER — The Dexter Bearcats did not disappoint the home team fans as they marked up their first victory of the season Tuesday night downing Malden 69-49. DHS lost its opener against Lilbourn Monday night.

Dexter stepped out to an early lead and managed to hold on to it. Steady play kept them at a 16-point advantage at the most throughout the game. Malden pulled to within 10 of the Bearcats, but could not make the range.

The Greenwaves went into the locker room at half trailing 38-24. Dexter continued to play around the Malden squad and coasted to the win.

Dexter's Don Reynolds led the Cats' scoring with 20 points Clippard had 18 for his credit. Thompson hit for 14 and Moore 13 markers for Malden's leading effort. Anderson finished out the double figure scorers with 11.

Malden captured a close 56-53 win in the B-game. Pearman shot 15 for the Greenwaves as Jim Dowdy also hit for 15 for the home team.

Bell City wins 1st

BELL CITY — The Bell City Cubs picked up their first win in four outings Tuesday night as they downed St. Vincent of Cape, 51-47.

In a tight first quarter, St. Vincent jumped out to the lead by a single point but saw it whisked away as the Cubs came battling back to take a 23-19 halftime lead.

The Spartans steadily slipped behind, but rallied in the final period finding it was too late as the Cubs had pitched in two baskets over them.

Dan Rivers paced the home team to the victory with 18 points. Danny Scherer and Johnny Fitts followed with 14 and 13 respectively. Rigdon led scoring for the Spartans with 13 markers.

Bell City roared past St. Vincent in the B-team 77-17. High point man for the Cubs was Weeks with 28.

Delta, Notre Dame win

LUTESVILLE — Delta whipped Meadow Height 70-50 and Notre Dame downed Oak Ridge 56-48 in the Woodland tournament here Tuesday night.

Meadow Heights gave Delta a little trouble in the first period as the Bobcats outscored the Panthers 14-13 but after that the game was all Delta as the Bobcats began to press and run. The score was 34-25 at the half.

Mitch Stroder and Mike Kelly led the Delta offense with 14 points apiece.

Keith Brotherton and Mike McCormack were the only offense for the Panthers as they combined for a total of 29 points with 15 and 14 respectively.

Delta ended the game with a total of 33 field goals shots. Meadow Heights hit 20 free throws to only four for the Bobcats.

Notre Dame had all kinds of trouble through the first three quarters from the Jays defense as Oak Ridge took a 16-12 first period lead. Neither team could do much in the way of offense in the second period but the Bulldogs managed to outscore the Jays 8-7. Oak Ridge led 23-20 at the end of the first half.

Notre Dame began to take control of the game in the third quarter and walked away in the fourth period. Mark Buessink was high for the Bulldogs with 20 points. Bruce Schoen led Oak Ridge with 48.

Indians travel to Jonesboro

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Unbeaten Arkansas State University of Jonesboro and winless Indiana State University--Evansville will provide the opposition this week for the Indians of Southeast Missouri State University.

Coach Bob Cradic's Indians, 101-65 winners over Concordia Seminary in their first outing of the season, travel to Jonesboro Thursday to renew their longtime rivalry with ASU at 8 p.m.

Prior to the varsity game, the Southeast Missouri State jayvee team will square off against the ASU underclassmen. The 6 p.m. contest will be the first competition of the season for the Southeast Missouri State jayvee squad.

Southeast Missouri State will play host to Indiana State University--Evansville at 8 p.m. Saturday (Dec. 7) at Houck Field House. The game will mark the first meeting between the two schools. ISUE was founded in 1965.

Arkansas State, the only school Southeast Missouri State will play which has a major college schedule, has recorded wins over Delta State and Georgia Southern. Also nicknamed the indians, Arkansas State has four starters back from last season's club which captured the Southland Conference championship and finished with a 17-8 record.

Two of those 17 wins came at the expense of Southeast Missouri State.

ASU's returning starters are 6-2 senior guard Don Scaife of Helena, Ark., 6-2 senior guard J.H. Williams of Little Rock, a 6-5 senior forward Schuler Rowland of Marvell, Ark., and 6-7 senior forward Jay Harbison of Wynne, Ark. Three of the four averaged in double figures last season with Scaife leading the way with 18.5 points per game.

Missing from last year's championship t eam is 6-9 center Steve. Brooks. But ASU Coach John isn't too worried. He has a roster dotted with players standing 6-7 or 6-8. Leading candidates to replace Brooks are 6-8 sophomore Dan Henderson of Memphis, Tenn., and 6-8 junior Bob Gilbert of Sibley, Mo.

Indiana State--Evansville opened its season last week under a new head coach, Wayne Boultinghouse, and lost by substantial margins to Colorado State University and the University of Wyoming. Both games were played on the road.

The Screaming Eagles, like Southeast Missouri State, had a below .500 season in 1973-74, finishing 12-14. But they hope to reverse their fortunes utilizing the taleents of several returning players with outstanding credentials.

These include 6-0 junior guard Ernie Brothers of Vincennes, Ind., 6-6 senior forward Fred Chase of Mt. Vernon, Ind., and 6-8 senior center Jim Crisp of Elizabethtown, Ky.

Brothers led ISUE in scoring last season with an average of 15.6 points per game. Chase holds the Screaming Eagles' record for points in a single game with 41. Crisp is the tallest player on the squad, has three years of varsity experience, and led the team in rebounds last year with 7.8 per game.

Following Saturday's game, the Indians will begin preparations for a Tuesday night (Dec. 10) tilt in Cleveland, Miss., with Delta State. The Indians and Statesmen have previously met five times on the hardwoods and the Indians have been victorious in three of the five games, none of which was played in recent years.

Against Concordia last week Southeast Missouri State hit nearly 60 per cent of its field goal attempts and all five of the Indian starters scored in double figures. Steve Valli, a 6-6 senior forward from St. Louis, and Arvin Haynes, a 6-7 junior center from St. Louis, paced the attack with 17 poiints apiece.

Haynes grabbed a game-high 14 rebounds.

Cradic was not altogether satisfied with his team's initial performance, however. The play was sluggish, especially in the beginning, he said, and the players made too many mistakes.

He warned these aspects of the Indians' game must improve, if they hope to have any success this week and in the weeks ahead.

Panthers claim 17th straight win

LILBOURN--- Coach Bob Phelps' LHS Panthers ran their season record to 6-0 with an 82-64 win over the East Prairie Eagles here Tuesday night. It was the LHS Panthers 17th straight victory.

The Panthers were surprised in the first period with the scoring ability of the Eagles as coach Bill Beck's five came within one point, 20-19, of Panthers in the first eight minutes.

Lilbourn's speed and quickness with their press began to take its toll on the Eagles in the second period and the Panthers built up an insurmountable advantage of 22-16 to take a 42-35 lead into the intermission.

The third period was worse for the Eagles as the Panthers raced to a 26-12 advantage.

10 players for the Panthers got into the scoring column with Don Tredwell leading the way with 21.

Williford and Dixon led the Eagles in scoring with 24 and 23 respectively.

Lilbourn won the B game 77-40. Raymond Willis scored 14 for Lilbourn and Lee Johnson hit 10 for the Eagles.

Sports Briefs

BRUSSELS (AP) — The International Equestrian Federation meets today to debate the admission of China, Taiwan and The Philippines.

Sources say it is likely The Philippines' application will be approved but that Taiwan and China will run into problems.

It is expected, the sources said, that a vote on those two applications will be postponed until a member of the international federation can travel to the countries to make a personal assessment of their equestrian activities.

VAL d'ISERE, France (AP) — Switzerland's Bernadette Zurbriggen drew the No. 1 starting assignment in today's women's downhill race of the First Snow Ski Tournament that opens the 1974-75 World Cup season.

Annemarie Moser-Proell, who has won the World Cup four years in a row, will start No. 10.

Mizzou faces big test

COLUMBIA, Mo. — While it w as quite an auspicious opening for Missouri's cagers as they racked up impressive wins in their first two outings of the year, don't expect Coach Norm Stewart and his youthful Bengals to sit back and rest on their early-season laurels.

For one thing, the Tigers have a busy weekend of action ahead with Portland, Connecticut, and Mississippi State all headed for Columbia to battle with Mizzou in the Show-Me Classic Friday and Saturday nights. The Tigers will match up with Portland on Friday at 7 p.m. at Hearnes, with Connecticut and Mississippi State set to follow at 9 p.m. Losers return at 7 p.m. on Saturday, with the championship game scheduled for 9 p.m.

For another, Indiana State will follow right on the heels of the visiting Classic squads when the Sycamores of Coach Gordon Stauffer invade Missouri's home court for a Tuesday evening engagement at 7:35 p.m.

But don't deprive Stewart of the favorable impression those first two victories left with him, because they couldn't have pleased him more.

"We seemed to be a lot more comfortable and at ease on the floor during the Rice game," he points out, "but overall I was extremely happy with our efforts. I just hope we continue to keep improving as we go along."

While the Tigers' head man has maintained all along that the team's strong point would probably be its backcourt, he was still quite encouraged by the play of sta starting guards Steve Dangos and Willie Smith. Smith, especially, electrified with with the crowd both nights with his soft-shooting touch, pin-point passing, and overall hustle.

"Steve knew that he was going to get some help out there," smiles Stewart, "but I know he's a little relieved that Willie has done such a great job. If the two of them continue to play as well as they have and if we keep getting great efforts off the bench from people like Mark Anderson, Jeff Currie, and Ron Pexa, we'll be in good shape."

Another impressive facet of the two triumphs was the general teamwork of the club. With all five starters averaging in double figures, it obviously hasn't been a one-man show.

"Hopefully, we'll be able to come up with an offense that will complement the abilities of everyone on the floor," continues Stewart. "One of the strengths of the club now is that we almost always have at least four people on the court who can put the ball on the floor. This has given us a lot more movement, and it has really shown."

As Stewart prepares his charges for two more rugged battles this weekend, he realizes that the Tigers will need a strong effort to retain the Classic title they won a year ago.

"All three teams coming in had winning records last year, and Connecticut made it to the quarterfinals of the NIT. Mississippi State has one of the stronger clubs in the Southeastern Conference, so you probably have to list them as the favorite. With four teams from all areas of the country, the fans should see a v ariety of styles of play."

Indiana State dropped its '74-'75 lidlifter 98-80 to a powerful Purdue five that won the NIT last spring, but the Sycamores came back to tip a strong Louisiana Tech club 77-72. Junior forward Rick Williams will be one of the ISU stalwarts with his 16.8 scoring average and 9.3 mark for rebounds from last year. He tossed in 49 points in the first two Sycamore contests.

Sooners, OSU top NEA All-Americans

By Murray Olderman

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — (NEA) — It was before the college football season had even started and the talk got around to guys who figured to make All-American in 1974. They focused in on the Oklahoma Sooners, who are recognized by everyone but the football coaches of the nation and the Eastern bloc countries.

The list of Sooner stars started out logically enough—Washington, Selmon, Owens—and soon had reached the impressive total of nine before they started looking to other schools.

"I think," interrup'ed Coach Don Fambrough of Kansas, which plays in the same Big Eight Conference, "you missed one." He thought they overlooked the center.

If it was an oversight, it was rare. Now, no one misses the Sooners. So it is logical that four of them — halfback Joe Washington, linebacker Rod Shoate, defensive tackle LeRoy Selmon and wide receiver Tinker Owens — lead the 1974 NEA All-American team announced today. A fifth man, safety Randy Huges, is on the second team.

And the roster could well have included guard John Roush, middle guard Dewey Silmon, quarterback Steve Davis and, oh yes, that center, Kyle Davis. Except that other schools play football too.

Like Ohio State. The massive Buckeyes placed three men on the honor roll of bona fide All-Americans — irrepressible halfback Archie Griffin, tackle Kurt Schumacher and defensive back Neil Colzie — with tight end Doug France and guard-center Steve Myers on the second team.

This was the year of the running back in college football. Griffin, headed for the Heisman Trophy, and Washington were consistently brilliant. But so were Anthony Davis and Ton Dorsett of Pitt. All of them are sub-six footers but solidly muscled, with amazing quickness. The checklist of great looking ball carriers should include Bill Marek of Wisconsin, Walter Payton of Jackson State, Jim Germany of New Mexico State, Willard Harrell of Pacific and Sonny Collins of Kentucky.

The big lineman has also taken over college football. There's not a specimen under 6-4 on the offensive forward wall. The lightest man up front on defense, at 248, is Maryland's Randy White, and he's also the strongest.

The most unique and closest competition for a spot on the All-American team occurred at the vital quarterback post. It showed that you don't necessarily need an energetic publicity man to attract national attention.

Steve Bartkowski, a big, strong-armed passer in the pro mold, had stumbled erratically through a couple of seasons at California, a school troubled by probation and player defections. Suddenly he put it all together and, on his own merit, emerged as the best traditional T-quarterback in the country.

Probably the best all-around football player in the country is another quarterback, Fred Solomon, a little off the mainstream of attention at Tampa. He is a fantastic roll-out runner and a fine passer and he could be equally great, with his darting speed, as a wide receiver or defensive back. In a different situation, he would have been hard to suppress as a Heisman candidate.

The main thing, for all-star purposes, is that all these young collegians were honored because they put their talents out front — and performed.

Trades highlight baseball meet

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — You gotta believe Tug McGraw's with the Philadelphia Phillies.

And Dick Allen of the Atlanta Braves? Well, not everybody's ready to believe that just yet.

McGraw, Allen and Lee May were among the 13 players traded Tuesday in four deals at major league baseball's winter meetings.

The question remains whether Allen, the game's highest-paid player at $225,000 a year, will report to the Braves, who obtained the controversial first baseman from the Chicago White Sox for a reported $5,000 and a player to be named later.

Allen, 32 left the White Sox Sept. 14, saying he was retiring from baseball. However, he never made it official by putting it in writing, and recently he said he wanted to continue playing.

He was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

As part of the deal, the White Sox will keep the $5,000 even if Allen doesn't report. Chicago receives a player only if Allen shows up.

McGraw, one-time relief ace of the New York Mets who popularized the "You gotta believe!" slogan during the Mets' 1973 pennant drive, moved to Philadelphia in a six-player trade.

Outfielders Don Hahn and Dave Schneck also went to Philadelphia. In return, the Phils sent outfielder Del Unser, left-handed pitcher Mac Scare and rookie catcher John Stearns to New York.

Unser, who will be 30 Monday, is expected to provide the Mets with their first solid center fielder in years.

"We feel McGraw can be the stopper in our bullpen," Phillies' Manager Danny Ozark said of the 30-year-old left-hander who had a 6-11 record and a 4.50 earned-run average last season and was rarely effective. "Relief pitchers have been known to have on-and-off years."

Unser, a left-handed hitter who batted .264 with 11 homers and 61 runs batted in, is regarded as a top-flight fielder.

Baltimore obtained May, a power-hitting first baseman, and minor league outfielder Jay Schleuter from the Houston Astros for second baseman Rob Andrews, who has had an outstanding minor league career, and infielder-outfielder Enos Cabell.

In the other transactions, the New York Yankees sent first baseman-outfielder Bill Sudakis to the California Angels for right-handed pitcher Skip Lockwood.

Allen, who previously played with Philadelphia, St. Louis and Los Angeles, won the American League's most Valuable Player Award in 1973 and batted .301 with 32 home runs and 88 RBI in 1974.

The departure of May to Baltimore will move the Astros' Bob Watson from left field to first base. Cabell batted .241 last season for the Orioles and is expected to be a reserve with the Astros.

May, 31, who batted .268 with 24 homers and 85 RBI last season, will play first base, making veteran Boog Powell expendable.

No word on expansion matters was expected until Thursday with Seattle, Denver.

World Bowl set

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A disenchanted bunch of Birmingham Americans has reversed field and agreed to play in a World Bowl overflowing with ill will.

Florida's Blazers, who have not been paid in months, say they won their berth in the World Football League's first championship by beating Memphis out of anger at what they saw as a "setup" Birmingham-Memphis finale.

And the Americans, who walked away from a scheduled practice Monday and threatened not to show up for Thursday night's championship game, said at a Tuesday news conference they would play despite their anger over missed paydays.

At least player representative Charlie Harraway said most of them will show up. Harraway said a players' meeting at which the decision was made to play was "very heated.

"A couple of guys got up and wanted to fight," he said. "I don't know if we're going to have 100 per cent of our players but we'll have enough to play."

Harraway said the Americans are "quite disenchanted" and have not been paid in five or six weeks. Linebacker Ross Brupbacher said it had been eight weeks since the players got paychecks.

Several of the veterans negotiated late into Monday night with owner Bill Putnam, and a player who did not want to be identified said:

"We don't want to be negative at this time, but it really looks like the game won't be played. The team has poured millions into the economy of Birmingham but no one wants to come forward and help us financially."

But Harraway, a running back who is also the WFL Players Association president, said Tuesday the Americans will play the game "for the citizens of Birmingham and for our pride.

"We're not playing for back pay ... We are playing for the championship."

Putnam has said it would take $750,000 for the team to pay its back taxes, bills and back salaries, and that he has had trouble borrowing the money or finding substantial investors. He said Tuesday he had no comment on the players' decision to play.

Harraway said "There is no way we're going to get any money." But he added that league officials had warned that a boycott of the World Bowl would damage the league's chances for next year. And he added: "We're concerned that the WFL keep going so we can eventually get our back pay."

Harraay said the players would get a portion of Thursday night's gate "but it will be only a few hundred dollars per man."

After stadium rental and other game expenses are deducted, the players are to get 70 per cent of the gate receipts

Griffin claims Heisman

NEW YORK (AP) — Until he became the fifth underclassman to win the Heisman Trophy, Ohio State running ace Archie Griffin wasn't aware that none of the four previous players who won it as juniors had been able to repeat as seniors.

Now he knows.

"Everyone's scaring it into me now," Griffin said with a smile Tuesday when he was announced as the 1974 winner of the Heisman Trophy, which annually goes to the outstanding college football player in the country.

Griffin, a 5-foot-9, 185-pounder who holds the Big Ten and Ohio State career rushing records, intends to give it his best shot in 1975 in an attempt to become the first two-time Heisman winner.

"I'm gonna put my best foot forward," he said, "and if the voters think I'm good enough to win it again, then I'll win it."

Griffin has felt the pressure in rushing for more than 100 yards in every game during the past two years — an NCAA record 22 consecutive regular-season games, plus the 1974 Rose Bowl — and he expects to be even more of a target now that he stands above the crowd as the 40th Heisman winner.

"I'm sure they'll probably come and shoot at me more," he said, "but I'll just go out and do my best in every game. Coach (Woody) Hayes says you either get better or you get worse and I'll just try to improve next year."

That will take some doing since Griffin has 4,064 yards rushing in his college career and gained 1,620 yards this season — most among the nation's major collegians.

Griffin captured the Heisman in a runaway over Southern California senior tailback Anthony Davis. The two will meet in the Rose Bowl for the third year in a row.

Griffin received 483 first-place votes — each worth three points — and 1,920 of a possible 2,547 points from a nationwide panel of 849 electors. He was named second on 198 ballots and third on 75 others. The votes were tabulated on a 3-2-1 point basis.

Davis received 120 first-place votes, 148 seconds and 163 thirds for 819 points.

Joe Washington, a junior halfback from Oklahoma, finished third with 87 first-place votes and 661 points. Then came Notre Dame quarterback Tom Clements and Nebraska quarterback Dave Humm.

Rounding out the top 10 were Michigan quarterback Dennis Franklin, Oklahoma linebacker Rod Shoate — top lineman in the balloting — Brigham Young quarterback Gary Sheide, Maryland defensive lineman Randy White — the Outland Trophy winner — and California quarterback Steve Bartkowski.

Griffin won the voting in each of the country's five regions—East, South, Midwest, Southwest and Far West. Davis finished second and Washington third in the East, South and Far West while those positions were reversed in the Midwest and Southwest.

The other juniors to win the Heisman were Doc Blanchard of Army in 1945, Doak Walker of Southern Methodist in 1948, Vic Janowicz of Ohio State in 1950 and Roger Staubach of Navy in 1963.

FOOTBALL

NEW YORK — Archie Griffin, the slashing Ohio State tailback who has rushed for over 100 yards in each of his last 22 games, scored a runaway victory in the 1974 Heisman Trophy balloting to become only the fifth underclassman to win the award.

OKLAHOMA CITY — Randy White, Maryland's 248-pound defensive tackle, was awarded the Outland Trophy as the nation's top collegiate interior lineman.

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins' quarterback Bob Griese signed a long-term contract with the National Football League team for an estimated million dollars.

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Don Fambrough announced his resignation as head coach at the University of Kansas because his request was rejected for a contract extention.

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — P.W. "Bear" Underwood resigned from the head coaching position he had held for the past six seasons at the University of Southern Mississippi.

HOUSTON — Houston Oilers K.S. "Bud" Adams said his National Football League team had been fined $15,000 last season for having 68 players on the payroll during the regular season.

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Steelers will raise most ticket prices a minimum of $1.10 and a maximum of $5.10 for their National Football League games next season. A ticket that had been priced $3.15 this year will cost $8.25 next season.

Caldwell suspended

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A spokesman for the American Basketball Association's Spirits of St. Louis says a court battle may result from suspension of forward Joe Caldwell.

The 6-foot-5 Caldwell, an 11-season pro veteran from Arizona State, was suspended Tuesday for "activities detrimental to the best interest of the club, the ABA and pro sports in general."

Club president Harry Weltman did not elaborate, but Caldwell's influence on rookie star Marvin Barnes was reported to be a factor.

Barnes two weeks ago jumped the club and sought counsel from Caldwell's agent, Marshall Boyar of Beverly Hills, Calif., before setting contract issues.

"This thing has been hanging for a while," Weltman disclosed.

After suspending Caldwell, the Spirits almost immediately signed 6-foot-7 Terry Driscoll, who was waived recently by the Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Association.

Spirits Coach Bob MacKinnon said an all-rookie front line of Barnes, Maurice Lucas and Gus Gerard would be in the lineup for a game tonight against the Kentucky Colonels.

"That's not a bad lineup," MacKinnon conceded, "but it would have been better if we had been working this way since September."

2. Card of Thanks

To the many friends and relatives of Noah Heath, the family would like to express our appreciation as best we can for all the many kindnesses shown during his illness and death. The floral offerings, memorials to Dogwood Church, Cerebral Palsy, Heart Association and cancer are just past describing. The service of Rev. Floyd Brower, Rev. A. A. Noggle, Miss Monte Allen and Mrs. Mary Dale Sater has filled our hearts with love to the utmost. Thanks is just not a big enough word to truly express what we really feel, but please accept this from the depth of our hearts.

Margaret, Marjorie and Bill, Kenny and Nancy, Brenda and all of the grandchildren.

Modern drugs make TB picture bright

Remember when we called TB "consumption?" The American Lung Association of Eastern Missouri remembers. That was in the early years of the Association's 70 year old battle against this lung crippling disease.

Then along came Christmas Seals, and everyone who cared, got into the battle. Contributions, as today, ranged from pennies to large amounts and also, the giving of services and time to the program. One of America's first health voluntary programs was under way.

People who care today are noticing the large number of emphysema victims. One of the fastest growing diseases in the country, more than a million people suffer from the disabling effects of this disease. Lung physicians are agreed that we are at the same point in the control of emphysema as we were with tuberculosis 70 years ago. More research; more training of professionals to cope with the disease on a community basis; more education of patients and families; and more programs aimed at preventing the disease are needed.

Is TV a disease of thepast? TB is a tricky disease. Last year, approximately 4,400 people died from it and half a million are directly affected by it. Thanks to modern drugs and updated detection methods, the TB picture is a bright one. Even so, constant surveillance and continuing research are necessary. The trickiness of the germ causing TB lies in its ability to lie dormant in the body and become activated. The ALA of Eastern Missouri advocates that a tuberculin skir test be part of the annua phyusical checkup.

What about other diseases of the lung? The list is a long one anc your contribution to the ongoing annual Christmas Seal campaign helps support ongoing programs Statistics show that right now, 47 million men, women and children are suffering from Asthma, Chronic Bronchitis, Emphysema, Tuberculosis, Hay Fever, Chronic Sinusitis and other lung and respiratory conditions. Your Lung Association is working toward helping these people. In addition, programs include workshops on the health effects of air pollution, and "How to Kick the Habit" smoking clinics.

2 bound over on weapon charge

NEW MADRID — Two Portageville men, charged in separate cases with carrying a concealed weapon, having been bound over to Circuit Court and placed under bond of $1,000 each after waiving preliminary hearings in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

William Hall is charged with carrying a concealed .22-caliber automatic pistol in his pocket, and Donnie McCarter is accused of concealing a .22-caliber sawed-off rifle.

McCarter, a minor, was also fined $66 for underage possession of beer. He was given a six-month suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for six months.

Charles Robbins drew a $75 fine, six-month suspended jail sentence and probation for one year on a charge of underage possession of beer.

Charged with possession of less than 35 grams of marijuana, Bobby Recker and Craig Nelson of New Madrid and Shelia Ruby of Marston were fined $59 each.

Charged with driving while intoxicated and no operator license, Joe Sherman Everett and Joe Lockridge were fined $125 each, given six-month suspended jail sentences and placed on probation for one year.

Frank Coffee charged with driving while intoxicated and no operator license was levied a $130 fine and received a year on probation when a six-month jail sentence was suspended.

Other cases and fines:

Eddie Paul Rinehart, following too closely, $40; Obie Arphus Sisk, no trailer lights, $20; Joseph Albert Dormer, speeding, $32; Patty Lynn French, speeding, $30; and Vernice Mildred Walker, expired vehicle license, $20.

Donald Tucker

Tucker elected senate head

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. Donald L. Tucker, son of Mrs. Rose H. Gray of New Madrid, a sophomore at Rust College in Holly Springs, was recently elected president of the Men's Senate and chairman of Student Government Association Ways and Means Committee.

He is also a director of the Safety Club at Rust.

New recruiting plan announced

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The U. S. Air Force has announced a special emphasis recruiting program designed to alleviate unemployment trends and provide substantial educational and technical training opportunities. "The program will be fully implemented in our area," stated Sgt. Jack Simpson, local Air Force recruiter.

The program is designed to provide a maximum number of job opportunities for high school graduates. It features no obligation aptitude testing, career counseling and job planning, leading to regular enlistment into the Air Force. Also included in the program is the regular delayed enlistment option whereby qualified applicants can enlist in the Air Force Reserve for up to 180 days before entering active duty.

"We feel we offer outstanding opportunities to learn a good technical skill — one that's useful both in the Air Force and marketable in civilian life," stated Sgt. Simpson, whose office is at 1313 Broadway and phone number is 335-6100.

The Allied land, air and sea operation against the Normandy coasts of France called the greatest invasion on D-Day, June 6, 1944, is in military history.

Letters to the Editor

November 26, 1974

Editor
Standard
205 S. New Madrid
Sikeston, Mo. 63801

Dear Editor:

Jack Anderson's column of November 22 charged that the Federal Energy Administration "has quietly given the oil industry the means of creating a costly natural gas and oil 'shortage' in the next few months."

Mr. Anderson's totally meaningless accusation is based on the fact that individual oil companies, the American Petroleum Institute, other trade associations and federal agencies have responded to FEA requests for advice in designing a questionnaire through which the federal government hopes to obtain an independent analysis of U.S. oil and gas reserves.

In the first place, there is no connection between the estimates of the nation's proved reserves of oil and gas and any possible shortages during the next few months. The capability of the industry to produce, refine, and deliver oil and gas in sufficient quantities to meet demand will determine whether shortages occur. Proved reserves, on the other hand, are estimates of oil and gas which have been discovered and are believed to be recoverable in future years under present-day economic and operating conditions.

Secondly, the API does not believe the approach being followed by the FEA in sending out the proposed questionnaire will produce realistic reserves figures, and we so informed the FEA from the beginning. With a survey going to 23,000 oil and gas operators of all sizes, who keep their records in many different ways, there is little likelihood that meaningful information will result.

We recommended that the federal government make the best use of its effort and resources by making a thorough and objective audit of the accuracy and completeness of data already developed by industry experts.

Since our basic recommendations were rejected, the API and the industry responded to the FEA's request for technical assistance on such matters as clarifying definitions and identifying he kinds of data that would be most meaningful, given the approach which FEA had elected to take. In several instances the industry suggested the addition of certain relevant information that had been omitted by the FEA.

Thirdly, Mr. Anderson is completely wrong when he states that the oil complanies will send their survey forms to the API for checking before the FEA receives them. In accordance with FEA procedures, the API will at no time have access to the individual operator responses to the survey. Indeed, if suvh a suggestion had been made, the APIwould have rejected it immediately.

Sincerely,
J. E. Hodges
Director,, Division of Statistics
American Petroleum Institute

Dear Editor:

Nixon has proven beyond any doubt the states needs very little guidance from the federal government, when Nixon was elected president in 1968 he immediately commandered all branches of the executive department to serve the interest of this one little man who had become president by hook and crook. He very swiftly set up an organization whose single purpose (without regard for country or fellow man was to reelect himself 4 years later, supporters for this type of unAmerican, unDemocratic, unChristian and gestapo type of government came out of the woodwork like roaches out of the walls, financial contributors for this criminal regime were plentiful, religious leaders (like Reverend Billy Graham) were enthusiastic in their support of the antiChrist movement by this freakish little man whose name is Richard Milhous Nixon.

This Godless creature timed the horrible Vietnam war to serve his selfish personal interest at the polls in 1972, after his overwhelming victory at the polls in 1972 Nixon became so drunk with power he further put himself above the laws, rules, decency, fairplay and the constitution that governed his fellow man. While this little intoxicated president concentrated on deceiving the people and using force to subdue all opposition and all executive branches of the federal government to bow down to his level, and in spite of the lawless Nixon and associates, the states continued to function normally and are holding the union together, a responsibility that belongs to the federal government.

Nixon wa a little sick man trying to lead a big sick nation and both are floundering in a sea of confusion. Nixon has thrown all his aids on the mercy of the courts while he maneuvered a pardon for himself.

I remember when Nixon put his hand on the Holy Bible and took his oath of office. He then made mockery of that Bible and the constitution he was entrusted to protect for every citizen in America.

Like Adolph Hitler, Nixon had no true friends and finally could trust not even one man. But unlike Hitler, Nixon has chosen slow torturous suicide while Hitler ended his sorry life immediately, but one of the many lessons we should have learned from Richard Nixon is, the states needs very little federal government — but the federal government needs all the states.

W. T. Woods
Bertrand, Mo.

Proof of age needed

Q. What should I bring for my age proof when I apply for social security benefits?

A. We will need the best evidence. Normally, this is a birth or baptismal certificate recorded before the age of 5. If this record doesn't exist, school records, Federal and state census records, marriage records, and other documents recorded early in your life will be adequate.

Q. I was 72 years old this year. Although I haven't retired, my social security checks automatically began coming to me every month. Can I keep them?

A. Yes. After you are 72, your earnings do not affect your entitlement to social security benefits. At that point, social security becomes an annuity program.

Q. I am 64 years old. I've been told by my frinds that if I start my social security checks now I'll have to take a 20 per cent reduction in my benefit. Is this correct?

A. No. If you start your benefits at the age of 64, your benefit will be reduced by about 7 per cent. This is because you are only 12 months under the age of 65.

Q. I've been getting my social security checks since I was 65. My wife will be 62 this year. Will she get half of my benefit amount?

A. No. Her check will be reduced 25 per cent because she is just 62. If she waits until she is 65, she will receive half of your check.

Q. When I applied for social security disability payments, I was denied for medical reasons. Since I'm still unable to work at my trade, could I get monthly supplemental security income payments?

A. No. The disability requirements are now the same for both the social security program and the Federal supplemental security income program. People must be severely disabled and unable to do any substantial gainful work for a year or more.

Q. My 32-year-old son, who has been disabled since birth, lives with me.He has no income, and he doesn't own any property. Would he be eligible for the new Federal assistance payments?

A. Since your son doesn't have any income and resources, he might be eligible for supplemental security income payments. However, his payment would be reduced by one-third in consideration of the value of the room and board he gets from you

Q. A friend told me that I could get extra credit from social security if I kept on working past 65 and didn't get any monthly benefits on my work record. What does my friend mean by extra credit?

A. The extra credit will mean increased monthly checks from social security when you do retirea and start getting benefits. Any worker who delays retirement past 65 will get a benefit increase of one-twelfth of 1 percent for each month after 65 and before 72 that he doesn't receive a check because of his earnings. This delayed retirement credit only applies to months after December 1970.

Q. I'm 67, and I recently fell and put a deep gash in my arm. I was treated in the emergency room at the hospital, but I didn't stay overnight. Are these services covered under my Medicare medical insurance?

A. Yes. Medicare medical insurance helps pay for emergency room services.

SEASONAL SYMBOL

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Eggs have been a symbol of Easter since the earliest days of Christianity. Ancient Persians believed that the world was hatched from an egg on the first day of spring, according to Hallmark researchers. Early Egyptians, Greeks and Romans all saw the egg as a symbol of the universe and a token of spring, fertility and rebirth.

Christians first used eggs to symbolize the resurrection in Mesopotamia. Eggs were consecrated and the shells stained red to represent Christ's blood.

Draft evader can't find job

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Steven Edward Thiellen, 24, Nebraska's first draft evader to return to the country under President Ford's Vietnam era re-entry program, is finding it hard to find a job, and time is running out.

Thiellen returned from Ontario, Canada, and turned himself in Oct. 29. A federal grand jury indicted him on draft evasion charges Sept. 30, 1970. He failed to report to his local draft board here June 16, 1970.

Thiellen says he feels the President's return program is "economic punishment."

Thiellen and his wife now live with his parents here.

Thiellen said he has been turned down just about everywhere he has gone looking for a job because under the provisions of the Ford proposal, the jobs must be exclusively open to him — there can be no other applicants.

Even with the help of State Selective Service Director Edward Binder, Thiellen said, "Now where are you going to find a job that anyone wants where you're the only applicant. They're not really trying to punish you out front, they're trying to punish you economically."

Thiellen said he would like to do something socially significant under the two-year plan but that "what they want to do is scrub floors or be a bed pan nurse for your time, and then they say fine, take off."

Thiellen added that even after completion of the work program, the record on his indictment will not be erased, but will stay with hime for the rest of his life.

Thiellen has been quoted as saying he would like to return to Canada after finishing his 20-month alternative service. He said prospective employers have misinterpreted the statement.

The reason he wants to return to Canada is because employers there accept him, whereas he is not accepted in the United States.

Thiellen said he was not aware of all the complications in the Ford plan when he made the decision to return.

"I thought you could come back and take about any job . . . and jobs wouldn't be so hard to get . . . . man . . . there's a hundred applicants for every job that pays over $5,500 a year."

Thiellen said he does not think the Ford proposal offers amnesty at all.

"I wish people would stop calling it amnesty. It's not even called amnesty in the proclamation. It's a re-earned, re-entry program," said Thiellen.

Thiellen said the government has not admitted that Vietnam-era draft evaders were right in refusing to be inducted, "they make you sign a bond on your own recognizance, they make you feel like a criminal, and they want you to take the lowest sort of job. But they actually don't say that, they hide it in the rules."

Under the proposal, Thiellen must find a job by Friday. In the meantime, he says he is waiting by the telephone.

Big Catch

The heaviest of all invertebrate animals is the Atlantic giant squid (Architeuthis Princeps). The largest specimen ever recorded was one measuring 55 feet overall, captured Nov. 2, 1878 after it had run aground in Tickle Bay, Newfoundland. Its eyes were 9 inches in diameter.

Without the middle class Ford's lost

By Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Ford economically is attempting to be all things to all people — except the middle class.

Psychologically, this may be Mr. Ford's undoing, though he says the surtax, in practice, will be small. For the middle class as individuals — the highly skilled machinist, welder and technician, the office manager, foreman and middle-level manager, blue and white collar alike — are the men and women Mr. Ford must depend upon to provide the brains and resources to make his program a success.

They have been hit by so many discriminatory blows these past few years (in college scholarships for their children for one) that any new tax which focuses on their incomes is sure to create strong resentment. If the morale of this group is shattered, what chance does the Ford program have?

Just as worrisome, an economic grab bag that includes so many compromise half-do, half-don't solutions, is bound to be picked to pieces by Congress with considerable vigor. This leads me to believe the parts which survive may not add up to a workable whole.

But let us suppose, for the sake of argument, that Mr. Ford has his way and that Congress votes him every law he is asking for. He does not have the organization and skilled managers to effectively put an anti-inflation, energy-independence program into effect.

In the main, whatever small numbers of men he can draw in from the outside, he must in the end rely on a bureaucracy which has failed miserably in promoting energy production and conservation and in developing or supervising inflation programs. There has been so much inter-departmental backbiting that some upper-middle-level officials are resigning in despair, being convinced that nothing will happen.

Mr. Ford's proposal is a shopping list, not a program. His speech before Congress, of course, was a mere outline and tells little about how this 31-ring circus is to be handled. The 43-page backup fact sheet adds little more. Officials questioned differ widely in their interpretation and in their evaluation of what is and is not possible.

There are concrete proposals of course. Witness the 5 per cent surtax on corporations and middle- and upper-bracket taxpayers, the 10 per cent allowance on depreciation, and extended and broadened unemployment programs, Congress willing. But consider the bewildering generalities.

Rice Krispies in your Marshmallow Treats.

'Tis the season to enjoy an extra savings on Kellogg's Rice Krispies and extra-good Holiday eating with Marshmallow Treats. This delicious, crunchy confection takes only minutes to make. Requires no baking. Uses just three tasty ingredients: Rice Krispies, marshmallows and margarine. So, clip the coupon and easy recipe. Put a dime in your pocket and tasty Marshmallow Treats on your Holiday table.

MARSHMALLOW TREATS

¼ cup regular margarine or butter
1 pkg. (6 to 10 oz.) regular marshmallows, about 40, OR 4 cups miniature marshmallows
5 cups KELLOGG'S RICE KRISPIES cereal

1. Melt margarine in large saucepan over low heat. Add marshmallows and cook, stirring constantly, until marshmallows are melted and mixture is very syrupy. Remove from heat.
2. Add Rice Krispies cereal. Stir until well coated.
3. Using buttered spatula or waxed paper, press mixture evenly and firmly in buttered 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Cut into squares when cool.

Yield: 24 squares, 2 x 2 inches

NOTE: For thicker squares, press warm mixture into buttered 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Best results are obtained when using fresh marshmallows. About 2 cups marshmallow creme may be substituted for marshmallows. Add to melted margarine and cook over low heat about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Proceed as directed in step 2 above.

COOKING-UP

Mrs. John Beis of Bertrand and her son Andy, 4, are busy preparing a dish from one of the recipes Mrs. Beis shares with readers in today's Cooking-Up column.

By MARY WINCKEL

Now that those hot summer days have vanished, our minds begin to wander back to the kitchen and tasty dishes we can serve our families. Chilly mornings are a good time for baking, especially now that the festive holidays are near.

Mrs. John Beis of Bertrand enjoys her kitchen and is always trying out new recipes, as well as making frequent used old ones. Her 4-year-old- son Andy is a willing assistant, and her husband does the sampling and judging.

Mrs. Beis, her husband and son moved to Bertrand four years ago from Perryville. Her husband is employed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, and she is a housewife who enjoys sewing, arts and crafts, camping and, most of all, cooking.

In sharing a few of her favorite recipes, Mrs. Beis says Scalloped Egg Plant is good served anytime, whether it be for Sunday dinner or for those special holidays, and Taglarine — a ground beef dish — can be prepared ahead of time and frozen.

Then when your family or guests can't endure the thought of turkey or ham, simply pull this dish from the freezer and pop into the oven while still entertaining your guests. Later, a tossed salad and homemade rolls prepared ahead of time will show what a thoughtful hostess you are.

If you want to relax with company, plan your menus early and do as much as possible in advance. Holidays are for you, too, so don't spend all your time in the kitchen.

SCALLOPED EGG PLANT

⅛ beaten egg
½ cup milk
2 tbsp. melted butter
1 small onion chopped
1 cup dry bread or cracker crumbs

Pare eggplant, cut into one-inch pieces and cook in salted boiling water eight minutes. Drain; add egg, milk, butter, onion and bread crumbs.

Place in greased baking dish, top with buttered crumbs bake in moderate oven at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

For Spanish Eggplant, substitute 1½ cups of canned tomatoes for milk and sprinkle one-half cup of grated American cheese over top. Serves six.

TAGLARINE

2 lbs. ground beef
1 large button garlic
1 large cnion
1 large green pepper

Sear meat in bacon fat. Chop onion, garlic and pepper and cook with meat. Salt and pepper, add one quart can of tomato juice and one can of tomato puree. Reserve part of tomato juice to add if needed. Cook five minutes add one can of cream style corn and one can mushrooms. Cook five minutes more; add one-half of 12-ounce package of real fine noodles, and cook until well done. Pour into baking dish, sprinkle with lots of cheese.

RUM PECAN PUMPKIN PIE

1½ cups canned or fresh pumpkin
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. ginger
½ tsp. nutmeg
3 eggs
1 cup milk
¾ cup cream or evaporated milk
¼ cup dark rum
½ cup pecans or walnuts
Golden pastry for one crust

Mix pumpkin, sugar, salt and spices; add eggs and liquid and blend well. Pour into pastry lined pan that has been sprinkled with chopped nuts. Cook at 425 degrees for 15 mins. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees and bake 30 or 40 minutes longer. Serve with whipped cream and spiced with a little ginger.

PRUNE CAKE

3 eggs
1 cup vegetable oil
1½ cups sugar
2 cups flour
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. allspice
1 cup butter milk
1 cup chopped prunes (cooked)
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

Blend sugar and oil, add eggs. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add vanilla, nuts and prunes. Pour into buttered pan. Cook for 45 minutes at 300 degrees.

FROSTING

Frosting

1 cup sugar
½ cup buttermilk
½ tsp. soda
¼ cup butter
½ tsp. vanilla

Boil mixture to good brisk boil and pour over cake without any beating.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

No one is more thrilled than I that movies are finally getting around to entertaining us with national disasters like floods, hurricanes and earthquakes.

The animals were beginning to get on my nerves. Oh, the Disney movies were harmless enough with Flipper laughing out loud when you fell out of the boat, and Gentle Ben smelling up the house with his bad breath, and Joy Adamson in Born Free running through 8,000 miles of game preserve and throwing her arms around just the right lion. (I've had my luggage eight years and still have to check the claim ticket.)

But then things got out of hand. Next thing you know little kids were teaching rats to kill on command. Birds were scaring Tippi Hedren half to death by aiming for her eyes . Snakes were taking over submarines which could demoralize a Navy. Frogs started to eat the theater patrons. Flies threatened to take over political parties and locusts were having New Jersey for lunch.

I became so suspicious of animals that one day at a picnic an ant scurried under a rock and I clubbed him to death with a tire iron just to make sure he didn't turn on me.

The only drawback I can see to bringing disasters to the screen is that we are limited. As I see it, there are possibly only 9 natural calamities: earthquakes,tidal waves, floods, hurricanes, volcanic eruptions, tornados, cyclones, typhoons and avalanches. I mean, how many times can Hollywood scare you to death by having you come face to face with Shelley Winters in a wet suit?

American theater goers have become mmune to fear. We are going to have to do better than to have the theater move while showing Charlton Heston during an earthquake.

To me, there are national disasters that haven't been explored yet.

How about a movie showing a 47-year-old woman being told by her obstetrician that she is expecting?

Or a man who is signing the papers on a $150,000 dream house and notices a termite just ate the pencil?

Or the man who discovers his septic tank is under his swimming pool?

Now that makes your flesh crawl.

Holiday Favorites From England, Updated

Many foods which we enjoy during the holiday season have been passed down from our European ancestors. American homemakers enjoy making and serving these perrenial favorites, but often need recipes that fit into their modern lifestyles.

If you're looking for a fruitcake recipe with Old-World flavor, try this one, adapted for today's homemakers in The Kraft Kitchens. Yuletide Fruitcake is a satisfying, but not too sweet cake, which can be classified inbetween the dark, brandy-soaked version and the delicate white fruitcake.

The use of vegetable oil in the recipe facilitates easy mixing — it's done completely by hand. Apple jelly lends a simple and different glaze to this fruitcake. You'll find Yuletide Fruitcake stays moist, even after cutting, and that's especially important during the holidays when guests drop in throughout the week.

The English serve their fruitcake, or Christmas Cake as it's called, at tea. But whether it's on your menu for an afternoon or evening get-together, serve it with Syllabub, a frothy drink, also of English origin.

Originally, Syllabub was really a "bub" (the Elizabethan slang for bubbling drink), and had to be served immediately after mixing because of the use of champagne and stiffly beaten egg whites. Today's syllabub depends upon marshmallow cream instead of egg whites, and white wine rather than champagne, making it a delightful holiday beverage that can be made a few hours before guests arrive and refrigerated.

Yuletide Fruitcake

2 cups ready-to-use mincement
1⅔ cups mixed diced candied fruit
1½ cups chopped pecans
¾ cup chopped dates
3 cups flour
1 cup sugar
1½ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs, beaten
¾ cup Kraft Oil
2 teaspoons vanilla

* * *

Kraft Pure Apple Jelly

Heat oven to 300°. Combine mincemeat, candied fruit, nuts and dates. Add combined dry ingredients; mix well. Combine eggs, oil and vanilla; stir into fruit mixture. Spoon into greased and floured 10-inch tube pan. Bake at 300°, 1 hour and 45 minutes. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Heat jelly until melted; glaze cake. Decorate with candied cherry halves and pecan halves, if desired.

Syllabub

1 7-oz. jar Kraft Marshmallow Creme
½ cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
2 cups dry white wine
½ cup brandy
1 qt. milk
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Combine marshmallow creme, lemon juice and rind; mix until well blended. Stir in wine and brandy. Gradually beat in milk. Fold in whipped cream; chill.

Approximately 2½ quarts.

Dear Santa

Dear Santa,

My name is Leslie Ann. I am 4 years old. I have been a bad girl, this year, but I'll try to be better next year.

Would you please bring me something nice for Christmas?

Don't forget to bring my brothers something too. Stevie wants a paint set, Jimmy wants a shotgun, and bring Marty, a girlfriend. Don't forget my Momma and Daddy.

I'll see you real soon. Don't forget we moved.

Love, Leslie Ann

P.S. Be sure to bring my grandma's and grandpa's something nice, and Aunt Jean too.

Bees may travel 13,000 miles to make a pound of honey.

Dear Santa

Dear Santa,

My name is Angie and I am almost 7. I am in the first grade and can write my own letter for the first time. I am learning to read in school, too, so Mom says she can't spell around me anymore.

I've tried hard to be good this year, but I sometimes forget. Please bring me a Barbie Fun Center, a Sno-Cone Machine, some cake mixes for my Easy-Bake Oven, and some new books.

My brother Mark is almost two years old now and watches tv commercials. He says he wants a Digger Dog, a Tonka Dump Truck, a Play Action Garage, and some Lincoln Logs.

If we're asking for too much, Santa, please share our toys with some poorer children who don't have many. Daddy tells us Christmas is Jesus' birthday and we should be kind to others not only at Christmas, but all year long.

Your friend,
Angie Fortner

Dr. Lamb

This rash isn't syphilis

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — We are hearing so much about syphilis today, I wish you would give me a few pointers. Is old age syphilis and the syphilis young people have the same disease?

I have heard the chancre is the first sign and would that come on the buttocks, and would it come in the same place three or four times a year? Does it itch?

I have heard something about a rash, is that so?

DEAR READER — Syphilis is a contagious disease, and the same germ causes it in all age groups. Even if you are 100 and are exposed to the germ and do not have immunity you may develop the disease.

People often think of syphilis as a disease of young people, but it is important in today's free, uninhibited society to remember that age is no protection. Older people are far more active sexually than used to be appreciated. With the lessening of prejudices against older people, there have been some further changes in sexual behavior which increases the chances of venereal disease in this age group.

The chancre is the same in all ages. It is a small sore and commonly appears on the sexual organs, not the buttocks. It occurs only once in the first few weeks of the illness and does not occur again. It is painless and does not itch. If you have a rash and it itches, it is not syphilis. The rash that occurs later in untreated syphilis doesn't itch.

Some people who have had untreated syphilis develop an immunity and in effect the disease is cured by the body's own defense mechanism. These people are not likely to get syphilis again any more than you are apt to get chicken pox again, if you have already had it. They won't transmit the disease, either.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have two daughters, aged 5 and 1. My older daughter has had the smallpox vaccination. My doctor recently told me the shot was not necessary any longer. This worries me. If all children stop receiving it, isn't an outbreak of smallpox possible, as with the case of measles?

DEAR READER — The World Health Organization thinks that smallpox is on its way to being an extinct disease — the world's first example of complete disappearance of a disease from the globe.

Smallpox is dependent upon humans to survive. When the number of cases of human smallpox becomes so small the organisms can't produce enough new organisms to avoid becoming extinct. It is something like the wildlife problem. If the population gets too small for a species, they become extinct.

Even the recent outbreak of smallpox in Asia does not dampen the World Health Organization hopes. So, very soon now there should never be another outbreak of even one case of smallpox anywhere on the earth. The risk is already so small that the risk of vaccination complications is greater than that of getting the disease itself. You can stop worrying about that problem.

Americans to collect in settlement

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Up to a million persons in six states will divide $25 million by next spring in an antitrust settlement from five major drug companies, according to directors in charge of refunding the money. But one claimant who may run into difficulty is Eva Gabor.

A clerk said Monday that the actress submitted a form requesting a refund but didn't list her age. The form was sent back, the clerk said. She didn't know if Miss Gabor had returned it.

The refunds are for persons who bought medicines containing the drug tetracyclene from 1954 to 1966. A class action suit accused the companies — American Cyanamid, Bristol-Myers, Pfizer, Olin and Upjohn — of overpricing the drugs. The firms settled the suit for $39 million, of which about $14 million will go to various state agencies.

Actress files for divorce

ESTES PARK, Colo. (AP) — Actress Sue Lyon and an inmate at the Colorado State Penitentiary were married at the prison a year ago this mnth. Now, she has filed for divorce.

Miss Lyons' lawyer, Joseph P. Jenkins, said divorce papers were filed Tuesday, claiming the marriage to convicted murderer Cotton Adamson is "irretrievably broken."

Miss Lyons, 28, who starred in "Lolita" at age 14, had been living near the prison and visiting Adamson regularly. Jenkins said she moved to the mountain resort town of Estes Park about a month ago.

The life you take may be your own

By Tom Tiede

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One of the arguments against legalizing abortion has been that once society begins to violate the sanctity of life a little, the door is open to violate it a lot.

Accustomed to terminating the "life" of unwanted fetuses the argument goes, the nation is increasingly discussing the possibilities of eliminating other burdensome beings.

Regularly, the press reports new concepts of euthanasia and beyond. Fr. Frichard McCormack, learned Jesuit of Georgetown University, has announced his support for the removal of newborn infants with deformed bodies who have no potential for human relations.

A Florida state legislator, Walter Sackett, has introduced a bill which would allow the "mercy killing" of Mongoloids and other retarded people.

Then there is the hospital in Coral Gables, Fla., which recently went to court to evict a 21-year-old patient who has been in a coma for 16 months; the hospital says the patient is terminal, expensive, and it wants the bed space.

But the boldest concept of all, at least the most far-reaching, has come from a respected Washington physician who is calling for the creation of committees which would be empowered to decide "when life may be terminated in these people who no longer live in a productive manner."

Dr. Darrell C. Crain, past president of the D.C. medical society and now head of this town's Arthritis Rehabilitation Center, says large numbers of old, sick and handicapped people are being "kept alive without any particular purpose."

The trend here is not merely academic. It is real. Dr. Robert Veach of the Institute of Social Ethics and the Life Sciences, a professional who monitors the pulse of opinion concerning life and death, says the movement toward expanding euthanasia is currently on the threshhold of "experiments at the hospital level." He says he knows of no experiments going on now — nor does the American Medical Association, nor the National Institute of Health — but he regards the eventuality as not just likely but "probable."

Already, as a practical if not always legal matter, euthanasia of various sorts is fairly common. There are numbers of infants born with grotesque maladies — "God only knows how many," says an AMA spokesman — who are killed in secret by delivering doctors.

And to be sure, there are growing numbers of physicians willing to let their patients or their patients' families decide questions of life and death. Subscribing to the theory of "the right of a man to die with dignity," doctors normally do not induce death in these cases but instead withdraw life-preserving medical techniques.

Taken individually, most areas of euthanasia as practiced today have compelling, always merciful, rationales. Doctors who destroy deformed infants are saving the children from lives of horror. Yet the gnawing reality remains that, taken as a whole, a trend Dr. Veach describes as "terribly dangerous," may be developing.

Who will be next, in other words, to be classified as unwanted, inhuman, unnecessary, unproductive; who will be next to be eliminated?

The question may be "Strangelovian" but then so is the answer. Dr. Crane has said it to the unproductive. It may still be ridiculous to imagine a social order so efficient or pressed as to legalize the elimination of the enfeebled or the senile — yet tomorrow is another day.

Facing it, we might do well to remember the story of the society which one day democratically voted to send all people over 65 to a camp to await euthanasia. All went well until each voter himself reached 65 and then, too late, realized the error.

Senator favors commission

By NELSON B. TINNIN
State Senator

There has been much discussion during the past sevearal months concerning the advantages or disadvantages of Missouri's regional planning commissions.

I have had the opportunity to work with three Regional Planning Commissions in the past years while serving in the Missouri Senate: The Bootheel, the Ozark Foothills, and the South Central Ozarks. I have taken time out of my schedule to serve on the Goals Committee of all three Commissions, not just as a State Senator but as an interested citizen of my community; and I have worked with all the Commissions toward implementation of various projects and programs.

If someone were to ask me the reason I have supported the Regional Planning Commission Concept in Missouri, the answer is two-fold.

In Jefferson City, we are faced yearly with legislation designed to solve problems which are prevalent Statewide and with appropriations to a multitude of State agencies for the implementation and enforcement of this legislation. However, many of us in the Missouri General Assembly recognized that there were many problems suffered by local governments, counties and cities, which could not be solved through State Legislation; and because of the tax burden imposed upon the citizens of Miassouri by the State and federal governments, adequate resources were not available on the local level to hire the professional staffs necessary to solve these problems.

The second reason, and equally important, is the realization by many that numerous problems are unique to individual political jurisdictions and by the naure of the problem must be handled individually. There are problems, however, which are common to many areas of our State which could be dealt with collectively by member governments within a certain area or Region.

This does not mean that the local governments must join together through consolidation to solve the problems. This mearely means that through cooperation of local units of governments, common problems can be solved. To more clearly understand this reason, we must realize that because of todays technology, problems do not always stop at political subdivision boundaries; but certain problems are shared by many political subdivisions. Citizens residing in one city within an area may depend upon another city for health care, retail goods, wholesale goods, or industrial jobs. In turn, those persons who reside in the city which provides these goods or services depend upon the total area for the sale of these goods and services.

There is therefore, some dependency, one on the other, and hence the need of co-operation between political subdivisions to assure adequate transportation facilities, law enforcement, industrial development, community services and health care for all persons living within an area.

Only through the co-operation of local elected officials can a total area or region be improved which is the reason I support the regional planning commissions.

What then is a regional planning commission? A regional planning commission in Missouri is a voluntary association of local governments, authorized by law and operated under the jurisdiction of its local government members. The authority of regional planning commissions in Missouri is limited by law to an advisory function only. It may not regulate, enforce or control. It does, however, provide a strong collective voice in dealing with Jefferson City and Washington, D. C.

One of my colleagues in the Missouri Senate has indictated that regional planning commissions in Missouri are a bureaucracy and, therefore, should be eliminated. It is quite evident that this individual does not understand the regional planning commission concept in Missouri, and in essence, through such advocation suggests that local governments do not need assistance and must look to the state and federal governments for the necessary expertise to solve local problems. I suggest that the state and federal bureaucracies are not as aware of the problems and needs of the various area of our State as those local elected officials who every day must answer to the public.

I further suggest that, in the past, State and Federal Bureaucrats have put forth inacceptable and unworkable solutions to the local problems either by being unable to relate to all areas of the State or by applying blanket solutions to the State.

I would much prefer that the local elected officials and local governments be sgrengthened by providing them professional staffs, in an advisory capacity, responsible to them and working with them so that the local elected officials can develop adequate solutioins to the problems. In essence, my colleague, through his advocacy of the elimination of regional planning commissions, would in effect propose to weaken local government by taking away a most valuable resource.

Another issue which has been discussed is that regional planning commissions are a tool of the federal government for the purpose of forcing local governments to comply with federal regulations. I have long been concerned with the "Big Brotherism Approach" practiced by the federal government and I have disagreed with many of the regulations placed upon rural Missouri by the State Legislature under the guise of compliance with federal regulations or passed as the result of a threat by the federal government of the withholding of funds from some federal program until such a law is passed.

The eliminiation of regional planning commissions in Missouri will not change these federal regulations or practices. This change can only come about through the Congress or through interpretatins by the courts. The elimination of regional planning commissions would perpetuate such practrices, in that, a valuable tool would be taken from local governments which they have used as a resource to comply with or respond to such regulations.

We must remember that the staffs of regional planning commissions work for the local elected officials and would be more responsive to that elected official than a bureaucrat in Washington or Jefferson City.

A final issue which has in effect become the major issue concerning the value of regional planning commissions is land use control. I have long been an opponent of the "Wild Rivers Bill" and similar legislation concerning the control of privately owned land by the federal and state government. I have alsoserved as chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee for many years; and, prior to my election to the Missuri Senate, I served on the Soil and Water Conservation Commission, taught vocational agriculture and farmed.

Over the years, I have supported land use planning on individual farms to improve corp yields, prevent erosion and improve drainage, however, such controls were voluntary on the part of the individual farmer. The degree of farm management or land use planning was dependent upon the individual farmer and this also is the case with land use planning and land use control as they relate to individual cities or counties.

Control of land use by local government may be extremely necessary in some areas; and, conversely, unnecessary in other areas of our State. This is the responsibility of local government to determine and not the responsibility of the state or fedreal governments. In Missouri, land use controls can only be established by a vote of the people. (Chapter 64.800 to 64.905 R.S. Mo) To say that the use of all land use controls is bad is not fair because we then take away a tool from local government which could be necesaary to solve a local problem. The determination as to the need for land use controls must be decided by the people they affect and the emphasis on land use planning by planning commissions is in direct proportion to the demand for land use planning activities by member governments.

In closing, as a citizen of Missouri and my community, I would like to commend the efforts of Missouri's Regional Planning Commissions; and those local elected officials who have worked within their individual commission toward improvement of our area.

I would further suggest that for those of you who are not acquainted with the work of these Commissions, contact the Commission offices; or better yet, attend a Commission meeting to become better informed as to the programs of the individual Commission. By working with the Planning Commissions, we can hopefully strengthen the cornerstone of our system — local government.

Inflation seminar is held

COLUMBIA — The presence of both inflation and recession at the same time in the U.S. economy is very disturbing.

This is one of numerous points economists agreed on at a seminar on inflation held for 50 agricultural leaders Nov. 22 at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Other points of agreement were: The current inflation is a serious and persistent problem; the causes are complex and interrelated; and there is little hope for quick and easy solutions.

The discussion dealt at length on the question of how the U.S. can have recession and double digit inflation at the same time.

"The extent to which we answer this question will determine whether we have an opportunity for any satisfactory long run solution," according to Sheldon Stahl, vice-president and senior economist, Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City.

He said increasing economic concentration has been the cause of much of the problem. Some industries and labor groups have the power to maintain or increase prices or wages in spite of slack in the economy and high unemployment.

V. J. Rhodes, UMC agricultural economist, said he supported a proposal of far tougher anti-trust policy that weakens the market power of industries and unions which seem ready to accept almost any level of unemployment in order to enforce their price and wage demands.

"But I must admit that our history suggests that our anti-trust policy is not likely to be tough enough to make much difference," Rhodes said.

Another proposal, made by Stahl, was to examine the many regulatory agencies, such as the ICC, which came into being to promote competition on behalf of the consumer. He said that in some cases they appear to be stifling competition in the interests of the industries they are supposed to regulate.

Another UMC economist, Mona Dingle, warned against trying to make fiscal and monetary policy do too much too fast.

"I think it is essential that monetary and fiscal policy avoid being overly expansionary in a shortsighted attempt to jack up employment slightly at the expense of accelerating inflation in the future," she said.

The huge amounts of money being paid to the Mideast countries for oil has added another element of instability to the international money situation, according to Wayen Leeman, UMC economist. He said that right now much of this money is being invested in the U.S. on a short term basis. If the Mideast countries for oil has added another element of instability to the international money situation, according to Wayne Leeman, UMC economist. He said that right now much of this money is being invested in the U.S. on a short term basis. If the Mideast countries get jittery about the health of the U. S. economy, they might pull these funds out quickly, causing even more instability.

Summing up the session, Harold Breimyer, UMC agricultural economist said, "There would be nothing worse than letting inflation really run away with us."

The UMC agricultural economists are working with extension specialists throughout the state in setting up a series of area meetings to discuss inflation.

Service has its price

Comparison shopping entails more than simply checking price tags. A lower price may mean a real bargain, but the difference may result from limited customer services such as delivery, credit, installation, repair and maintenance.

Decide whether these services are important to you. If they are, you may be better off with the seemingly higher price.

Different types of stores, from department to specialty shops, through discount stores and warehouses, offer different services and thus may vary widely in merchandise prices.

Look around to find the stores that offer the most appropriate merchandise, services and prices. Don't forget though, the amount saved by comparison shopping, especially for low-priced items, may not be worth the cost in time, energy and shopping expenses.

OVEN FOR ALL

If you have to heat the oven for one dish, try to use it for the entire meal that night. Two or three dishes can be baked with little more energy than one.

Pick foods that cook at about the same temperature. With a little premeditation, you can still arrange to have everything finish at the same time.

Then go it one better and use the oven for a cake or other baked desert after you've removed the roast or casserole.

COLOR IT BLUE

If the gas flame of your stove isn't blue, you aren't getting the most energy for your money, because it isn't operating correctly.

If the flame has traces of yellow, the burners may be clogged. Clean them (after they've thoroughly cooled) with a wire pipe cleaner.

Also, keep reflector pans clean to maximize efficiency — the shinier they are the more heat they will reflect, thus saving energy.

A WARMER RADIATOR

If you paint your radiator or baseboard heating panels, use an enamel or nonmetallic paint.

Metallic or flat paints can reduce heating efficiency by up to 25 per cent.

Keep room heating units clean. Vacuum them periodically, having removed radiator covers. If you don't, a layer of dust may form in the radiator, insulating the unit and reducing efficiency.

(Have you a clever way to save energy or fight inflation? Send your idea to The Inflation Fighter in care of this newspaper. The best ideas will be used in future columns, and their authors will be rewarded with a free copy of the $1.50 book "Save Money-Save Gas.")

Washington report

Salary cut proposed

By By STUART SYMINGTON
U.S. Senator

WASHINGTON, D.C.--At a press conference in Missouri on Oct. 25, I suggested the President, as well as members of Congress, take a reduction in salary to set an example for the nation, thereby helping curb and hold down the cost of running the government.

Following through on that suggestion, on Nov. 25, I introduced legislation to provide salary reductions for the Congress, the President and other top level positions in the legislative and executive departments.

The bill would provide that, effective Jan. 1, 1975, the salaries of all government employes of the legislative and executive branches earning $40,000 or more, including the President, senators and representatives, be reduced by 10 per cent.

Today in U. S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Dec. 4, the 338th day of 1974. There are 27 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1851, a workers' rebellion broke out in Paris and was suppressed by Louis Napoleon. The event is known in French history as the December Four Massacre.

On this date —

In 1783, George Washington, quitting as Commander in Chief, had a farewell dinner with his officers at Fraunces Tavern in New York.

In 1816, James Monroe was elected the fifth U.S. president.

In 1875, the New York Tammany leader, Boss Tweed, escaped from prison. He later was captured in Spain.

In 1942, in World War II, American bombers hit the Italian mainland for the first time.

In 1943, President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill held their second wartime meeting in Cairo.

In 1945, the U.S. Congress approved U.S. participation in the United Nations.

Ten years ago: The FBI arrested the sheriff of Neshoba County, Mississippi and 20 other white men in connection with the murder of three civil rights workers.

Five years ago: President Nixon announced that Judge Clement Haynesworth would retain his position as chief judge of the U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals although denied a Supreme Court seat.

One year ago: President Nicolae Ceausescu of Rumania arrived in Washington for talks with President Nixon on trade and Middle East hostilities.

Today's birthday: Spanish Chief of State Francisco Franco is 82.

Thought for today: If you would be wealthy, think of saving as well as of getting — Benjamin Franklin, 1706-1790.
